Introduction

WHAT IS IELTS?

IELTS, the International English Language Testing System, is an English language proficiency exam that tests listening, reading, writing, and speaking skills. There are over 1,000 test centers in more than 140 countries around the world. Over 9,000 organizations, including universities, government agencies, and private companies, accept IELTS test scores.

There are two versions of the test—Academic and General Training. The Academic version is for students who want to pursue a university education in an English-speaking country. The General Training test is for people who need to demonstrate English language proficiency for work, training programs, secondary education, or immigration to certain countries.

HOW TO USE THIS BOOK

This book will help you prepare for the writing section of the IELTS test whether you are planning to take the Academic or the General Training version. Both versions of the test include a writing section with two tasks.

The organization of this book follows the criteria IELTS examiners use to score your writing. If you study everything in this book, you will score well.

- Task Achievement/Task Response
- Coherence and Cohesion
- Lexical Resource
- Grammatical Range and Accuracy

In the Task Achievement/Task Response chapter, you will learn to follow a three-step model for creating an essay:

- STEP 1 Plan
- STEP 2 Write
- STEP 3 Revise

You will learn how to apply this model to each of the IELTS writing tasks. Study the sections of this chapter that focus on the version of the test that you plan to take—Academic or General Training.

Each section leads you step by step through the process of writing an essay in response to that particular task. Therefore, you should work your way through each section from beginning to end. As you study a section, you will become familiar with the types of questions you will have to respond to on the IELTS. You will also learn to complete your responses within the time limits of the test.

When you respond to the IELTS writing tasks, you must write clearly, coherently, and correctly. The next three chapters of this book will help you do that. They will help you develop skills you will need for both the Academic and General Training versions of the test.

In the Coherence and Cohesion chapter, you will practice organizing your writing and connecting your ideas. In the Lexical Resource chapter, you will learn how to develop your vocabulary and use it correctly. In the Grammatical Range and Accuracy chapter, you will review grammar rules and practice applying them to your writing.

You can work through these chapters in order. Or, you can focus first on the parts that address your weakest areas. Then, you can use the rest for review and practice.

In the Appendix you will find a More Writing Practice section with a selection of essays written in response to IELTS writing tasks. You can study the essays as models of good writing. You can also use this section for further practice by writing your own responses to the tasks included in the section.

IELTS WRITING SCORES

Scores for the IELTS writing tasks are reported in a scale of bands, ranging from Band 0 to Band 9. Each band represents a level of ability. Scores are based on the following criteria.

TASK ACHIEVEMENT (TASK 1): To achieve a high score, you must write a well-developed report that completely addresses all parts of the task.

TASK RESPONSE (TASK 2): To achieve a high score, you must address all parts of the task in a well-developed essay that presents a clear position supported with relevant ideas.

COHERENCE AND COHESION: To achieve a high score, your ideas and information must follow a logical organization (coherence), and you must use a range of cohesive devices skillfully.

LEXICAL RESOURCE: To achieve a high score, you must use a wide range of vocabulary fluently with few errors.

GRAMMATICAL RANGE AND ACCURACY: To achieve a high score, you must use a wide range of grammatical structures fluently and accurately with few errors.

For a complete description of the writing task bands, visit the IELTS website: http://www.ielts.org/researchers/score_processing_and_reporting.aspx#Writing

TIPS

Before the test

- Practice writing within time limits. You can use the tasks in the More Writing Practice section of the Appendix for practice. Give yourself 20 minutes to complete a Task 1 response and 40 minutes to complete a Task 2 response.
- Become familiar with word count. On the IELTS, you will write your essays by hand. You will have to write a minimum of 150 words for Task 1 and 250 words for Task 2, but you won't be able to take the time to count your words. As you practice writing essays at home, count your words. You will become familiar with what 150 words and 250 words look like in your handwriting.
- To prepare for Academic Task 1, take some time to study a variety of graphs, charts, and tables. You can find many on the Internet. Practice reading them and interpreting the information.

During the test

- Read the task carefully and make sure you understand exactly what it asks you to do.
- Do not copy complete sentences from the task. Paraphrase and use synonyms. You will learn how to do this in Chapters 1 and 3.
- Write in complete sentences. You can make notes in abbreviated form when you plan, but your finished essay must have complete sentences and paragraphs.
- Vary your sentences. Use sentence structures that you know you can use correctly, but do not write the same type of sentence over and over. In Chapter 4, you will get practice with different sentence types.
- Learn and use the three-step model presented in this book—plan, write, revise. It will help you write a complete and organized response to both tasks. Following a model will give you confidence.

ACADEMIC WRITING TASK 1: CHARTS, GRAPHS, TABLES

TIME

You will have 60 minutes to complete the writing part of the test. You should allow 20 minutes for Task 1. Divide your time as follows:

Total time 20 minutes

STEP 1 Plan 5 minutes

STEP 2 Write 12 minutes

STEP 3 Revise 3 minutes

LENGTH

You must write at least 150 words. You can write more.

TIPS

- Use only the information provided in the task. Do not include outside information or your own opinion.
- Ask yourself questions to focus on the task:
 - What is this graphic about?
 - Which are the most important details?

SCORE

To receive a good score

- address all parts of the task
- accurately summarize the information
- make meaningful comparisons
- end with a brief overview of the information
- use correct grammar, spelling, and punctuation
- write in complete sentences
- use your own words; do not copy exact sentences from the task

STEP 1: PLAN

Spend about 5 minutes on planning before you start writing. Planning will make sure you include all the necessary information.

Address the Task

In Task 1, you will see a graphic. This graphic may be a graph, chart, or table. (The graphic might also be a diagram describing a process. See the following section (page 47) for information on process diagrams.) You will be asked to describe the information shown in the graphic and make comparisons. You must immediately recognize the type of graphic and its features. This will help you address the task.

PRACTICE 1

Look at the following tasks and graphics. Write the letter of each graphic or set of graphics next to the corresponding task.

The bar graph below shows the number of tourists visiting two different cities by season.

Summarize the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

The pie charts below show the form of transportation to work normally used by workers in a particular city.

Summarize the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

The line graph below shows the number of single-family homes constructed in the United States by region over a period of six years.

Summarize the information by selecting and reporting in the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

The table below shows the number of hours per week people of different ages spend using the Internet for different types of activities.

Summarize the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

The pie charts below show enrollment in different fields of study at a particular university.

Determine the Topic

In Task 1, you will be asked to summarize the information on the graphic by selecting and reporting on the main features. The main features will help you determine the details of the topic of the graphic.

To identify the main details of the graphic, first read the task and identify the type of graphic. Second, read the title of the graphic and scan the features. To focus your thoughts, ask yourself Who? What? When? and Where? Use this information to determine the details of the topic.

When? winter and summer
Topic: the average number of servings of certain food items sold daily in the winter and in the summer

II The graph below shows the number of cell phone subscribers in a particular city, by gender.
Summarize the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

Graphic type: line graph
Title: Cell Phone Subscribers, Marysville

Make Notes About Comparisons

In Task 1, you will be asked to make comparisons where relevant. When you look at a graphic, look for things you can compare. The graphic might show, for example, different places, types of people, types of activities, products, and/or changes over time. Look for similarities and differences among these things.

In Practice 2 (page 11), you asked yourself Who? What? When? and Where? about the graphics. Use this same information to find comparisons.

Look at these examples.

I

Average Daily Sales, by Number of Servings

Graphic type: bar graph

Title: Average Daily Sales, by Number of Servings

What? average daily sales

When? winter and summer

Topic: the average daily sales of selected food items in the winter and in the summer

When we write about Graphic I, we can make two kinds of comparisons:

- 1 the average daily sales of selected food items in winter
- 2 the average daily sales of selected food items in summer

II The line graph below shows the number of cell phone subscribers in a particular city, by gender.
Summarize the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

Who? men and women

When? 1995–2015

Where? Marysville

Topic: The number of men and women cell phone subscribers in Marysville from 1995 to 2015

When we write about Graphic II, we can make two kinds of comparisons:

- 1 the number of men cell phone subscribers in different years
- 2 the number of women cell phone subscribers in different years

PRACTICE 3

Look at the information you completed in Practice 2 (page 11). Use this information to determine the comparisons you can make for each of the graphics from Practice 1 (pages 7–8).

Make Notes About Details

In Practice 3 (page 14) you determined the possible comparisons in a graphic. Now, you will look for the details that describe the comparisons.

Look for where things change. Look for where numbers go up or down. Look for where the biggest differences are.

For Graphic I on page 12, we determined these two comparisons:

- 1 the average daily sales of different food items in winter.....
- 2 the average daily sales of different food items in summer.....

The relevant details will be about how many servings of each item were sold. Look at the following details for Graphic I.

Comparison

- 1 the average daily sales of different food items in winter.....

Details

- A highest number of sales—hot coffee—75.....
- B second highest number of sales—soup—50.....
- C salad and ice cream sales—25 each.....
- D lowest number of sales—iced coffee—almost 0.....

Comparison

- 2 the average daily sales of different food items in summer.....

Details

- A highest number of sales—iced coffee—40.....
- B second highest number of sales—ice cream—35.....
- C hot coffee sales—30.....
- D lowest number of sales—soup and salad—25 each.....

PRACTICE 4

Look at the graphics in Practice 1 (pages 7–8). Use the comparisons you determined for each of the graphics in Practice 3 (page 14) to determine the relevant details for each graphic. Find between two and four details for each comparison.

STEP 2: WRITE

After you plan, you are ready to write. You will use your notes about the task, topic, comparisons, and details as a guide. You should take about 12 minutes to write your essay.

Write the Introduction

The introduction tells what you will write about. In Task 1, you are asked to summarize and compare. In your introduction, tell what you will summarize and compare.

Write the Topic Sentence

For the first sentence of the introduction, write a topic sentence that summarizes the information in the graphic. In Practice 2 (page 11), you identified the main features of the graphic and determined the topic. Now you will change those notes into a topic sentence. Do NOT copy exact phrases and sentences from the task and graphic title. Paraphrase by using other phrases and synonyms to express the same ideas. See Chapter 3 (page 187) for more information on synonyms.

Look at these examples.

Graphic 1

Task

The graph below shows the average daily sales of selected food items at the Vista Café, by season.

Notes

Graphic type: bar graph
Title: Average Daily Sales, by Number of Servings
Topic: the average daily sales of selected food items in the winter and in the summer

Topic sentence

The bar graph shows how many servings of certain food items sold on average every day in two different seasons at the Vista Café.

Discussion

This topic sentence mentions the main features of the graphic. It avoids copying exact phrases and sentences from the task and graphic title by using the phrase how many instead of the number of, certain instead of selected, and every day instead of daily.

Graphic II

The graph below shows the number of cars sold in two different cities.

Notes

Graphic type: line graph
Title: Cell Phone Subscribers, Marysville
Topic: The number of men and women cell phone subscribers in Marysville from 1995 to 2015

Topic sentence

The graph shows how many men and women in Marysville paid for cell phone service from 1995 to 2015.

Discussion

This topic sentence mentions the main features of the graphic. It avoids copying exact phrases and sentences from the task and graphic title by using the words how many instead of the number of and the phrase paid for cell phone service instead of subscribers.

PRACTICE 5

Find the synonym for each of the following words and phrases. Write the letter of the synonym in the blank.

Words/Phrases

Synonyms

- | | | | |
|----|---------------------|---|-----------------|
| 1 | construct | A | various |
| 2 | region | B | how many |
| 3 | the number of | C | female |
| 4 | visit | D | male |
| 5 | different | E | during the week |
| 6 | type | F | people who ride |
| 7 | passengers | G | build |
| 8 | on weekdays | H | spend time in |
| 9 | men | I | kind |
| 10 | women | J | area |

PRACTICE 6

Rewrite the following topic sentences by using synonyms for the underlined sections.

- 1 The graph shows the number of schools constructed in each region of the country in 2014.

- 2 The graph shows the number of people who visited the Palm Island Resort in each of the years from 2010 to 2015.

.....

- 3 The charts show the percentages of men and women shoppers who shopped at Mayfield's Clothing Store at different times of the day.

- 4 The table shows the different types of career interests reported by students at Bingham University.

- 5 The graph shows the number of bus passengers in the city on weekdays.

Make a Statement About Comparisons

The first sentence of your introduction is the topic sentence. The topic sentence tells what the graphic is about. In the next sentence, tell what comparisons you will make. In Practice 3 (page 14), you made notes about comparisons. Now you will turn those notes into a sentence that tells what comparisons you will make in your essay.

Look at these examples.

Comparisons for Graphic I (page 12):

- 1 the average daily sales of selected food items in winter
- 2 the average daily sales of selected food items in summer

Topic sentence

The bar graph shows how many servings of certain food items sold on average every day in two different seasons at the Vista Café.

Second sentence

The average number of sales of each item changed with the season.

Discussion

The second sentence tells what you will compare (average number of sales of each item) and how you will compare them (changed with the season).

Comparisons for Graphic II (page 13):

- 1 the number of men cell phone subscribers in different years
- 2 the number of women cell phone subscribers in different years

Topic sentence

The graph shows how many men and women in Marysville paid for cell phone service from 1995 to 2015.

Second sentence

The number of subscribers of each gender rose at similar rates during the ten-year period.

Discussion

The second sentence tells what you will compare (number of subscribers) and how you will compare them (rose at similar rates).

PRACTICE 7

Choose the best sentence to complete the introduction for each graphic.

Comparisons

enrollment in Riverside School enrollment in Litchfield School

Introduction

The graph shows how many students were registered at Riverside School and Litchfield School in each of the years from 2011 to 2014.

- A The number of students at each school changed every year.
- B The number of students at Litchfield School went down between 2013 and 2014.
- C The number of students at both schools went up between 2011 and 2014.

Comparisons

town spending in Milford in 2010 town spending in Milford in 2015

Introduction

The charts show how the town of Milford spent its money in 2010 and 2015.

- A At least half the budget was spent on schools in both years.
- B Spending on administration went up in 2015.
- C Spending fell in some areas, while it rose in others.

Saturday	100	125	150	150
Sunday	125	100	75	50

Comparisons

- Saturday ticket sales
- Sunday ticket sales

Introduction

The table shows how many movie tickets were sold at the Springfield Cinema at different times of the weekend.

- A One hundred fifty tickets were sold at 9:00 on Saturday.
- B On Sunday the fewest tickets were sold in the evening.
- C On Saturday sales were highest in the evening, while on Sunday they were highest in the afternoon.

PRACTICE 8

Use your notes from Practice 2 (page 11) and Practice 3 (page 14) to write an introduction for an essay about each of the graphics in Practice 1 (pages 7–8). Include a topic sentence and a statement about comparisons in each introduction.

Write the Paragraphs

When you planned your essay, you made notes about comparisons and details. Now you will turn these notes into paragraphs for the body of your essay. You will write one paragraph about each comparison.

Write the Main Idea

Begin each paragraph with a main idea that summarizes the comparison you are making.

Look at these example main ideas.

Graphic 1

Comparison for Paragraph 1

the average daily sales of selected food items in winter

Main ideas

- A Certain food items had much higher sales than others in the winter.
- B People bought different food items at the Vista Café.
- C Iced coffee had the lowest number of winter sales.

Discussion

Statement A is the best main idea for the paragraph. It is a general statement about the difference in sales numbers among the selected food items. Statement B is too general. It doesn't say when people bought the items or how you will compare them. Statement C is too specific. It is only about one item.

Comparison for Paragraph 2

the average daily sales of selected food items in summer

Main ideas

- A People bought both hot coffee and iced coffee.
- B The sales numbers for each food item were different in the summer than they were in the winter.
- C Ice cream sales went up in the winter.

Discussion

Statement B is the best main idea for the paragraph. It is a general statement about what happened to the sales in the café in the summer. Statement A is too general. It doesn't tell when people bought coffee, and it doesn't tell how the sales will be compared. Statement C is too specific. It is only about one particular item.

PRACTICE 9

Choose the best main idea for each of the paragraphs for Graphic II.

Graphic II

Comparison for Paragraph 1

the number of men cell phone subscribers in different years

Main ideas

- A Cell phone subscriptions for men were higher in 2000 than they were in 1995.
- B The number of men subscribers remained the same between 2005 and 2010.
- C The number of men cell phone subscribers rose significantly between 1995 and 2015.

Comparison for Paragraph 2

the number of women cell phone subscribers in different years

Main ideas

- A Cell phone subscriptions for women went up.
- B The number of women subscribing to cell phone service rose in most years between 1995 and 2015.
- C The number of women subscribers went down between 2005 and 2010.

Write the Supporting Details

The main idea of each paragraph is followed by details that support it. Use your notes about details to write statements that support the main idea.

Look at how the notes for the first comparison for Graphic I have been turned into the supporting details of a paragraph.

1 Notes

Comparison

the average daily sales of different food items in winter

Details

A highest number of sales—hot coffee—75

B second highest number of sales—soup—50

C salad and ice cream sales—25 each

Paragraph 1

main idea → Certain food items had much higher sales than others in the winter.

Hot coffee had the highest number of sales, with an average of 75 servings sold daily. The item with the second highest number of sales was soup, with an average of 50 servings sold daily. Salad and ice cream had average daily sales of 25 servings each, and iced coffee had the lowest number of sales, with close to zero servings sold daily.

PRACTICE 10

Look at the notes and the following paragraphs for Graphics I and II (pages 25–26). In each paragraph, underline the main idea and cross out the detail that does not support it.

Graphic I

Paragraph 2

Notes

Comparison

the average daily sales of different food items in summer

Details

A highest number of sales—iced coffee—40

B second highest number of sales—ice cream—35

C hot coffee sales—30

D lowest number of sales—soup and salad—25 each

The sales numbers for each food item were different in the summer from what they were in the winter. Iced coffee sales rose significantly, to an average of 40 servings sold daily. The item with the second highest number of sales was ice cream, with an average of 35 servings sold daily. Sales of ice cream go up in the summer when the weather is hot. Hot coffee fell to daily sales of just 30 servings. Soup and salad had the lowest number of sales, with 25 servings sold daily on average.

Paragraph 1

Notes

Comparison

the number of men cell phone subscribers in different years

Details

- A a little over 500—1995
- B rose significantly to 2500 in 2005
- C stayed the same—2005–2010
- D rose again slightly 2010–2015

The number of male cell phone subscribers rose significantly between 1995 and 2015. In 1995, a little over 500 men subscribed to cell phone service. Women also subscribed to the service at that time. The number increased considerably over the next few years until it reached 2500 in the year 2005. There was no change in the number of subscribers between 2005 and 2010, but then it rose slightly between 2010 and 2015, when there were about 2750 male subscribers.

Paragraph 2

Notes

Comparison

the number of women cell phone subscribers in different years

Details

- A 500 subscribers—1995
- B increased to 2500 in 2005
- C dropped slightly, to about 2250—2005–2010
- D stayed steady 2010–2015

The number of women subscribing to cell phone service rose in most years between 1995 and 2015. Before 1995, cell phone use was not very common. In 1995, 500 women subscribed to cell phone service. By 2005, the number of female subscribers had increased to 2500. There was a slight drop between 2005 and 2010, to about 2250 subscribers, and that number stayed steady between 2010 and 2015.

PRACTICE 11

Complete the paragraphs about the bar graph using words from the charts above.

Degrees Granted, Clifford University

The number of medical degrees rose almost every year between 2012 and 2015. It 1 slightly between 2012 and 2013 from 40 degrees granted to 45. Then, in 2014, the number of degrees granted rose 2 to 70. There was a slight 3 in 2015, when about 65 medical degrees were granted at Clifford University.

The number of engineering degrees, on the other hand, dropped steadily from 2012 to 2015. It 4 from about 45 degrees granted in 2012 to 40 in 2013. In 2014 there was another 5 drop, when just 35 engineering degrees were granted. The number 6 again, to 30 degrees granted in 2015.

PRACTICE 12

Use your notes about comparisons and details from Practice 3 (page 14) and Practice 4 (page 16) to write body paragraphs for each of the graphics in Practice 1 (pages 7–8). Write one main idea and three or four supporting statements for each paragraph.

Write the Conclusion

In the conclusion, you sum up the ideas you developed in your essay. In the introduction, you made a general statement about the comparisons you planned to make. The conclusion is a restatement of these ideas.

Look at the following introduction and conclusion from an essay about Graphic I on page 25.

Introduction

The bar graph shows how many servings of certain food items sold on average every day in two different seasons at the Vista Café. The average number of sales of each item changed with the season.

Conclusion

In general, the average daily sales of each food item changed depending on the season. Certain items were more popular in the winter and certain others were more popular in the summer.

Discussion

The introduction states the comparisons that will be made in the body of the essay—the average number of sales of each item in different seasons. The conclusion makes a general statement about these comparisons—that some items had higher sales in the summer and others had higher sales in the winter.

Look at the following introduction and conclusion from an essay about Graphic II on page 26.

Introduction

The graph shows how many men and women in Marysville paid for cell phone service from 1995 to 2015. The number of subscribers of each gender rose at similar rates during the ten-year period.

Conclusion

Overall, while the numbers of both male and female subscribers rose significantly, they rose more for men.

Discussion

The introduction states the comparisons that will be made in the body of the essay—the number of male and female cell phone subscribers. The conclusion makes a general statement about these comparisons—that the rate of increase was higher for men than for women.

PRACTICE 13

On a separate sheet of paper, take the introductions you wrote in Practice 8 (page 25) and put each one together with the corresponding body paragraphs you wrote in Practice 12 (page 30). Then, complete each essay by writing an appropriate conclusion.

STEP 3: REVISE

You should allow at least 3 minutes to revise your essay after you write.

Use the Revision Checklist

When you revise, you check the content and the language of your essay. You also check to make sure the essay is clear and well organized and that you have used correct grammar and spelling. You can use this revision checklist to practice revising.

TIP

There is no need to rewrite everything. You can cross out the words you want to change and write in the corrections neatly.

Read the following model essay, and note how well it follows the items on the checklist.

The bar graph shows how many servings of certain food items are sold on average every day in two different seasons at the Vista Café. The average number of sales of each item changed with the season.

Certain food items had much higher sales than others in the winter. Hot coffee had the highest number of sales, with an average of 75 servings sold daily. Following this, the item with the second highest number of sales was soup, with an average of 50 servings sold daily. Salad and ice cream had average daily sales of 25 servings each, and iced coffee had the lowest number of sales, with close to zero servings sold daily.

The sales numbers for each food item were different in the summer from what they were in the winter. Iced coffee sales rose significantly, to an average of 40 servings sold daily. The item that had the second highest number of sales was ice cream, with an average of 35 servings sold daily. Hot coffee sales fell to just 30 servings daily. Soup and salad had the lowest number of sales, with 25 servings sold daily on average.

In general, the average daily sales of each food item changed when the season changed. Certain items were more popular in the winter, but certain others were more popular in the summer.

Check for Thesis Statement

The thesis is a statement of what the essay is about. The first sentence of this essay is the topic sentence. It briefly summarizes the information in the graph and lets the reader know that the essay is about the graph.

Thesis Statement: The bar graph shows how many servings of certain food items are sold on average every day in two different seasons at the Vista Café.

Check for Main Ideas

The main ideas support the thesis. The second sentence of this essay tells what comparisons the writer will make—the average number of sales of the food items in two different seasons. These comparisons will become the main ideas of the body paragraphs of the essay—one paragraph will be about sales in the winter season, and the other will be about sales in the summer season.

Check for Supporting Details

The supporting details in an essay give information to support the main ideas. Each body paragraph in this essay has a main idea that matches a comparison introduced in the first paragraph. Each main idea is followed by details that support it.

Paragraph 2

Main Idea

Certain food items had much higher sales than others in the winter.

The sales numbers for each food item were different in the summer from what they were in the winter.

Supporting Details

- Hot coffee had the highest number of sales
- the item with the second highest number of sales was soup
- Salad and ice cream had average daily sales
- iced coffee had the lowest number of sales

Paragraph 3

Main Idea

The sales numbers for each food item were different in the summer than they were in the winter.

Supporting Details

- Iced coffee sales rose significantly
- the second highest number of sales was ice cream . . . servings sold daily.
- Hot coffee sales fell
- Soup and salad had the lowest number of sales

Check for the Conclusion

The conclusion should sum up the ideas presented in the introduction. In this essay, the introduction states the comparisons that will be made in the body of the essay—the average daily sales of food items in different seasons. The conclusion makes a general statement about these comparisons—that some items sold more in the winter and others sold more in the summer.

Check for Transition Words

Transition words connect ideas. See Chapter 2 (page 166) for more information on transition words. This essay uses appropriate transition words.

Paragraph	Transition Word	Purpose
Paragraph 2	Following	Shows sequence
Paragraph 4	In general	Summarizes
Paragraph 4	but	Shows contrast

Check for Grammar and Spelling

Correct grammar and spelling help keep your ideas clear to the reader. See Chapter 4 for guidance on grammar and Chapter 3 (page 189) for guidance on spelling. There are no grammar or spelling errors in this essay.

Check for Sentence Variety

Using a variety of sentence types in your essay can help you express your ideas more clearly, and it makes your essay more interesting to read. It also shows the range of your writing ability. See Chapter 4 (page 213) for a discussion of different sentence types.

This essay uses a variety of sentence types. Here are some examples.

Paragraph	Sentence Type	Example
Paragraph 2	Simple Sentence	Certain food items had much higher sales than others in the winter.
Paragraph 4	Complex sentence	In general, the average daily sales of each food item changed when the season changed.
Paragraph 4	Compound Sentence	Certain items were more popular in the winter, but certain others were more popular in the summer.

PRACTICE 14

Read the following model essays and answer the questions that follow each one. Use the Revision Checklist to help you answer the questions.

- A The line graph below shows the number of cell phone subscribers in a particular city, by gender.
- Summarize the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.*

The graph shows how many men and women in Marysville paid for cell phone service from 1995 to 2015. The number of subscribers of each gender rose at similar rates during the ten-year period.

The number of male cell phone subscribers rose significantly between 1995 and 2015. In 1995, a little over 500 men subscribed to cell phone service. The number increased considerably over the next few years until it reached 2500 in the year 2005. There was no change in the number of subscribers between 2005 and 2010. Then, the number rose slightly between 2010 and 2015, when there were about 2750 male subscribers.

Similarly, the number of women subscribing to cell phone service rose in most years between 1995 and 2015. In 1995, 500 women subscribed to cell phone service. By 2005, the number of female subscribers had increased to 2500. There was a slight drop to about 2250 subscribers between 2005 and 2010, and that number stayed steady between 2010 and 2015.

Overall, while the numbers of both male and female subscribers rose significantly, they rose more for men.

- 1 Find the thesis statement, which is the topic sentence that summarizes the graph, and underline it.
- 2 In the second sentence of the first paragraph, underline the comparisons that will become the main ideas of the body paragraphs.
- 3 Put a check (✓) next to the main idea in the second paragraph. Mark each supporting detail with the letter: A, B, C, etc.
- 4 Put a check (✓) next to the main idea in the third paragraph. Mark each supporting detail with the letter: A, B, C, etc.
- 5 Underline three transition words/phrases in the second and third paragraphs.
- 6 Check grammar and spelling. Correct any errors.
- 7 Find and mark one simple sentence (ss), one compound sentence (cm/s), and one complex sentence (cx/s).

- B The graph below shows the number of students enrolled in two different schools. Summarize the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

The graph shows how many students were registered at Riverside School and Litchfield School in each of the years from 2011 to 2014. The number of students at each school changed every year.

Enrollment at Riverside School rose steadily over the four-year period shown on the graph. There was a small increase from a little under 1000 students in 2011 to a little over 1000 in 2012. Then, enrollment started to rise more rapidly. In 2013, there were 1200 students enrolled in Riverside School, and in 2014 enrollment was close to 1500.

Enrollment in Litchfield School, on the other hand, mostly fell during the same period. There was a small rise between 2011 and 2012, from 800 students to just over 800. In 2013, enrollment fell back to 800 students. It also fell in 2014, to around 700 students.

While enrollment changed each year at both schools, it increased at Riverside School and fell at Litchfield School.

The table below shows the numbers of weekend ticket sales at a certain movie theater.

Ticket Sales—Springfield Cinema

	3:00	5:00	7:00	9:00
Saturday	100	125	150	150
Sunday	125	100	75	50

The table shows how many movie tickets were sold at the Springfield Cinema at different times of the weekend. On Saturday sales were highest in the evening, and on Sunday sales were highest in the afternoon.

On Saturday, the most popular times to see a movie were in the evening. Sales started out relatively low, with 100 tickets sold for the 3:00 show and 125 sold for the 5:00 show. After that, sales rose to 150 tickets sold for both the 7:00 and 9:00 shows.

On Sunday, on the other hand, the most popular time to see a movie was in the afternoon. Sales started out highest for the 3:00 show, when 125 tickets were sold. Then, sales dropped steadily, and they reached their lowest for the 9:00 show, when just 50 tickets were sold.

In general, moviegoers at the Springfield Cinema seem to prefer later shows on Saturday and earlier shows on Sunday.

- D The pie charts below show the highest level of education achieved by people over age 21 in two different countries.
- Summarize the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.*

The charts show the top levels of education reached by adults in two countries. The levels of education reached were different for each country.

In Country A, most adults had at least some schooling. Only five percent of the adult population had not gone to school at all, and just fifteen percent stopped studying after primary school. Forty-five percent of the population ended their studies after secondary school, while thirty percent completed vocational/technical school. A very small part of the population, five percent, got university degrees.

In Country B, more of the adult population reached higher levels of education than in Country A. Five percent had no schooling. Another five percent did not go beyond primary school. Thirty-five percent of the adult population, on the other hand, stopped studying after secondary school. Thirty percent studied at vocational/technical school, and twenty-five percent got university degrees.

In both countries, most of the adults had at least some education, and many continued studying after secondary school.

ACADEMIC WRITING TASK 1: PROCESS DIAGRAMS

The process diagram is not as common as a graph, table, or chart on IELTS, but you should be prepared for it. A process diagram may show the steps in a process, or it may show changes in a place over time. You will have to describe the steps in the process or describe the changes.

Remember that you will have 60 minutes to complete the writing part of the test, and to allow 20 minutes for Task 1. Divide the time as follows:

STEP 1	Plan	5 minutes
STEP 2	Write	12 minutes
STEP 3	Revise	3 minutes

LENGTH

You must write at least 150 words. You can write more.

TIPS

- Make sure you understand all parts of the process before you start planning.
- Write only about what you see in the diagram. Do not add extra information.

SCORE

To receive a good score,

- Address all parts of the task
- Accurately describe each step or change
- Use correct grammar, spelling, and punctuation
- Write in complete sentences
- Use your own words; do not copy exact sentences from the task

STEP 1: PLAN

Spend about 5 minutes on planning before you start writing. Planning will make sure you include all the necessary information.

Address the Task

When you see a diagram, determine whether it shows the steps in a process or changes in a place. This will help you address the task.

PRACTICE 1

Look at the following tasks and diagrams. Write the letter of each diagram next to the corresponding task. Decide whether the diagram shows steps in a process or changes in a place. Write “steps” or “changes.”

The diagram below shows the stages in the life cycle of a dragonfly.

Summarize the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

The diagram below shows the process of generating electricity with a wind turbine.

Summarize the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

The diagram below shows the area around a river before and after a flood.

Summarize the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

The diagram below shows the process of producing cloth and clothes from cotton.

Summarize the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

The diagram below shows a neighborhood before and after construction.

Determine the Topic

You can find the topic by reading the title of the diagram and the description of the diagram in the task. Make a note of both the title and the description.

Look at these examples.

Make Notes About Details

For a diagram that shows steps in a process, you will have to determine what happens at each step of a process and the order in which the steps happen.

For a diagram that shows how a place changes, you will have to determine the differences between the before and after pictures.

Most diagrams will have labels to help you identify objects and actions. A diagram may also have arrows to show direction of movement, entering or exiting, etc.

Look at these sample notes for the diagrams on pages 50–51.

STEP 2: WRITE

When you planned, you made notes about the topic and details of the diagram. Now you will use these notes to write your essay. You should take about 12 minutes to write your essay.

Write the Introduction

The introduction tells the topic of your essay. Your essay will be about the diagram. In Practice 2 (page 52), you made notes about the topic of the diagram. Now you will use those notes to write the introduction to your essay.

Write the Topic Sentence

Write one sentence that tells what the diagram is about. Do not copy the title and task exactly. Use synonyms. See Chapter 3 (page 187) for more information on synonyms.

Look at these examples based on the sample diagrams on pages 50–51.

Diagram I

Task

The diagram below shows the process of producing raisins from grapes.
Summarize the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

Notes

Title: Raisin Production.....

Description: the process of producing raisins from grapes.....

Topic sentence

The diagram presents the steps for making raisins from grapes.

Discussion

The topic sentence avoids copying exact phrases and sentences from the task and diagram title by using the word presents instead of shows, steps instead of process, and making instead of producing.

Diagram II

Task

The diagram below shows a library before and after renovations.
Summarize the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

Notes

Title: Taftsville Public Library.....

Description: a library before and after renovations.....

Topic Sentence

The diagram illustrates the changes that were made to the Taftsville Public Library.

Discussion

The topic sentence avoids copying exact phrases and sentences from the task and diagram title by using the word illustrates instead of shows and changes instead of renovations.

PRACTICE 4

Choose synonyms from the list for each of the following words and write them on the lines. Some words will have more than one synonym.

		Synonyms
1 show	A prior to
2 produce	B changes
3 process	C illustrate
4 renovations	D steps
5 construction	E present
6 before	F following
7 after	G make
8 development	H building
		I growth
		J explain
		K manufacture

PRACTICE 5

Rewrite the following topic sentences by using synonyms for the underlined sections.

- 1 The diagram shows a housing site before and after construction.
- 2 The diagram shows the process for producing boxes from recycled cardboard.
.....
- 3 The diagram shows the process for making juice from apples.
.....
- 4 The diagram shows the development of a frog from egg to maturity.
.....
- 5 The diagram shows the process for producing chocolate from cacao beans.
.....

Write a General Statement

The topic sentence tells what the diagram is about. In the next sentence, make a general statement summarizing what you will say about the diagram.

If the diagram shows a process, mention how the process begins and ends.

It takes a number of steps to go from an apple on a tree to applesauce we can buy in a store.

If there is a pair of diagrams showing changes in a place, mention the overall effect of the changes.

The neighborhood was much busier following the construction of the bridge.

PRACTICE 6

Choose words from the list to complete the general statements about the diagrams in Practice 1 (page 49). There are more words than you will need.

clothes	mature	cotton	generated washed away	used	an egg	cloth added	bales	quiet	crowded distributed

- A It takes several steps to go from in the field to you can buy and wear.
- B It goes through several stages from in the water to a dragonfly in the air.
- C The neighborhood changed from a area to a place to live.
- D Many things were by the floodwaters.
- E The electricity is by the turbine and then is to people's homes.

PRACTICE 7

Write an introduction for each of the diagrams in Practice 1 (page 49). Use your notes from Practice 2 (page 52) to write the topic sentence, and use the general statements from Practice 6 above.

Write the Body of the Essay

When you planned your essay, you made notes about details. You identified the steps in a process or the changes between two diagrams. Now you will turn these notes into sentences for the body of your essay.

Use Passive Voice

A Task 1 diagram shows actions. It doesn't usually show the person performing the actions. When you don't know who or what performs an action, use passive voice.

Passive voice is formed with the verb be and the past participle form of the main verb. It can be used in any verb tense. In Task 1, you will generally use either present tense or past tense. Look at these examples of passive voice.

The apples are harvested. (present tense)
be past participle

The books were moved. (past tense)
be past participle

See Chapter 4 (page 207) for more information on passive voice.

PRACTICE 8

Change the following sentences to passive voice.

- 1 Somebody packs the cotton in bales.

- 2 Somebody dyes the cloth.

.....

- 3 Somebody sells the cloth to a factory.

4 Somebody dries the raisins in the sun.

5 Somebody sorts the raisins.

6 Somebody built a new room.

7 Somebody painted the walls.

8 Somebody placed the desk by the window

.....

PRACTICE 9

Complete the essay about the diagram with the passive form of the verbs in parentheses. Use present tense.

Use Sequence Words and Phrases

When you write about a process diagram, you will write about the steps of the process in the order that they occur. Use sequence words and phrases to show their order in time. See Chapter 2 (page 166) for more information on sequence words and phrases.

Beginning Step

First To begin The first step is

Middle Steps

Next Then Before After The next step

Last Step

Finally The last step The final step

Be careful with before and after. Use before with the step that comes later. Use after with the step that comes first.

Before the raisins are put into packages, they are sorted.

Meaning—First the grapes are sorted; then they are put into packages.

The raisins are taken to the processing plant after they are dried.

Meaning—First the grapes are dried; then they are taken to the processing plant.

PRACTICE 10

Complete the paragraphs about the diagram using words from the chart.

Recycling Plastic Bottles

The diagram shows the process of recycling plastic bottles to make new products. It takes several steps to go from used bottles to new products made out of the same material. The 1 step is to send the used bottles to the recycling plant. 2 someone finishes drinking from a bottle, she puts it in a recycling bin with other used bottles. 3, a truck picks up the bottles and transports them to the recycling plant. 4 the bottles can be recycled, they have to go through the washer. 5, they are sent to another machine, where they are shredded into small pieces. 6, the shredded pieces go into the extruder. This machine turns the pieces into pellets. 7, the pellets are used to make new plastic products such as bottles, cups, and toys.

Describe the Location

In Task 1, you might see a pair of diagrams that show the changes in a place over time. You will have to describe what you see in each diagram. Use prepositions of place and related expressions to describe the location of objects in the diagram.

Location
on	on the right
in	on the left
next to	on the other side beside	in the middle in front of	across from behind

Look at these examples.

Wild River

There is a bridge over the river.

There are some trees next to the bridge.

Across the river from the trees there is a house.

Some flowers are growing next to the house.

On the other side of the house there is a barn.

A boat is sailing on the river.

PRACTICE 11

Write sentences describing the location of objects in the diagram. Write at least one sentence about each of the objects on the list.

Lakeside Park

1 nature center

.....

2 parking lot

3 cars

4 picnic area

.....

5 trees

6 ducks

PRACTICE 12

On a separate sheet of paper, write a complete essay for each of the diagrams in Practice 1 (page 49). Begin with the introductions you wrote in Practice 7 (page 59); then use your notes about details from Practice 3 (page 54) to write the body of each essay. Mention each of the steps or each of the changes you identified.

STEP 3: REVISE

You should allow at least 3 minutes to revise your essay after you write.

Use the Revision Checklist

When you revise, you check the content and the language of your essay. Make sure the essay is clear and well organized and that you have used correct grammar and spelling. You can use this revision checklist to practice revising.

Read the following model essay, and note how well it follows the items on the checklist.

The diagram below shows the process of producing raisins from grapes.
Summarize the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

The diagram presents the steps for making raisins from grapes. It takes several steps to go from grapes on the vine to packaged raisins ready for sale.

To begin, the grapes are picked from the vines. After picking, they are laid in the sun to dry. It takes two to three weeks to dry the fruit. When the raisins are dry, they are packed in boxes and taken by truck to the processing plant. At the plant, the raisins go through a cleaner, which removes bits of dirt. Next they are washed in a washer. Before the raisins are packaged, they are sorted by size. Then, the raisins are put in different kinds of packages. Some raisins are put in small packages, and they are sold to grocery stores. Some are put in larger packages to be sold to commercial bakeries or to be exported to other countries.

Check for Topic Sentence

The first sentence of this essay is the topic sentence. It tells the topic of the diagram and lets the reader know that the essay is about the diagram.

The diagram presents the steps for making raisins from grapes.

Check for General Statement

The second sentence of the essay is the general statement. It briefly summarizes the information presented in the diagram. Together with the topic sentence, it introduces the reader to the essay.

It takes several steps to go from grapes on the vine to packaged raisins ready for sale.

Check for Sequence of Steps

This diagram shows the steps in a process, so the essay must describe the steps in sequence.

The essay describes these steps in the sequence they are presented in the diagram.

picked from the vines laid in the sun to dry packed in boxes and taken by truck to the processing plant go through a cleaner washed in a washer sorted by size
put in different kinds of packages sold to grocery stores, commercial bakeries, exported

Check for Transition Words

Transition words connect ideas. This essay describes a sequence of steps and uses sequence words and phrases to connect the steps.

To begin, the grapes are picked
After picking
Next they are washed
Before the raisins are packaged
Then, the raisins are put

Check for Grammar and Spelling

Correct grammar and spelling help keep your ideas clear to the reader. See Chapter 4 for guidance on grammar and Chapter 3 (page 189) for guidance on spelling. This essay contains no grammar or spelling errors.

Check for Sentence Variety

Using a variety of sentence types in your essay can help you express your ideas more clearly, and it makes your essay more interesting to read. It also shows the range of your writing ability. See Chapter 4 (page 213) for a discussion of different sentence types.

This essay uses a variety of sentence types. Here are some examples.

Sentence Type	Example
Simple Sentence	Next they are washed in a washer.
Complex Sentence	Before the raisins are packaged, they are sorted by size.
Compound Sentence	Some raisins are put in small packages, and they are sold to grocery stores.

The diagram below shows a library before and after renovations. Summarize the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

Taftsville Public Library

The diagrams illustrate the changes that were made to the Taftsville Public Library. The library was larger and it had more rooms after the renovations were done.

Before the renovations, the desk was in the middle of the library. Behind it was the reference area. There was a large children's room on the right. Additionally, there were two rooms for adults, one nonfiction and the other fiction, on the left.

After the renovations, things were rearranged and the space was made larger. The desk was moved closer to the front door. Behind the desk, in place of the old reference area, was a new reading area. The old children's room was divided into two rooms, one for magazines and one for the new reference area. Behind these rooms, a new children's room was built. Also, a new garden was created next to it. Although changes were made to the other areas of the library, the two adult rooms remained in the same place.

The diagram below shows how a wood pellet boiler heats a house.

Summarize the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

Wood Pellet Boiler

The diagram shows how a wood pellet boiler is used to provide heat and hot water for a house. The pellets are burned to produce heat, which is then distributed through the house.

To begin, a truck delivers wood pellets to the house, and they are stored in a large container. Then, when heat is needed, the pellets move to the boiler, where they are burned to heat up water. Next, the hot water moves to several places in the house. Some of it goes to pipes under the floor for under-floor heating. Some of it also goes to a radiator to heat the rooms of the house. Additionally, some of the hot water goes to a hot water tank, which holds the water for washing and bathing. After the hot water has heated the house, it returns as cool water to the boiler, where it is heated to be used again.

The diagram below shows how frozen orange juice concentrate is made.

Frozen Orange Juice Concentrate

The diagram explains the process of making frozen orange juice concentrate from fresh oranges. It takes several steps to go from oranges on the tree to frozen concentrate that can be mixed and consumed at home.

First, the ripe oranges are harvested. Then, they are loaded onto trucks and transported to the processing plant. After the trucks are unloaded at the plant, the oranges go through a fruit washer. Next, they are sent through an extractor, which squeezes out the juice. Then, the extracted juice goes through the juice evaporator, which concentrates it, and the juice concentrate is frozen in the freezer. Finally, the frozen concentrate is put into cans and is ready for sale. The cans of frozen concentrate are distributed to grocery stores, where customers buy it for use at home. The customer mixes the frozen concentrate with water and enjoys a delicious glass of orange juice.

PRACTICE 14

Use the Revision Checklist to revise the essays you wrote in Practice 12 (page 67).

PRACTICE 15

On a separate sheet of paper, write an essay in response to each of the following tasks. Remember to allow 20 minutes for each essay, dividing the time as follows:

- STEP 1 Plan 5 minutes
- STEP 2 Write 12 minutes
- STEP 3 Revise 3 minutes

A The diagram below shows how coffee beans are processed.

EXTRA PRACTICE

See the More Writing Practice section (page 221) in the Appendix for more Academic Task 1 topics that you can use for further writing practice.

GENERAL TRAINING WRITING TASK 1: LETTER

TIME

You will have 60 minutes to complete the writing part of the test. You should allow 20 minutes for Task 1. Divide your time as follows:

Total time 20 minutes

STEP 1	Plan	5 minutes
STEP 2	Write	12 minutes
STEP 3	Revise	3 minutes

LENGTH

You must write at least 150 words. You can write more.

TIPS

- Make sure you understand all parts of the task before you start planning.
- Use your imagination to add details, but make sure they are relevant to the task.

SCORE

To receive a good score,

- Address all parts of the task
- Make the purpose of the letter clear
- Include relevant details
- Use correct grammar, spelling, and punctuation
- Write in complete sentences
- Use your own words; do not copy exact sentences from the task

STEP 1: PLAN

Take about 5 minutes to plan before you start writing. This will help you develop your ideas and ensure that you include all the necessary information.

Address the Task

In Task 1, you will see a brief description of a situation. You will be asked to write a letter to a certain person about the situation. You will be given several points to cover in your letter. You must address all the points.

PRACTICE 1

Read the following tasks and determine what each one asks you to do. Circle your choices on the list that follows each task. There may be more than one answer for each task.

You recently bought a jacket, but when you got home, you discovered it was damaged. When you took it back to the store, you were told that merchandise cannot be returned.

Write a letter to the store manager. In your letter

- describe the problem with the jacket.
- explain what happened when you tried to return it.
- say what you would like the manager to do.

Write at least 150 words.

You do NOT need to write any addresses.

Begin your letter as follows:

Dear Sir or Madam,

- | | | |
|---------------------------|--------------------|--------------------|
| make an invitation | describe a problem | ask for help |
| describe a thing or place | ask for advice | suggest a solution |

You are planning a business trip to another city. You will have some free time to do some sightseeing while you are there.

Write a letter to a friend who lives in the city you will visit. In your letter

- explain the purpose of the trip.
- ask about things to do and see in the city.
- invite your friend to do something with you during your visit.

Write at least 150 words.

You do NOT need to write any addresses.

Begin your letter as follows:

Dear _____,

- | | | |
|---------------------------|--------------------|--------------------|
| make an invitation | describe a problem | ask for help |
| describe a thing or place | ask for advice | suggest a solution |

3 You live in a small apartment building with a parking lot in back, and you often cannot find an empty parking space when you get home from work.

Write a letter to your landlord. In your letter

- describe the situation.
- explain why it bothers you.
- suggest something the landlord could do to solve the problem.

Write at least 150 words.

You do NOT need to write any addresses.

Begin your letter as follows:

Dear _____,

make an invitation

describe a problem

ask for help

describe a thing or place

ask for advice

suggest a solution

4 You have rented a house by a lake for the summer.

Write a letter to a friend. In your letter

- describe the house.
- describe how you are spending your time there.
- invite your friend to come and visit.

Write at least 150 words.

You do NOT need to write any addresses.

Begin your letter as follows:

Dear _____,

make an invitation

describe a problem

ask for help

describe a thing or place

ask for advice

5

You rode in a taxi yesterday. When you got home, you realized you had left your bag in the taxi.

Write a letter to the manager of the taxi company. In your letter

- explain how you lost your bag.
- describe your bag.
- ask the manager to help you find it.

Write at least 150 words.

You do NOT need to write any addresses.

Begin your letter as follows:

Dear Sir or Madam,

make an invitation

describe a thing or place

describe a problem

ask for advice

ask for help

suggest a solution

Determine the Topic

Task 1 begins with a brief description of a situation. This tells you the topic of the letter you will write.

PRACTICE 2

Choose the correct topic for each of the tasks in Practice 1 (page 81). Write the letter of the topic next to the number of the corresponding task. You will not use all the topics.

Topics

- | | | | |
|----------|-------|----------|-----------------------------------|
| 1 | | A | Looking for a lost bag |
| 2 | | B | Advice about buying a house |
| 3 | | C | A problem finding a parking space |
| 4 | | D | A vacation at a rental house |
| 5 | | E | A bad purchase |
| | | F | A complaint about a driver |
| | | G | Making plans for a trip |
| | | H | Looking for a new job |

Make Notes About Main Ideas

Task 1 mentions three points that you must cover in your letter. Look at this example.

Write a letter to your friend. In your letter

- explain why you are no longer using your bicycle.
- describe your bicycle.
- explain why you think your friend would like to have it.

Read the three points and take a minute to brainstorm some ideas for addressing each one. Then, choose one idea for each point to include in your letter. It doesn't matter which ideas you choose; just choose something you can write about.

PRACTICE 3

Read the following tasks. Brainstorm a short list of ideas for addressing each point. The lists have been started for you.

Task

You have a bicycle that you are no longer using. You would like to sell it to a friend.

Write a letter to your friend. In your letter

- explain why you are no longer using your bicycle.
- describe your bicycle.
- explain why you think your friend would like to have it.

1 Explain why you are no longer using your bicycle.

no time

want a different kind of bicycle

2 Describe your bicycle.

racing bike

mountain bike

3 Explain why you think your friend would like to have it.

friend likes racing bikes friend needs a good way to get to work
.....

Task

You live in a small apartment building. You are frequently bothered by noise from your upstairs neighbor's apartment.

Write a letter to your neighbor. In your letter

- describe the situation.
- explain why it is a problem for you.
- suggest a solution.

4 Describe the problem.

frequent parties

5 Explain why it is a problem for you.

can't sleep
can't concentrate
.....
.....

6 Explain what you would like your friend to do.

notify me about parties ahead of time
turn down the TV
.....

TIP

There are no right or wrong answers in Task 1. You must address all parts of the task, but you can address them in any way you like as long as it makes sense.

PRACTICE 4

Look at the tasks in Practice 1 (page 81). Brainstorm a short list of ideas for addressing each point in each of the tasks. Then, choose one idea for each point. Later, you will use these as main ideas when you write your letter.

Task 1

1 Describe the problem with the jacket.

Make Notes About Details

After you have come up with a main idea to address each point in the task, think of two or three details to support each main idea. Look at this example.

Task

You have a bicycle that you are no longer using. You would like to sell it to a friend.

Write a letter to your friend. In your letter

- explain why you are no longer using your bicycle.
- describe your bicycle.
- explain why you think your friend would like to have it.

Main idea (point 1) no time for bicycle

Details demanding job

STEP 2: WRITE

After you plan, you are ready to write. You will use your notes about the topic, main ideas, and details as your guide. You should take about 12 minutes to write your letter.

Write the Greeting

You will begin your letter with a greeting. The instructions might provide the entire greeting:

Begin your letter as follows:

Dear Sir or Madam,

This is a greeting for a formal business letter when you don't know the name of the person you are addressing, for example, the manager of a store or restaurant.

TIP

Traditionally, Dear Sir or Madam has been considered the correct greeting for a formal business letter, although nowadays the custom is changing. If the IELTS task provides you with this or any other specific greeting, you must use it. Outside of the testing situation, however, you could use another type of greeting such as

Dear Recruiter Dear Editor Dear Manager

The instructions might provide just part of the greeting:

Begin your letter as follows:

Dear _____,

In this case, you will have to provide a name. If the letter is for a person with whom you would have a business relationship, for example, a landlord, use a title such as Mr., Mrs., or Ms. and a last name. Some examples are Mr. Lee, Mrs. Kim, or Ms. Wilson. It doesn't matter what last name you use, just choose any last name that comes to mind. If you can't think of a last name, use your own or a friend's last name.

If the letter is for a friend, use a first name. Again, it doesn't matter what name you use; any name will do.

PRACTICE 7

Choose the best greeting for a letter to each of the following people.

- 1 Your best friend from school
A Dear Tom, B Dear Tom Wilson,
- 2 Your lawyer
A Dear Sir or Madam, B Dear Ms. Lopez,
- 3 Your next-door neighbor whom you know well
A Dear Mr. Lu, B Dear George,
- 4 Your neighbor whom you have met only once
A Dear Mrs. Hill, B Dear Sir or Madam,
- 5 The manager of a bookstore whose name you don't know
A Dear Sir or Madam, B Dear Mr. or Mrs.,
- 6 Your cousin
A Dear Mr. Broussard, B Dear Billy,

PRACTICE 8

Write a topic sentence for each of the following tasks.

Task

You live in a small apartment building. You are frequently bothered by noise from your upstairs neighbor's apartment.

Write a letter to your neighbor. In your letter

- describe the situation.
- explain why it is a problem for you.
- suggest a solution.

1 Topic a noisy neighbor.....

Topic Sentence

Task

You let a friend stay at your apartment while you were away on a trip. When you returned home, you discovered that a valuable possession was broken.

Write a letter to your friend. In your letter

- describe the broken possession.
- explain why it is important to you.
- explain what you would like your friend to do.

2 Topic friend broke valuable possession.....

Topic Sentence

Task

You have recently moved to a new neighborhood.

Write a letter to a friend. In your letter

- explain why you moved.
- describe your new neighborhood.
- invite your friend to visit you.

3 Topic moving to a new neighborhood.....

Topic Sentence

Task

You have a problem in your apartment that needs repairs.

Write a letter to the building manager. In your letter

- describe the problem.
- say what you think should be done about it.
- ask the building manager to visit your apartment to see the problem.

4 Topic repairs needed in apartment.....

Topic Sentence

Summarize the Main Ideas

When you wrote your notes, you identified main ideas. Now you will summarize those main ideas in your introduction.

Look at the following notes and introduction for the task about selling a bicycle to a friend.

Notes

Topic selling a bicycle to a friend.....

Main idea (point 1) no time for bicycle.....

Main idea (point 2) racing bike.....

Main idea (point 3) you like racing bikes.....

Introduction

I thought you'd be interested in a bicycle I am selling. I just don't have time to use it much anymore. However, it's a really great racing bicycle, and I think you would really like it.

Discussion

- The first sentence of the paragraph is the topic sentence.
- The second sentence, I just don't have time to use it much anymore corresponds to the main idea in the notes no time for bicycle.
- The third sentence in the paragraph, However, it's a really great racing bicycle, and I think you would really like it corresponds to the main ideas racing bike and you like racing bikes.

PRACTICE 9

Look at these notes and introductions for the tasks in Practice 8 (page 96). Choose the correct sentence to complete each introduction.

- 1 Topic a noisy neighbor
- Main idea loud parties
- Main idea can't sleep
- Main idea solution: notify me about party plans

Write the Paragraphs

Once you have written the introduction, you are ready to write the body paragraphs. Use the main ideas and supporting details from your notes to write the sentences for each paragraph.

Look at the following notes for the first task in Practice 8, and the paragraph that follows. Notice how the main idea and supporting details have been turned into sentences.

Notes

Topic a noisy neighbor

Main idea loud parties

Details noise of guests arriving loud music

lasts until late at night

Paragraph

You may not realize it, but often the parties in your apartment are quite loud. From my apartment, which is just below yours, I can easily hear the noise of your guests arriving. Then, the music you play throughout the evening is very loud. The party noise usually lasts until very late at night.

PRACTICE 11

Look at the following notes for the tasks in Practice 8 (page 96). Use each one to write a paragraph.

1 Topic a noisy neighbor

Main idea can't sleep

Details can't sleep until party is over have to get up early for work don't get enough hours of sleep

.....

.....

.....

2 Topic friend broke valuable possession

Main idea a porcelain vase in living room

Details colors = blue and gold hand painted with flowers and butterflies

3 Topic moving to a new neighborhood

Main idea closer to job

Details before—an hour to get to work

now—15 minutes

life is easier now

4 Topic repairs needed in apartment

Main idea leak in the sink

Details damp under sink hole in pipe

PRACTICE 12

On a separate sheet of paper, use the notes you wrote in Practice 6 (page 91) to write the body paragraphs for each of the tasks in Practice 1 (page 81). Write one paragraph for each main idea.

Write the Conclusion

After you write the body paragraphs, conclude your letter with one or two sentences suggesting an action, conveying a feeling, or thanking the reader, depending on the topic of the letter.

Here are some examples of ways to conclude the letter.

If the letter asks for advice or help, you can write

Thank you for your advice.

Thank you for your help.

I really appreciate any suggestions you can give me.

Let me know if you can help me.

If the letter contains an invitation, you can write

Let me know when you can come.

Let me know which dates are best for you.

I hope you can accept my invitation.

I look forward to seeing you.

If the letter suggests some solutions to a problem, you can write

Let me know what you think of my ideas.

I hope one of these solutions works for you.

I hope we can meet to discuss these ideas.

I hope we can agree on a solution to these problems.

I hope you are willing to accept my solution.

PRACTICE 13

Choose the best conclusion for each of the following letters.

1 Dear Roger,

I am writing to ask you about a valuable possession that was broken while you were staying at my apartment last week. When I returned home, I discovered that my porcelain vase was broken. It is one of my most important possessions.

The vase I am talking about is a porcelain vase that was on the coffee table in the living room. It is mostly blue with gold around the rim. It has flowers and butterflies hand painted all over it.

This vase is very important to me. In the first place, it is handmade and very old, which makes it worth a good deal of money. It is even more valuable to me because it once belonged to my grandmother.

I am very sad that you broke it, but I have a solution to suggest. I know someone who can repair it if you would pay for the cost of the repairs.

A I would appreciate any suggestions you could give me.

B I hope you are willing to accept my solution.

C I look forward to seeing you soon.

2 Dear Sally,

I wanted to let you know that I have recently moved to a new neighborhood. The reason is that I wanted to be closer to my job. It is a quiet and pretty place to live, and I hope you will visit me here soon.

I had been looking for some time for a house closer to my job. Before, it took me almost an hour to get to work by bus. Now, I can walk to the office in just 15 minutes. This makes my life easier in many ways.

My new neighborhood is very nice. There are many tall trees and lots of gardens, so it is very pretty. It is also quiet because there is very little traffic.

I hope you will be able to visit me at my new house sometime soon. We could have lunch and then take a walk through the neighborhood. I think you would enjoy seeing the gardens since you are such an avid gardener yourself.

A Let me know when you can come, and we'll make plans.

B I hope we can meet soon to discuss these suggestions.

C If you could help me in any way, I would really appreciate it.

3 Dear Sam,

I am writing to ask you for advice about my vacation. I will have some time off of work soon. I would like to spend most of that time at the beach, and I hope you have some suggestions for me.

I will have the entire month of August off of work. I am looking forward to this because I haven't had a vacation in a long time. We have been very busy at the office for most of this year, so I am glad to have the opportunity to relax now.

I would like to spend my month off at a nice beach resort. I am hoping to stay at a hotel that is right next to the beach and that provides all meals. I would also prefer a place that is peaceful and quiet.

I hope you can suggest a good place for my vacation. I know you travel a lot and have stayed at many resorts. If you could let me know the names of some of your favorite ones, I would appreciate it.

- A Let me know which dates are best for you.
- B I hope we can agree on the best way to solve this.
- C Thank you so much for your help.

4 Dear Mr. Smith,

I thought you should know about a problem in my apartment that needs some repairs. The kitchen sink has been leaking for some time now. I believe that the pipe under the sink should be replaced soon.

The leak in the kitchen sink is causing a serious problem. Because the area under the sink has become very damp, the wood is beginning to rot. Unfortunately, it appears that the cause of the dampness is a hole in the drainpipe.

In my opinion, the drainpipe should be replaced as soon as possible. Otherwise, the problem will only get worse, and the entire cabinet will have to be replaced.

I suggest that you come to my apartment and look at the leaky sink with me. Then, we can discuss the best action to take.

- A Let me know what you think of my idea.
- B I hope you can accept my invitation.
- C Thank you very much for your advice.

Write the Signature

After you write the conclusion, sign the letter. There are several ways to do this, depending on the type of letter.

For a formal or business letter, write

Sincerely,
Yours sincerely,

For a letter to a friend, write

Yours truly,
Your friend,
Best wishes,

Then, sign a name. If it is a formal or business letter, use a first and last name. If it is a letter to a friend, use a first name only. For the test, it doesn't matter what name you use. It can be your own name or another name.

PRACTICE 14

Choose the best signature for a letter to each of the following people.

- 1 Your best friend from school
A Sincerely, Mary B Best wishes, Mary
- 2 Your lawyer
A Sincerely, Paul Wilson B Yours sincerely, Paul
- 3 Your next-door neighbor whom you know well
A Yours truly, Martha B Yours sincerely, Martha
- 4 Your neighbor whom you have met only once
A Your friend, Jane Scott B Sincerely, Jane Scott
- 5 The manager of a bookstore whose name you don't know
A Sincerely, George L. Smithers B Yours sincerely, George
- 6 Your cousin
A Yours truly, Samantha Stern B Best wishes, Sam

PRACTICE 15

On a separate sheet of paper, write a complete letter for each of the tasks in Practice 1 (page 81). Begin with the introductions you wrote in Practice 10 (page 99) and put each one together with the corresponding paragraphs you wrote in Practice 12 (page 103). Then, complete each letter by writing an appropriate conclusion and adding a greeting and a signature.

STEP 3: REVISE

You should allow at least 3 minutes to revise your letter after you write.

Use the Revision Checklist

When you revise, you should check the content and the language of your letter. You check to make sure the letter is clear and well organized and that you have used correct grammar and spelling. You can use this revision checklist to practice revising.

Read the following task and model letter and note how well the letter follows the items on the checklist.

Task

You have decided to look for a new job.

Write a letter to a friend. In your letter

- explain why you are looking for a new job.
- describe the kind of job you would like to have.
- ask your friend to help you find a job.

Write at least 150 words.

You do NOT need to write any addresses.

Begin your letter as follows:

Dear _____,

Dear Eric,

I want to let you know that I have decided to seek new employment. My current job is no longer interesting to me. I would like to find more challenging work soon, and I am hoping that you can help me.

My current job at a small accounting firm has become very routine. When I started here five years ago, everything about the work interested me. I had little experience at the time, and I had a lot to learn. But now the work has become boring. It seems that every new client we get is the same as the last.

I would like to find a more challenging position at a larger accounting firm. Then, I would have the opportunity to work with a wider variety of clients. I would also have more chances to advance at a larger firm.

I hope you don't mind if I ask you for some help. Perhaps you can suggest some larger firms to which I could send my résumé. I know you have many contacts in accounting since you have worked in this field for years.

I would really appreciate any suggestions you might have for me.

Yours truly,
Elisabeth

Check for Thesis Statement

The thesis is a statement of what the writing is about. The first sentence of this letter is the topic sentence. It tells what the letter is about—seeking new employment.

Check for Main Ideas

The main ideas support the thesis. The first paragraph of this letter mentions three ideas that expand on the topic. These will become the main ideas of the paragraphs in the body of the letter. One paragraph will be about the uninteresting current job, one will be about the challenging work the writer would like to have, and one will be about asking for help.

Check for Supporting Details

The supporting details give information to support the main ideas. In this letter, the body paragraphs each have a main idea and supporting details. Each main idea matches a topic introduced in the first paragraph.

Paragraph 2

Main Idea

My current job at a small accounting firm has become very routine.

Supporting Details

- When I started here . . . the work interested me.
- I had little experience at the time, and I had a lot to learn.
- But now the work has become boring.

Paragraph 3

Main Idea

I would like to find a more challenging position at a larger accounting firm.

Supporting Details

- Then, I would have the opportunity to work with a wider variety of clients.
- I would also have more chances to advance at a larger firm.

Paragraph 4

Main Idea

I hope you don't mind if I ask you for some help.

Supporting Details

- Perhaps you can suggest some larger firms to which I could send my résumé.
- I know you have many contacts in accounting
- you have worked in this field for years.

Check the Conclusion

The conclusion should suggest an action, convey a feeling, or thank the reader, depending on the topic of the letter. This letter asks for suggestions and appropriately thanks the reader: I would really appreciate

Check for Transition Words

Transition words connect ideas. See Chapter 2 (page 166) for more information on transition words. This letter uses appropriate transition words.

Paragraph	Transition Word	Purpose
Paragraph 2	But	Shows contrast
Paragraph 3	Then	Shows a result
Paragraph 3	also	Adds information

Check for Grammar and Spelling

Correct grammar and spelling help keep your ideas clear to the reader. See Chapter 4 for guidance on grammar and Chapter 3 (page 189) for guidance on spelling. There are no grammar or spelling errors in this letter.

Check for Sentence Variety

Using a variety of sentence types in your writing can help you express your ideas more clearly, and it makes your letter more interesting to read. It also shows the range of your writing ability. See Chapter 4 (page 213) for a discussion of different sentence types.

This letter uses a variety of sentence types. Here are some examples.

Paragraph	Sentence Type	Example
Paragraph 1	Simple Sentence	My current job is no longer interesting to me.
Paragraph 2	Complex Sentence	When I started here five years ago, everything about the work interested me.
Paragraph 2	Compound Sentence	I had little experience at the time, and I had a lot to learn.

PRACTICE 16

Read the following model letters. Answer the questions that follow each letter. Use the Revision Checklist to help you answer the questions.

A You have a bicycle that you are no longer using. You would like to sell it to a friend.

Write a letter to your friend. In your letter

- explain why you are no longer using your bicycle.
- describe your bicycle.
- explain why you think your friend would like to have it.

Write at least 150 words.

You do NOT need to write any addresses.

Begin your letter as follows:

Dear _____,

Dear Armand,

I thought you'd be interested in a bicycle I am selling. I just don't have time to use it much anymore. However, it's a really great racing bicycle, and I think you would really like it.

I used to enjoy riding my bicycle frequently, but these days I usually don't have time for it. My new job is very demanding, and I am working many more hours a week than I used to. Another reason I don't use the bicycle much is that we have a gym at the office, and I try to get my regular exercise there.

The bicycle is a really nice ten-speed racing bicycle. It's lightweight and fast. Also, it has a rack for carrying packages. In addition, it is a very nice silver color.

I think you'd like it because it's a great bicycle for racing, and I know racing is what you like to do. Also, I know silver is your favorite color. I can let you have it at a special price.

Let me know if you are interested, and we'll discuss the price.

Best wishes,
Robert

Use the Revision Checklist to revise the letters you wrote in Practice 15 (page 107).

ACADEMIC/GENERAL TRAINING WRITING TASK 2: PERSONAL OPINION

TIME

You will have 60 minutes to complete the writing part of the test. You should allow 40 minutes for Task 2. Divide your time as follows:

Total time 40 minutes

STEP 1	Plan	10 minutes
STEP 2	Write	25 minutes
STEP 3	Revise	5 minutes

LENGTH

You must write at least 250 words. You can write more.

TIPS

- Read the task carefully, and make sure you understand what it is asking for.
- You can make planning notes on the question paper; they will not be scored.

SCORE

To receive a good score

- address all parts of the task
- use correct grammar, spelling, and punctuation
- write in complete sentences
- use your own words; do not copy exact sentences from the task
- explain your own opinion

STEP 1: PLAN

Take 10 minutes to plan before you write. A good essay is a well-planned essay.

Address the Task

In Task 2, you will read a statement and a question asking your opinion. The question may be stated in one of several ways. You may be asked to

- A Agree or disagree
- B Describe advantages and disadvantages
- C Discuss two points of view and give your own
- D Suggest solutions to a problem
- E Answer two questions

PRACTICE 1

Read the following tasks. Determine what the question asks you to do. Write the corresponding letter from the above list next to each task.

- 1 Obesity is an increasing public health problem in some parts of the world.
Explain some possible reasons for this problem, and suggest some solutions.
- 2 People should never eat meat because raising animals for human consumption is cruel.
To what extent do you agree or disagree with this opinion?
- 3 Some people say that physical education classes are an important part of a child's education. Others believe that it is more important to focus on academics during school time.
Discuss both these views, and give your opinion.
- 4 In some educational systems, children are required to study one or more foreign languages. In others, foreign language study is not a requirement.
What are the potential benefits of foreign language study?
Do you think foreign language study is an important part of education?
- 5 A growing number of people rely on restaurants and convenience food (frozen food and packaged meals) rather than home-cooked food to supply most of their meals.
What are the advantages and disadvantages of eating this way?

Write a Thesis Statement

The thesis statement for your Task 2 essay should do two things:

- Address the task—It should do what the task asks for—agree or disagree, describe advantages and disadvantages, etc.
- Present the topic of the essay—It should tell the reader what the essay is about.

There is more than one way to write a thesis statement for any one question, as long as it does the above two things.

Look at these example questions and thesis statements.

Some parents send their children to preschool when they are three or four years old. Other parents wait until their children are old enough for primary school before they send them to school.

Discuss the advantages and disadvantages of sending children to preschool at a young age.

Give reasons for your answer, and include any relevant examples from your own knowledge or experience.

Write at least 250 words.

Thesis Statement A

While many children start preschool when they are only three or four years old, there are both advantages and disadvantages to this situation.

Thesis Statement B

Sending children to school at an early age has both advantages and disadvantages.

Discussion

Both thesis statements address the task: Discuss the advantages and disadvantages . . . These thesis statements both mention the topic: young children attending preschool. They tell the reader that the essay will discuss the advantages and disadvantages of young children attending preschool.

2

Some people say that the best way to discourage smoking is to make smoking illegal in public places. Other people say that this is not enough and that other measures are needed.

Discuss both these views, and give your opinion.

Give reasons for your answer, and include any relevant examples from your own knowledge or experience.

Write at least 250 words.

Thesis Statement A

In my opinion, laws against smoking are an important part of discouraging this bad habit, but I agree that more needs to be done.

Thesis Statement B

In my opinion, it is unpleasant to be in public places where people are smoking.

Discussion

Thesis Statement A addresses the task. It mentions both points of view laid out in the question as well as the writer's opinion. It also mentions the topic: discouraging smoking. It tells the reader that the essay will discuss the two points of view about discouraging smoking and explain the writer's opinion on this topic.

Thesis Statement B does NOT address the task. It does mention the writer's opinion, but it does not mention the two points of view that should be discussed. It also does not correctly describe the topic. The topic is about discouraging smoking, not about whether or not the writer feels that smoking is unpleasant.

A more appropriate Thesis Statement B would be:

In my opinion, laws against smoking in public places will do a lot to discourage this unpleasant and unhealthy habit, and I don't believe any further measures are needed.

From this thesis statement, the reader knows that the essay will discuss the two points of view laid out in the task and defend the writer's opinion.

PRACTICE 2

Choose the thesis statements that are appropriate for each task. There can be more than one possible answer.

- 1

Obesity is an increasing public health problem in some parts of the world. Explain some possible reasons for this problem, and suggest some solutions.
--

Give reasons for your answer, and include any relevant examples from your own knowledge or experience.

Write at least 250 words.

- A Obesity is a big problem in many places because it can cause serious health problems.
- B There are several reasons why obesity has become such a widespread issue, but there are also ways we can solve this problem.
- C Obesity has become a serious public health issue for a variety of reasons, but, fortunately, there are ways we can deal with this problem.

People should never eat meat because raising animals for human consumption is cruel.

To what extent do you agree or disagree with this opinion?

Give reasons for your answer, and include any relevant examples from your own knowledge or experience.

Write at least 250 words.

- A There are people who believe that we should not eat meat because it involves cruelty to animals, but I completely disagree with this point of view.
- B I never eat meat because I believe that it is bad for my health, but I don't mind if other people eat meat.
- C Some people feel that raising animals for meat is cruel, and I am of the same opinion.

Some people say that physical education classes are an important part of a child's education. Others believe that it is more important to focus on academics during school time.

Discuss both these views, and give your opinion.

Give reasons for your answer, and include any relevant examples from your own knowledge or experience.

Write at least 250 words.

- A While there are people who think that school should only be about academics, others believe that physical education is also important, and I agree with this point of view.
- B In my opinion, a child's education should focus on academics.
- C The best schools are the ones that have a strong physical education program.

- 4 In some educational systems, children are required to study one or more foreign languages. In others, foreign language study is not a requirement.
What are the potential benefits of foreign language study?
Do you think foreign language study is an important part of education?

Give reasons for your answer, and include any relevant examples from your own knowledge or experience.

Write at least 250 words.

- A Foreign languages can be difficult to learn well, but my opinion is that children should study them.
- B Foreign language study improves children's minds as well as their understanding of the world, and I believe it should be a requirement in all schools.
- C Studying foreign languages has some benefits for children; however, I don't believe it is an essential part of education.

- 5 A growing number of people rely on restaurants and convenience food (frozen food and packaged meals) rather than home-cooked food to supply most of their meals.
What are the advantages and disadvantages of eating this way?

Give reasons for your answer, and include any relevant examples from your own knowledge or experience.

Write at least 250 words.

- A Home-cooked food is much cheaper than convenience food, and it is also better for your health.
- B Convenience food has become very popular, but it has disadvantages as well as advantages.
- C Many people don't know how to cook or they don't enjoy it, so they prefer to eat their meals in restaurants.

Paragraph	Main idea	Stress in the workplace

Paragraph	Main idea	Ways to solve these problems
	Supporting details	Live closer to extended family Find a less demanding job Changed lifestyle—a happier life

Compare the outline with the following essay.

The divorce rate is increasing in many places. I believe that the breakdown of the extended family and the stresses of work are the major causes of this situation. Fortunately, although these issues have led to a rise in the divorce rate, there are ways we can solve this problem.

In my opinion, the biggest cause of divorce is the breakdown of the extended family. In the past, a family was made up of parents, grandparents, children, and other relatives. This meant that there was always somebody available to help with child care. It also meant that expenses could be shared in times of financial difficulty. These days, people often don't have this kind of support from their families, and this puts more stress on a marriage.

Stress in the workplace is another cause of divorce. These days, people are often expected to work longer hours than they did in the past. This means they spend less time at home with their families. It also means that when they are at home, they are tired and probably irritable, too. All of this adds up to an unhappy family life.

Fortunately, there are things that can be done to solve some of these problems if people really want to. People can decide to live closer to their extended family. They can invite their elderly parents to live with them or look for a job closer to their relatives' homes. People can also look for less demanding jobs or decide to have one parent stay at home instead of working. These things require changing one's lifestyle in some big ways, but they can lead to a happier marriage and family life.

There are a lot of demands in modern life that place stress on a marriage and lead to divorce. However, people can choose to make changes to their lifestyle that can result in a better, stronger marriage.

When you write your outline, make sure your main ideas support your thesis.

PRACTICE 4

Read each thesis statement and the main ideas that follow. Choose the main idea that does NOT belong.

- 1 In my opinion, laws against smoking in public places will do a lot to discourage this unpleasant and unhealthy habit, and I don't believe any further measures are needed.
 - A Laws can do a great deal to reduce smoking.
 - B Laws against smoking are more effective than education, taxes, or anything else.
 - C Smoking leads to many diseases in addition to cancer.

- 2 Sending children to school at an early age has both advantages and disadvantages.
 - A In many places there are few or no preschools available.
 - B Children can learn a lot by being around other children.
 - C Young children feel insecure when they are away from their parents.

- 3 The Internet is crucial to modern life, and parents and schools can do a lot to make sure children use the Internet safely.
 - A Although the Internet is widely available, there are still people who don't use it.
 - B Many schools have developed systems that limit the websites children can access.
 - C Parents often limit how and when their children can use the Internet.

- 4 I agree that modern technology has made our lives better in many ways.
 - A Cell phones have greatly improved communication in both our private and professional lives.
 - B There have always been people who protest any technological change.
 - C Cars are now much easier and much safer to drive.

- 5 Although many products are tested on animals for safety and efficacy, I believe this is a cruel practice as well as being completely unnecessary.
 - A Laboratory animals suffer a great deal of pain and discomfort.
 - B There are other ways to test products besides using animals.
 - C Both drug and cosmetic companies test their products on animals.

When you write your outline, think of two or three details to support each main idea.

PRACTICE 5

Choose the main idea of each group of sentences.

- 1
 - A Children at this age are ready and eager to learn.
 - B This is the time when children need to become independent of their parents.
 - C The best time to start school is at the age of three or four.
 - D Young children need to be with other children of the same age.

- 2 A The older you are, the better decisions you will make.
 B Divorces will decrease if people get married when they are older.
 C It is better to be married when you are established in your profession.
 D Young people haven't had enough experience to choose a spouse wisely.
- 3 A Nonsmokers can get cancer from secondhand smoke.
 B Many people are allergic to cigarette smoke.
 C Smoking is a public health hazard and should be outlawed.
 D Smoking leaves an unpleasant smell in buildings and buses.
- 4 A Cars have made many good contributions to our way of life.
 B Cars make it easy to become familiar with other towns and cities.
 C Cars give people more choices of where they will work and live.
 D Cars make it easier for people to manage their own schedules.
- 5 A Cell phones cause drivers to take their eyes off the road.
 B People tend to drive faster when they are talking on cell phones.
 C Drivers aren't aware of surrounding traffic when they are using a cell phone.
 D Cell phone use while driving is very dangerous.

PRACTICE 6

Read each essay. Then, complete the missing parts of each outline.

Some parents send their children to preschool when they are three or four years old. Other parents wait until their children are old enough for primary school before they send them to school.

Discuss the advantages and disadvantages of sending children to preschool at a young age.

While many children start preschool when they are only three or four years old, there are both advantages and disadvantages to this situation. Preschool gives children the chance to develop important skills. It also provides a safe place for children while their parents are at work. On the other hand, it takes them away from their parents at a young age.

Preschool gives children an opportunity to develop important skills. They develop social skills when they play with the other children at school. They learn to share, to negotiate disagreements, and to do things as a group. They also learn skills that will prepare them for primary school. They learn about colors, numbers, and letters. They learn to sit and listen to the teacher. These things will help them later when they start first grade.

Preschool also provides a safe place for children while their parents are working. At preschool, children are cared for by trained teachers who understand children and their needs. They also know how to handle emergencies. Parents can feel confident that their children are well cared for at preschool.

There are, however, some disadvantages to sending children to preschool. The biggest one is that it separates them from their parents for a large part of the day. Many children at the age of three or four are not yet ready to spend so much time away from their parents. It can cause them to feel unhappy and insecure. It is often better for young children to be cared for by relatives, if this is possible.

Preschool can be a good experience for many children, but others aren't ready for school at an early age. Parents need to make the decision about preschool based on the personality of each individual child and the family situation.

Some people say that the best way to discourage smoking is to make smoking illegal in public places. Other people say that this is not enough and that other measures are needed.

Discuss both these views, and give your opinion.

Give reasons for your answer, and include any relevant examples from your own knowledge or experience.

Smoking is a serious public health problem, and it needs to be discouraged. Some people feel that making laws against smoking in public places is a good way to do this. Others believe that more needs to be done. In my opinion, laws against smoking are an important part of discouraging this bad habit, but I agree that more needs to be done.

Laws against smoking in public can go a long way toward discouraging this dangerous habit. If people aren't allowed to smoke in public, that means they can't smoke in restaurants, stores, parks, offices, banks, libraries, and other places. It means that whenever they are not in their own homes or their friends'

TIP

When you write your outline, you can write in note form with abbreviated words and phrases. When you write your essay, however, you will need to write in complete sentences.

STEP 2: WRITE

After you plan, you are ready to write. Allow about 25 minutes for this step. Use your outline as a guide to writing your essay.

Write the Introduction

The introduction to your essay states your thesis and tells the reader how you plan to develop your ideas. The main ideas that you develop from your outline should be summarized in the introduction.

Compare these introductions,

Task

In many parts of the world, people rely on private cars for transportation.

In what ways does reliance on private cars affect the way we live?

Do the effects tend to be positive or negative?

Version A

A lot of people have their own cars, and this affects the way we live. We rely on our cars, and this can be both good and bad.

Version B

In many places, private cars are the most important form of transportation, and this has had a big impact on the way people live. Private cars offer a lot of freedom, but they also cause crowding and pollution, and they encourage isolation. Despite the advantages, I believe they have a negative effect on our lives.

Discussion

Version A presents the topic that private cars affect our lives in both good and bad ways, but it does not tell us much. What are the ways that cars affect our lives?

Version B mentions several ways in which cars affect our lives—they give us freedom but also cause crowding and pollution as well as isolation. This introduction lets the reader know what to expect in the body of the essay—that each one of these effects will be discussed in detail.

Task

Using a cell phone while driving is dangerous because it causes the driver to become distracted. Therefore, cell phone use by drivers should be made illegal.

To what extent do you agree or disagree?

Version A

I agree that it is dangerous to drive while talking on a cell phone. This is why we need laws against this practice.

Version B

Some people believe that there should be a law against using a cell phone while driving, but I do not agree with this point of view. I think that often cell phone use by a driver is necessary and that there are ways to make it safe.

Discussion

Version A presents the writer’s agreement with the statement, but it does not give any reasons for this opinion. The reader is given no guidance about how the essay will be developed.

Version B also presents the writer’s opinion, and then supports it with two reasons—that cell phone use is often necessary and that it can be safe. From this introduction, the reader can expect to see one paragraph in the body of the essay for each of these reasons.

PRACTICE 8

Read the introductions for the following tasks. Determine the thesis of each essay and what the main idea of each paragraph will be. The first one is an example.

1 Task

A growing number of people work by telecommuting, that is, the employee works from home, using a computer and the Internet to connect with the office.

What are the advantages and disadvantages of working this way?

Give reasons for your answer, and include any relevant examples from your own knowledge or experience.

Introduction

While telecommuting is becoming increasingly popular, there are both benefits and drawbacks to this way of working. Telecommuting has many conveniences for the employee, and it can help the employer cut costs as well. On the other hand, employers often feel it makes it more difficult to manage their workers.

2 Task

Some families think the best way to take care of their aging parents is to care for them at home. Others believe that it is better for their parents to live in a special home for the elderly.

Discuss both these views and give your opinion.

Give reasons for your answer, and include any relevant examples from your own knowledge or experience.

Introduction

Caring for aging parents is an issue many families face today. Some families prefer to keep their parents at home because they will get better and less expensive care that way. Others put their parents in a home for the elderly because they don't have the time or resources to care for them in their own homes. While I understand the reasons for special homes for the elderly, I would prefer to have my own family care for my aging parents.

3 Task

Some people feel that life was better in the past when we had less modern technology because things were simpler and less complicated.

To what extent do you agree or disagree with this opinion?

Give reasons for your answer, and include any relevant examples from your own knowledge or experience.

Introduction

Some people believe that things were better in the past before modern technology complicated our lives, but I do not agree with this point of view. I believe that life was worse in a number of ways. The lack of modern machines meant that people worked harder, the lack of modern medicine meant that they died younger, and the lack of modern transportation meant that they had fewer opportunities.

Give reasons for your answer, and include any relevant examples from your own knowledge or experience.

Introduction

Most of the world's major cities have serious traffic congestion, making life difficult for local citizens. There are several causes of this problem, but there are also solutions. One cause is overcrowded cities. Another is lack of transportation options. City governments should focus on improving public transportation and encouraging alternative ways of getting around.

Zoos are inhumane and should be abolished.

To what extent do you agree or disagree with this opinion?

Write the Paragraphs

Once you have written your thesis statement and shown the reader how you plan to develop your essay, you have the basis for writing your body paragraphs. You use the main ideas and supporting details from your outline to write the sentences for each paragraph. Of course, you must use correct grammar and spelling and show variety in your vocabulary and sentence types. (See Chapters 2–4 for practice with these items.)

PRACTICE 10

Look at the following outlines developed from some of the introductions in Practice 8 (page 137). Use each one to write a paragraph. The first one is an example.

- 1 Main idea Telecommuting is more convenient for the employee......
- Supporting details No need to commute.....
- No need for special work clothes*.....
- More time for family responsibilities*.....

Paragraph

Telecommuting makes things more convenient for the employee. For one thing, there is no need to spend time and money commuting between work and home. In addition, the employee can wear casual clothes most days so does not have to spend a lot of time and money shopping for work clothes. Finally, working at home means the employee has more time to devote to family responsibilities such as cooking, cleaning, and child care.

PRACTICE 11

On a separate sheet of paper, write the body paragraphs for each of the outlines you wrote in Practice 7 (page 133).

TIP

Write sentences using structures and grammar that you feel confident about using. Don't write long sentences only in order to impress the examiners. It is better to have shorter, well-structured sentences than long ones filled with errors.

Write the Conclusion

A good conclusion briefly sums up the ideas you developed in your essay. It is a restatement of the thesis and main ideas you laid out in your introduction. Compare the following introduction and conclusion from one essay.

Introduction

The divorce rate is increasing in many places. I believe that the breakdown of the extended family and the stresses of work are the major causes of this situation. Fortunately, although these issues have led to a rise in the divorce rate, there are ways we can solve this problem.

Conclusion

There are a lot of demands in modern life that place stress on a marriage and lead to divorce. However, people can choose to make changes to their lifestyle that can result in a better, stronger marriage.

Discussion

The introduction mentions two causes of divorce: the breakdown of the extended family and the stresses of work. In the conclusion, these two main ideas are summed up as demands in modern life. The introduction also states the opinion that there are ways to solve the problem of the rising divorce rate. The conclusion restates this opinion as people can choose to make changes to their lifestyle that can result in a better, stronger marriage.

Compare the following introduction and conclusion from another essay.

Introduction

Some people believe that there should be a law against using a cell phone while driving but I do not agree with this point of view. I think that often cell phone use by a driver is necessary and that there are ways to make it safe.

Conclusion

Making cell phone use by drivers illegal would be unfair because many people need to use their phones while in the car. As long as drivers use certain devices, cell phone use is not distracting and not dangerous.

Discussion

The introduction states the writer's opinion: disagreement with laws against cell phone use while driving. This is restated in the conclusion as Making cell phone use by drivers illegal would be unfair. The introduction also presents two main ideas: cell phone use by a driver is necessary and there are ways to make it safe. These ideas are restated in the conclusion as many people need to use their phones while in the car and As long as drivers use certain devices, cell phone use is not distracting and not dangerous.

PRACTICE 13

On a separate sheet of paper, take the introductions you wrote in Practice 9 (page 140) and put each one together with the corresponding body paragraphs you wrote in Practice 11 (page 143). Then, complete each essay by writing an appropriate conclusion.

STEP 3: REVISE

You should allow about 5 minutes to revise your essay after you write.

Use the Revision Checklist

When you revise, you check the content and language of your essay. You need to make sure that the content is well developed and well organized and that you have used correct grammar, spelling, and punctuation. You can use this revision checklist to practice revising.

Read the following model essay and note how well it follows the items on the checklist.

In many parts of the world, people rely on private cars for transportation.

In what ways does reliance on private cars affect the way we live?

Do the effects tend to be positive or negative?

Give reasons for your answer, and include any relevant examples from your own knowledge or experience.

In many places, private cars are the most important form of transportation, and this has had a big impact on the way people live. Private cars offer a lot of freedom, but they also cause crowding and pollution, and they encourage isolation. Despite the advantages, I believe they have a negative effect on our lives.

Private cars give us a lot of freedom in our work and personal lives. If you have your own car, you have more job choices because you don't have to worry about how you will get to work. Whether you live close to your job or far away, you can easily commute to work in your car. You also have more freedom to choose where you will live. You don't have to live in a neighborhood close to your job or close to stores or close to a bus route. You can live anywhere you want because your car will take you everywhere you need to go.

When most people have their own car, however, this affects the quality of our roads and air. When there are a lot of private cars, the roads become congested, and there are frequent traffic jams. This makes it difficult to get to places and causes a lot of stress. In addition, cars cause air pollution. This is bad for the natural environment and can also lead to illness.

Another problem with private cars is isolation. When people drive their own cars, they lose opportunities to interact with other people. They don't know their neighbors because they never walk down the street. They don't have the chance to meet people at the bus stop or on the subway.

Private cars have an advantage because they are convenient, but I think the disadvantages outweigh the benefits. I think it is important to support alternative forms of transportation.

Check for Thesis Statement

The thesis is a statement of what the essay is about. The task asks the writer to discuss the effect of cars on our lives and whether they are more positive or negative. In the first paragraph, the writer mentions several effects of cars and then gives an opinion about these effects, which is the thesis statement:

Despite the advantages, I believe they have a negative effect on our lives.

Check for Main Ideas

The main ideas support the thesis. The first paragraph mentions three topics that support the thesis. These will become the main ideas of the paragraphs in the body of the essay.

- 1 Private cars offer a lot of freedom
- 2 they also cause crowding and pollution
- 3 encourage isolation

Check for Supporting Details

The supporting details give information to support the main ideas. In this essay, the body paragraphs each have a main idea and supporting details. Each main idea matches a topic introduced in the first paragraph.

Paragraph 2

Main Idea Private cars give us a lot of freedom in our work and personal lives.

Supporting Details

- you have more job choices
- You also have more freedom to choose where you will live

Paragraph 3

Main Idea When most people have their own car, however, this affects the quality of our roads and air.

Supporting Details

- When there are a lot of private cars, the roads become congested, and there are frequent traffic jams.
- cars cause air pollution

Paragraph 4

Main Idea Another problem with private cars is isolation.

Supporting Details

- When people drive their own cars, they lose opportunities to interact with other people.
- They don't know their neighbors because they never walk down the street.
- They don't have the chance to meet people at the bus stop or on the subway.

Check the Conclusion

The conclusion should sum up the ideas presented in the introduction. In this essay, the introduction mentions some advantages and disadvantages of private cars and states the writer's opinion that cars have a negative effect on our lives. The conclusion sums up the advantages of cars with the word convenient and restates the opinion—but I think the disadvantages outweigh the benefits—and adds to it by suggesting a solution (alternative forms of transportation).

Check for Transition Words

Transition words connect ideas. See Chapter 2 (page 166) for more information on transition words. This essay uses appropriate transition words.

Paragraph	Transition Word	Purpose
Paragraph 1	but	Shows contrast
Paragraph 2	also	Adds information
Paragraph 3	however	Shows contrast
Paragraph 3	In addition	Adds information
Paragraph 4	Another	Adds information
Paragraph 5	but	Shows contrast

Check for Grammar and Spelling

Correct grammar and spelling help keep your ideas clear to the reader. See Chapter 4 for guidance on grammar and Chapter 3 (page 189) for guidance on spelling. There are no grammar or spelling errors in this essay.

Check for Sentence Variety

Using a variety of sentence types in your essay can help you express your ideas more clearly, and it makes your essay more interesting to read. It also shows the range of your writing ability. See Chapter 4 (page 213) for a discussion of different sentence types.

This essay uses a variety of sentence types. Here are some examples.

Paragraph	Sentence Type	Example
Paragraph 1	Compound Sentence	In many places, private cars are the most important form of transportation, and this has had a big impact on the way people live
Paragraph 2	Complex Sentence	You can live anywhere you want because your car will take you everywhere you need to go.
Paragraph 3	Simple Sentence	In addition, cars cause air pollution

PRACTICE 14

Read the following model essays. Answer the questions that follow each essay. Use the Revision Checklist to help you answer the questions.

A

Using a cell phone while driving is dangerous because it causes the driver to become distracted. Therefore, cell phone use by drivers should be made illegal. To what extent do you agree or disagree?

Give reasons for your answer, and include any relevant examples from your own knowledge or experience.

Some people believe that there should be a law against using a cell phone while driving, but I do not agree with this point of view. I think that often cell phone use by a driver is necessary and that there are ways to make it safe.

People have cell phones because they need them, and often they need to use them when they are traveling by car. Some people, for example, use their cars on company business. They may need to talk to their boss or to a client while they are on the road. Another example is parents, who need to be in communication with their children. A child may have a schedule change and need a ride home. Parents may need to let their child know that they will arrive home a little bit late.

These are just some examples of reasons why people may need to use phones while driving. They are all important.

Using a cell phone while driving does not have to be dangerous. There are devices that make cell phone use less distracting. Drivers can use earphones, for example, so that they don't have to hold the phone and can keep both hands on the steering wheel. Devices make holding and looking at the phone unnecessary. Then, talking on a cell phone is no more distracting than talking to a passenger in the car.

Making cell phone use by drivers illegal would be unfair because many people need to use their phones while in the car. As long as drivers use certain devices, cell phone use is not distracting and not dangerous.

Obesity is an increasing public health problem in some parts of the world.

Explain some possible reasons for this problem and suggest some solutions.

Give reasons for your answer, and include any relevant examples from your own knowledge or experience.

Obesity has become a major public health issue in a number of countries. Poor diet and lack of exercise are the major reasons behind this. While obesity is a serious problem for these reasons, there are solutions.

The biggest cause of the obesity problem, in my opinion, is poor diet. Fast food restaurants have become widespread, and people like to eat at them because they are cheap and convenient. Unfortunately, the meals they sell are high in calories and low in nutrition. Snack foods, especially chips and sodas, are also very popular. Like fast food meals, these foods provide a lot of calories but little nutrition.

Another major cause of obesity is lack of exercise. People drive everywhere, so they have little opportunity to walk. People also work long hours and don't have much time to go to the gym or play sports. Children seem to prefer sitting in front of the computer to playing active games outside with their friends.

Fortunately, there are solutions to this problem. Education is very important. Public campaigns to explain the importance of good diet and regular exercise could get people to think about changing their habits. In addition, making healthy food more available would encourage people to eat better. Schools, for example, could provide lunches with lots of fresh fruits and vegetables.

Obesity is a problem because it can lead to some serious health conditions. If people are encouraged to eat better and exercise more, however, the situation could be greatly improved.

A growing number of people rely on restaurants and convenience food (frozen food and packaged meals) rather than home-cooked food to supply most of their meals.

What are the advantages and disadvantages of eating this way?

Give reasons for your answer, and include any relevant examples from your own knowledge or experience.

These days, many people prefer not to prepare their own meals at home, choosing instead to eat at restaurants or buy convenience foods. This popular way of eating has both advantages and disadvantages. For busy people, it is a convenient way to eat, but it is expensive and not very healthful.

The biggest advantage of eating restaurant meals and convenience foods is that it makes mealtime much simpler. Many people are busy with their jobs and taking care of their children. It is hard for them to find time to plan meals, shop, cook, and then clean up after each meal. If all they have to do at dinnertime is choose a restaurant or put something in the microwave oven, then dinner is a much easier event. It becomes a relaxing and pleasant time to be with the family.

Although eating restaurant meals and convenience foods is simpler than cooking at home, it can be quite expensive. Restaurant meals cost a great deal more than meals cooked at home. Convenience foods cost less than restaurant meals, but they are still expensive. It is hard for many families to afford to eat restaurant meals and convenience foods on a regular basis.

Another disadvantage of restaurant meals and convenience foods is that they are not very healthful. They are often high in fat, salt, and sugar. In addition, restaurant portions tend to be big, which makes them higher in calories. Convenience foods may contain vegetables, but they are not fresh. Therefore, they are not a good source of vitamins. Home-cooked meals, on the other hand, can be as nutritious as you want to make them.

Mealtime is easy when you choose restaurant meals or convenience foods, but if you are concerned about costs and health, home-cooked meals are a better option.

Some people say that physical education classes are an important part of a child's education. Others believe that it is more important to focus on academics during school time.

Discuss both these views and give your opinion.

Give reasons for your answer, and include any relevant examples from your own knowledge or experience.

The majority of schools devote most of the school day to academic classes but also set aside time for physical education and other nonacademic classes. However, not everyone agrees with this way of dividing up the school day. While there are people who think that school should only be about academics, others believe that physical education is also important, and I agree with this point of view.

Some people feel that school should be all about academics. According to this point of view, children need to spend their entire school day learning math, science, literature, and history. Devoting time to these subjects is the best way to prepare children for their future university education and careers. If children enjoy playing sports, they should do it outside of school time.

Other people, however, feel that physical education is an important part of a child's education. According to this point of view, physical education teaches children important skills such as teamwork, leadership, and how to win and lose gracefully. In addition, physical education classes are the best way to ensure that children get the regular physical exercise that they need to stay healthy. Finally, if children spend a little time each day being physically active, it helps them concentrate better on their academic work.

I agree that devoting some school time to physical education is necessary. If schools don't give importance to physical education, children will not learn that physical activity is important. They won't get the exercise that they need to grow up healthy. It is not enough to say they can play games and sports in their free time. They won't choose to do these things if no one teaches them that they are important.

Academics are important, but physical education is important, too. Schools need to prepare children for all aspects of life, including taking care of their physical health.

PRACTICE 15

Use the Revision Checklist to revise the essays you wrote in Practice 13 (page 147).

2

IELTS examiners score your writing on its coherence and cohesion. Coherence refers to how easily a reader can understand and follow your ideas. Cohesion refers to how well you connect your ideas in your writing.

PARAGRAPHING

A well-organized piece of writing has coherence. If you follow the steps for writing your essays as outlined in the first section of this book, your essay will be coherent. Your essay will have a clearly stated thesis supported by main ideas. A reader can easily understand and follow your ideas.

In a well-organized essay, the main ideas that support the thesis are developed in the body paragraphs. Each paragraph is about one idea. This idea—the main idea—is supported by supporting details. The supporting details explain the main idea with reasons or examples.

This paragraph is coherent. The ideas are easy to follow.

Telecommuting makes things more convenient for the employee. For one thing, there is no need to spend time and money commuting between work and home. In addition, the employee can wear casual clothes most days so does not have to spend a lot of time and money shopping for work clothes. Finally, working at home means the employee has more time to devote to family responsibilities such as cooking, cleaning, and child care.

The first sentence clearly states the main idea—that telecommuting is convenient for employees. Each of the following sentences, the supporting statements, provides an example of how telecommuting is convenient. It is easy for the reader to follow the writer's ideas.

This paragraph is also coherent. The ideas are easy to follow.

The staff at your hotel provided us with excellent service. The front desk clerk greeted us cheerfully and patiently answered all our questions. When we realized that our room was too small, we were moved to a larger one at no extra charge. And when we asked for more towels, they were brought to our room right away.

The first sentence clearly states the main idea—that the hotel staff provided excellent service. Each of the following sentences, the supporting statements, provides an example of that excellent service. It is easy for the reader to follow the writer's ideas.

PRACTICE 1

Read the following paragraphs. Underline the main idea in each paragraph. Cross out the sentence that does not support the main idea.

- 1 Far from being a sort of cruel jail for wild animals, zoos actually play an important role in animal conservation. Modern zoos keep their animals in large enclosures that resemble the natural habitat. Zoos give people the opportunity to see animals up close and learn about their habits and needs. This helps people feel a connection with animals and helps them understand the importance of preserving wild habitat. It makes people more interested in supporting conservation efforts.
- 2 The most important reason why I chose to move to this neighborhood is its convenient location. It is close to my job, so I can walk to work when the weather is nice. There are two small grocery stores nearby, and the mall is just a short subway ride away. Most of the houses are affordable, although a few are a bit expensive. There is a gym one block from my house, which makes it very easy to get my daily exercise.
- 3 Spending too much time on the Internet can have a bad effect on children's health. Children need a lot of physical exercise to stay healthy. When they spend a lot of time online, however, they don't get physical exercise. Parents should encourage their children to turn off the computer and spend time outside playing physically active games. Children can easily find information on the Internet that is not suitable for their young minds.
- 4 I can recommend several interesting things for you to do during your visit to this city. This city is famous for its pleasant climate. You won't want to miss a visit to the shopping district since our city is so famous for its stores. City Park is near there, has a beautiful garden, and is a nice place for a walk on a sunny day. I think you would also enjoy the history museum as it explains a lot of interesting facts about the city and region.
- 5 The price of corn dropped steadily from 2012 to 2015. It fell from just over $4.00 in 2012 to exactly $4.00 a bushel in 2013. In 2014 there was another slight drop, to around $3.50, and it dropped again, to around $3.00 a bushel in 2015. The price of wheat rose slightly in 2012.

Choose the best main idea to complete each paragraph.

- 1 First, you have to plan your meals. Then, you have to shop for the ingredients and cook. This takes time and effort. When you eat at a restaurant, on the other hand, all you have to do is choose your restaurant and then go there.
 - A Many people feel that cooking at home is inconvenient.
 - B There are a lot of people who don't know how to cook.
 - C Many families these days eat most of their meals at restaurants.
 - D Restaurants have become very popular places to eat for several reasons.

2 First, there were no batteries even though the box clearly stated, "Batteries included." Also, the surface was scratched in several places. On top of that, there was a large dent on the side.

- A I saw that a number of items were missing when I opened the package.
- B The product is not the same size or color as the one that I ordered.
- C When I removed the product from the box, I discovered several problems.
- D I will not buy any products from your company in the future.

3 More people would be able to live closer to the center of their activities. More people would be able to walk or use public transportation to get to work, go shopping, or go out for an evening with friends. Then, fewer people would need to drive cars on a regular basis and the streets would be emptier.

- A Many city residents find that life without a car is not only inexpensive but also convenient.
- B The construction of more apartments in downtown areas would do a lot to relieve traffic congestion.
- C Modern people have busy lives filled with a variety of work and leisure activities.
- D Residential neighborhoods in downtown areas are popular places to live despite their high cost.

4 We don't need a large house as it will just be my wife and myself. We would, however, like to be as close to the beach as possible. Also, we like to cook, so we would want a place with a nice kitchen. We would also like to be in a quiet neighborhood if possible. We would need the house for two weeks in August.

- A The last time I took a vacation was almost two years ago.
- B We always spend our summer vacation at the beach.
- C I am looking to buy a house close to where I work.
- D I hope you can help us find a suitable house to rent for our vacation.

5 The driver of a car needs to keep all his attention on the road, but a phone conversation distracts him from this. First, he has to take his eyes off the road to pick up the phone and dial the number. Even if he is using a handheld device, the conversation itself distracts the driver's attention from the road and the traffic around him. This endangers not only the driver and his passengers but other people on the road as well.

- A These days, many people are accustomed to using a cell phone while driving.
- B Traffic accidents are a growing problem on our busy highways.
- C It is a very dangerous habit to use a cell phone while driving.
- D Some people find it convenient to use a cell phone while driving.

PRONOUNS

Pronouns help you achieve cohesion in your writing. Using pronouns in place of nouns links ideas and avoids repeating the noun.

Subject Pronouns
I	he	she	it	we	you	they this	that	these	those
Object Pronouns
me	him	her	it	us	you	them
	this	that	these	those Possessives
my	his	her	its	our	your	their

Look at these examples.

Patricia moved to Brasilia because she got a job there.

In this sentence, the pronoun she is used to avoid repeating the name Patricia. She means Patricia.

The noun that a pronoun replaces is called the antecedent. In the above example, Patricia is the antecedent for the pronoun she.

Patricia loves her new job. It allows her to meet a lot of new people.

In this sentence, job is the antecedent for it.

PRACTICE 3

Read the following paragraphs. Draw an arrow from each of the underlined pronouns to its antecedent.

Zoos provide scientists with many important opportunities for research. For example, 1 they give scientists the chance to closely observe animal behavior. While it is true that an animal's behavior in the zoo is not exactly the same as 2 it is in the wild, there is still a lot scientists can learn. 3 They can find out, for example, about an animal's eating habits and nesting habits. 4 They can learn about how an animal responds to stressful situations. These are just a few examples of some things scientists can learn from zoo animals.

The most important public service any city can offer 5 its citizens is a public library. 6 It is a place that serves everybody's interests and needs. At a library, people can find entertaining books to read. 7 They can do research for school or look for a job. 8 They can find interesting movies to watch. No matter how old a person is or what 9 his interests are, 10 he can always find something interesting and useful at a public library. 11 Its doors are open to everyone.

Although I enjoy my new job, I miss some things about my old office. 12 It was a very friendly place to work. My colleagues were always kind and helpful, and I really miss 13 them now. 14 They gave me a farewell party on my last day of work. 15 It was a lot of fun. I hope the people at my new office will be friendly, too.

PRACTICE 4

Read the following paragraphs. Replace each underlined word with an appropriate pronoun.

Restaurant meals have several disadvantages. In the first place, 1 restaurant meals are more expensive than home-cooked meals. In addition, restaurant portions tend to be big, which makes 2 restaurant portions higher in calories. Restaurant chefs often use rich sauces in their cooking. These sauces may be delicious, but 3 the sauces are also often high in calories and fat.

There are several reasons why I have decided to sell my car. For one thing, 4 my car is old and frequently needs repairs. In addition, 5 my car's tires need to be replaced. But the main reason is that I don't use 6 my car very much anymore because I take the bus to work most of the time.

Some parents choose to send 7 some parents' children to school when 8 the children are as young as three or four years old. Other parents feel that 9 other parents' children aren't ready for school at such an early age. The fact is that not all children are the same. Different children have different needs.

I would like to invite you to come see my new house. I know you will really like 10 my new house. I have decorated 11 my new house very nicely with new furniture and paint. There is also a big garden filled with beautiful flowers and I know you will enjoy seeing 12 the flowers.

If it is not clear what the antecedent is, then you should not use a pronoun even if it means repeating words.

Look at this example.

I rode my bike into a car but, fortunately, it wasn't damaged.

What was damaged? The bike or the car? It isn't clear which one the pronoun it refers to. The sentence would be clearer without a pronoun.

I rode my bike into a car but, fortunately, the bike wasn't damaged.

Look at this example.

Tom told John that he had been chosen to receive a scholarship.

Who was chosen to receive a scholarship? Tom or John? It isn't clear which person the pronoun he refers to. This sentence would also be clearer without a pronoun.

Tom told John that John had been chosen to receive a scholarship.

PRACTICE 5

Choose the best words to complete the following paragraph.

Librarians are trained to offer their patrons a variety of services. 1 They/Patrons may come to the library looking for print materials such as books or magazines, or 2 they/patrons may need to use the Internet for research. 3 They/Patrons might want to borrow a movie or listen to a recorded book. 4 They/Librarians know that even though information is available on the Internet, many of 5 them/their patrons are also interested in reading books and magazines. 6 They/Patrons will let the librarian know what type of material 7 they/patrons are looking for, and the librarian will offer suggestions and advice.

TRANSITION WORDS AND PHRASES

Transition words and phrases achieve cohesion by linking ideas within and between sentences and paragraphs. Transition words and phrases show relationships between ideas such as sequence, cause and effect, comparison and contrast, added information, and examples.

Sequence

Some transition words and phrases show time sequence.

first	after	finally second	prior to	in the meantime
next	previously	at the same time then	while before	meanwhile

These words and phrases are usually used at the beginning of a sentence or clause.

First, you should figure out how much you can afford to pay for rent.

Next, you should look at real estate ads to find apartments in your price range.

You should find out some things about the neighborhood before you sign a lease.

You can ask the landlord questions while he is showing you the apartment.

PRACTICE 6

Complete the paragraphs with the transition words and phrases provided. Use capital letters where appropriate.

We had an excellent experience at your restaurant last night. 1, the waiter seated us at a very comfortable table. 2, he brought us our menus right away. 3 we ordered, we didn't have to wait long for our meal. We left a large tip for the waiter 4 we went home.

before after first then

Here are some tips for your first day at a new job. 5, you should make sure you arrive on time or even a little bit early. 6, look for your supervisor to let him or her know you are there. 7 you start your duties, it is a good idea to introduce yourself to everyone in the office. Remember, it may take you a little while to learn the office routines. Don't worry, after a few days, everything will become familiar, but 8, you should ask your colleagues to explain things to you.

first in the meantime next before

PRACTICE 7

Complete the paragraph with your own ideas. Use sequence transition words and phrases to link your ideas. Write at least four sentences.

... I had a very interesting day yesterday.
.....
.....
.....
.....
.....

Cause and Effect

Some transition words and phrases show a cause and effect relationship between ideas. In a cause and effect relationship, one action (the cause) makes another action happen (the effect).

These words and phrases introduce the cause.

since	because	because of	due to	as
-------	---------	------------	--------	----

I always eat at restaurants because I dislike cooking.

cause

Since the weather was so bad, we cancelled our plans.

effect

These words and phrases introduce the effect.

so	thus	therefore	consequently for this reason	as a consequence

I dislike cooking, so I always eat at restaurants.

effect

The weather was bad. For this reason, we canceled our plans.

effect

Most of these words and phrases are used at the beginning of a sentence or clause.

Drivers should not use cell phones because they are distracting.

It is dangerous to talk on the phone while driving. Therefore, it should be illegal to use a cell phone while driving.

Since restaurant meals are expensive, it is better for the family budget to eat at home.

Many people are too busy to care for their elderly relatives at home. Consequently, there is a growing need for nursing homes.

Because of and due to are followed by a noun or gerund.

People usually gain weight because of lack of exercise.

Some people don't have time to exercise because of working long hours.

Due to the increase in prices, sales went down.

PRACTICE 8

Rewrite each pair of sentences, linking the ideas with the transition word or phrase provided.

- 1 Effect: It is easy to stay informed about current events.
Cause: The Internet provides us with instant access to news.

.....

- 2 Cause: The Grand Hotel has comfortable rooms at reasonable rates.
Effect: I always stay there when I'm in town.

(so)

PRACTICE 9

In each pair of sentences, identify which is the cause and which is the effect. Rewrite the sentences, linking the ideas with a transition word or phrase. Then, rewrite the sentences again using a different transition word. Use pronouns as appropriate.

Example

A major blizzard struck the region yesterday. (cause)

There were numerous accidents on the highway. (effect)

A major blizzard struck the region yesterday. As a result, there were numerous accidents on the highway.

The numerous accidents on the highway yesterday were due to the major blizzard that struck the region.

Comparison and Contrast

Some transition words and phrases compare or contrast ideas. When you compare ideas, you show how they are similar. When you contrast ideas, you show how they are different.

These words and phrases compare ideas.

likewise	like	similarly	in the same way
	just as	too	also

These words and phrases contrast ideas.

unlike	however	but	on the other hand while	yet	although	even though conversely	nevertheless	in contrast to

Most of these words and phrases are used at the beginning of a sentence or clause.

Dogs need to be walked and played with daily. Likewise, pet parrots need frequent attention from their owners.

Greece is a popular winter vacation spot for Europeans. Similarly, many Americans spend their winter vacations in the Caribbean.

While some people don't like the cold winter weather, other people thoroughly enjoy it.

Cars are expensive and cause pollution, yet many people drive them.

However and on the other hand can follow the subject. In this case, they are set off by commas.

Big cities are crowded and noisy. Small towns, on the other hand, are peaceful and quiet.

Like and unlike are followed by a noun or a gerund.

Like overeating, lack of exercise can lead to weight gain.

Like most people, I enjoy relaxing at home on weekends.

Unlike buses, subways are not affected by traffic jams.

PRACTICE 10

Choose the correct word to complete each sentence.

- 1 Buses can carry many passengers at one time, cars can only carry a few.
(also/while)
- 2 Taking a walk every day can help you stay strong and healthy., bike riding is a good way to get exercise.
(Likewise/Nevertheless)
- 3 cities, small towns generally offer limited job opportunities.
(Like/Unlike)
- 4 Many people find small towns boring., others enjoy a small town's slow pace of life.
(Similarly/However)
- 5 beach resorts, lakeside resorts offer families the opportunity to enjoy all kinds of water sports.
(Like/Unlike)

PRACTICE 11

Look at the following pairs of sentences. Decide if the relationship between the ideas is one of comparison or contrast. Rewrite the sentences, linking the ideas with a transition word or phrase. Then, rewrite the sentences again using a different transition word.

- 1 Exercise is important for maintaining health.
Many people don't exercise regularly.

Adding Information

Some transition words and phrases connect ideas by adding information.

in addition	additionally	moreover	furthermore	too
also	as well	what's more	besides

Most of these words and phrases are used at the beginning of a sentence or a clause.

Country life is more quiet and peaceful than city life. In addition, it is better for your health.

The Internet makes it easy to stay in touch with friends and relatives. Furthermore, it provides instant access to news and information.

Also can be used at either the beginning or end of a sentence or clause, or it can precede the verb. Too and as well are generally used at the end of the clause.

The best way to manage weight is to exercise regularly. You should pay attention to your diet as well.

The best way to manage weight is to exercise regularly. You should also pay attention to your diet.

PRACTICE 12

3

Lexical resource refers to the vocabulary you use in your writing. IELTS examiners want you to use a range of vocabulary and use it correctly. They also expect you to spell the words correctly.

WORD FAMILIES

Word families are groups of words that are related to each other by meaning. Each word in a word family corresponds to a certain part of speech.

Noun	Verb	Adjective	Adverb
difference	differ	different	differently

When you learn a new word, you learn the other words in its word family, too. When you write, use the correct part of speech.

Examples

The difference between our opinions is not so great. (noun as subject)

I explained the difference between your opinion and mine. (noun as object of the verb)

Our opinions differ. (verb)

Our opinions seem different. (adjective after a linking verb)

We have different opinions on this subject. (adjective before a noun)

We think differently on this subject. (adverb)

Parts of Speech

A noun may be used as the subject of a sentence or clause, or as the object of a verb or preposition.

A verb shows an action.

An adjective describes a noun. It comes before the noun it describes or after a linking verb.

An adverb describes a verb or an adjective. An adverb of manner (ends with -ly) describes how an action is performed.

A word family may have more than one word per part of speech.

Noun	Noun	Verb	Adjective	Adverb
instruction	instructor	instruct	instructive	instructively

PRACTICE 1

Write the part of speech under the underlined words.

- We cannot deny the importance of physical education.
- Enrollment at the academy increased significantly last semester.
- Most people recognize that smoking is dangerous to the health.
- I plan to organize a formal party so that we can celebrate the event.
- Foreign language study should be a requirement in primary schools because young children learn languages easily.

The members of a word family all have the same root word. The suffix determines the part of speech.

SYNONYMS

Synonyms are words with the same or similar meanings. When you write, use synonyms to avoid repetition. Synonyms may be single words or phrases.

TIP

Synonyms don't always have the exact same meaning. Some may be more specific and others more general in meaning.

Word	Synonyms
car	automobile, vehicle, form of transportation
house	residence, home, place to live, shelter

PRACTICE 5

Choose the synonyms for each word from the list below and write them on the lines. There is more than one synonym for each word. Use a dictionary as needed.

Word	Synonyms
1 choose	acquire have a meal
2 cold	breakfast increase
3 concentrate	calm inform
4 delicious	chilly obtain

SPELLING

There is no easy way to learn English spelling. You just have to become familiar with the way words are spelled.

There are some things you can do to improve your spelling. You should know and follow spelling rules for adding endings to words. You can also study lists of commonly confused and commonly misspelled words.

TIP

The best way to become a good speller is to read a lot. The more you see words on the page, the more you will become familiar with how they look.

Adding Word Endings

Add -s to nouns to make them plural and to present tense verbs to form the third person singular.

book—books	street—streets
work—works	read—reads

NOTE: When a word ends in -s, -z, -ch, -x, or -sh, add -es.

crash—crashes	fix—fixes
buzz—buzzes	catch—catches

Add -ed to regular verbs to form the past tense.

talk—talked	explain—explained
-------------	-------------------

NOTE: When a word ends in -e, add -d only.

recognize—recognized	believe—believed
----------------------	------------------

Add -er and -est to form comparative and superlative adjectives.

old—older—oldest	clean—cleaner—cleanest
------------------	------------------------

NOTE: When a word ends in -e, add -r or -st only.

wide—wider—widest	nice—nicer—nicest
-------------------	-------------------

Words that end in a consonant + y. Change the y to ie before adding the ending.
This rule does not apply to words that end in a vowel + y.

city—cities		boy—boys
hurry—hurries	BUT	stay—stays
carry—carries		annoy—annoys
tasty—tastier		gray—grayer
starry—starriest		coy—coyest

Words that end consonant-vowel-consonant. Double the final consonant before adding -ed, -er, or -est.

This rule does not apply to words where the final syllable is not stressed or to words ending in -x.

cram—crammed		order—ordered omit—omitted	BUT	box—boxed thin—thinner		fasten—fastened

PRACTICE 7

Add endings to the following words. Follow the spelling rules.

Add -s	Add -ed	Add -er and -est
1 expect	13 discuss	25 strong
2 match	14 increase	26 clean
3 buzz	15 admit	27 dim
4 dismiss	16 harden	28 wealthy
5 decision	17 rely	29 cheap
6 suffix	18 refer	30 hot
7 animal	19 help	31 muddy
8 entry	20 apologize	32 lucky
9 essay	21 stray	33 big
10 cash	22 notify	34 high
11 satisfy	23 insist	35 dirty
12 delay	24 offer	36 short

Adverbs of Manner

Add -ly to adjectives to form adverbs of manner.

rapid—rapidly sharp—sharply

For words that end in -y, change the -y to i, and then add -ly.

easy—easily sleepy—sleepily

For words that end in -le, change the -e to -y.

gentle—gently simple—simply

For words that end in -ic, add -ally.

public—publically electronic—electronically

PRACTICE 8

Form adverbs of manner by adding -ly to the following adjectives. Follow the spelling rules.

- 1 powerful
- 2 lucky
- 3 terrible
- 4 safe
- 5 energetic
- 7 reasonable
- 8 traditional
- 9 cautious
- 10 fantastic
- 11 responsible
- 12 satisfactory

TIP

Not all words that end in -ly are adverbs. Many are adjectives (examples: lovely, friendly, chilly), nouns (examples: monopoly, assembly), or verbs (examples: apply, comply).

Commonly Confused Words

Some words have the same or similar sound as another word, but the spelling and meaning are different. Look at these pairs of commonly confused words.

TIP

Make your own list of words that are difficult for you, and practice spelling them. Writing the words frequently will help you remember how to spell them.

Commonly Misspelled Words

Study this list of words that are commonly misspelled by test takers.

achievement	opportunity believe	percentage
definitely	possible
different	recommend environment	receive
familiar	society
government	success
modern	temperature
necessary	their
nowadays	therefore

PRACTICE 10

Find and correct the spelling mistakes in the following paragraphs. Do not look at the above word list.

- A The charts show the percentag of homes that were heated with solar power in two different years, as well as the reasons why people chose this method of heating there homes. Most people reported that they chose solar power because they are concerned about protecting the enviroment. Some people chose solar power because they recieved money from the goverment to help pay for the installation.
- B I am writing to tell you that I will be visiting Springfield next month. I know you are familar with that city as you have been there several times. Therefor, I hope you can reccomend some interesting things to see and do during my visit. You know I am very interested in modren art, so I would like to take the oppotunity to visit some art galleries. And I would definitely like to do some shopping, so I hope you can give me the names of some of the best stores. I would also like to know about the weather so I can decide what clothes to pack. Are the temparitures high or low at this time of year? I won't finalize my plans untill I hear from you, so please answer as soon as posible.
- C People have different ideas of what suces is. Some beleive that it means making a lot of money. Others feel that it means the achievment of something important. In my opinon, it means finding happiness. Nowadays, people feel that they have to work long hours to make a lot of money. This makes them look successful in the eyes of soceity. However, I don't think that it is necessary to make a lot of money. Of course, money is nice, but there are other things that are more important.

IELTS examiners want you to use a variety of grammatical forms and structures. You should use them correctly.

ARTICLES

A singular noun is usually preceded by an article. A plural or noncount noun may also be preceded by an article.

Articles
a	an	the

Indefinite Articles: a/an

A and an precede singular nouns only. Use a with nouns that begin with a consonant sound. Use an with nouns that begin with a vowel sound.

Vowels
a	e	i	o	u

TIP

Sometimes a word begins with a vowel but not with a vowel sound.

example: university—I studied at a university in England.

When the first letter of a word is a silent consonant, the word begins with a vowel sound.

example: honor—It is an honor to meet you.

Indefinite means that the noun does not refer to any specific thing. Look at these examples.

Example	Explanation
A cell phone is useful in emergencies.	No specific cell phone. Any cell phone is useful in emergencies.
I need an egg to make this cake.	No specific egg. Any egg will do to make the cake.

Definite Article: the

The can precede singular, plural, and noncount nouns. The is used when the noun refers to something specific. Look at these examples.

Example	Explanation
The moon was bright last night.	Only one in existence.
The park is closed after dark.	Both speaker and audience know the reference.
The prices in this store are very high.	A phrase in the sentence defines the noun.
A machine squeezes juice from oranges. The machine can process 100 pounds of fruit an hour.	The second mention of something in the text.

No Article

When a plural or noncount noun is indefinite, an article is not required.

Example	Explanation
Cities are often crowded.	No specific cities. Many cities are crowded.
Money is hard to get and hard to keep.	No specific money. Money in general could be described this way.

PRACTICE 1

Complete the paragraph with a, an, the or \emptyset (to indicate no article is needed). Remember, the first mention of an item in the text is considered indefinite.

1 oranges make delicious 2 juice. After harvesting, 3 oranges are placed in 4 washer. 5 washer uses 6 water and 7 soap to clean 8 oranges. 9 soap is special food-grade soap. Next, 10 oranges go to 11 extractor, and 12 extractor squeezes 13 fruit.

PRACTICE 2

Write a paragraph describing the steps for washing dishes. Use as many words as you can from the lists below. Write four or five sentences. Use articles correctly.

Nouns	Verbs	Adjectives
sink	fill	warm
water	add	hot soap	put	cold
dishes	soak	clean sponge	scrub	dirty
rack	rinse
towel	dry

A past unreal conditional is about something that wasn't true in the past.

- The verb in the if clause is in the past perfect tense.
- The verb in the main clause uses would + have + past participle.

If Mary had gotten up early this morning, she would have gotten here on time.

verb

would + have + past participle

The sentence above is a past unreal conditional. The truth is that Mary didn't get up early this morning and didn't get here on time.

Mary would have passed the test if she had studied more last weekend.

would + have + past participle

past perfect
verb

The sentence above is also a past unreal conditional. The truth is that Mary didn't study enough last weekend and didn't pass the test.

PRACTICE 6

Complete the paragraph with the correct form of the verb in parentheses.

I didn't make my hotel reservation early. If I 1 (make) my reservation early, they 2 (give) me a better room. As it was, the room they gave me was small, and the bed was lumpy. ADJECTIVE CLAUSES WITH SUBJECT RELATIVE PRONOUNS

An adjective clause describes or identifies a noun in the main clause.

People who work at home don't have to spend time commuting.
adjective clause

The sentence above is made up of a main clause (People don't have to spend time commuting) and an adjective clause (who work at home). The adjective clause identifies the noun people. It tells us which people we are talking about.

An adjective clause immediately follows the antecedent. The antecedent is the noun that the clause describes.

Restaurants that serve breakfast open early.
antecedent adjective clause

An adjective clause can be restrictive or nonrestrictive.

A restrictive clause provides information that is necessary to identify the noun. All of the above examples are restrictive clauses.

A nonrestrictive clause provides extra information that is not necessary to identify the noun.

Dr. Jones, who is the director of the zoo, is committed to caring for the animals.
antecedent adjective clause

You could remove a nonrestrictive clause from a sentence and the identity of the noun would still be clear. Nonrestrictive clauses are set off with commas.

An adjective clause begins with a relative pronoun such as who, whom, whose, that, or which.

Children who go to preschool learn to socialize with other children.
relative pronoun

The relative pronoun can be the subject or object of the clause. In all the examples above, the relative pronoun is the subject of the adjective clause.

The correct relative pronoun to use depends on whether the antecedent is a person, a thing, or something that possesses, and whether the clause is restrictive or nonrestrictive. In some cases, you have more than one choice.

Relative Pronouns—Subject

	Restrictive	Nonrestrictive
People	who that	who
Things	which that	which
Possessives	whose	whose

PRACTICE 8

Underline the adjective clause and circle the relative pronoun in each sentence. Identify each clause as restrictive or nonrestrictive.

- 1 The waiter who served us was very polite.
.....
- 2 Houses that are well insulated burn less heating fuel.
.....
- 3 My apartment, which is on the top floor, gets a lot of sunlight.
.....
- 4 School is fun for children whose teachers provide them with interesting activities.
.....
- 5 The front desk clerk, who was very busy at the time, forgot to give me my room key.
.....
- 6 Public transportation is convenient for commuters who travel during rush hour.
.....
- 7 You should avoid eating snacks that are high in fat and sugar.
.....
- 8 The local zoo, which is open 365 days a year, is always crowded on holidays.
.....

Choose the correct relative pronouns to complete the paragraph.

People 1 (who/whose) elderly parents are unable to care for themselves have a difficult choice to make. Will they care for their parents at home? Or will they put their parents in the hands of nursing home workers 2 (who/which) can provide them with care 24 hours a day? People 3 (who/which) have full-time jobs often don't have the time or energy to provide the needed care. On the other hand, nursing homes can be quite expensive, and nursing homes 4 (who/which) charge less may not provide excellent care. It is a difficult decision 5 (whose/that) requires a lot of thought and discussion. If a family decides to use a nursing home, they should choose a home 6 (that/whose) is pleasant, comfortable, and convenient to visit. And they should visit frequently. Nursing home residents 7 (which/whose) families visit them often live longer, happier lives.

ADJECTIVE CLAUSES WITH OBJECT RELATIVE PRONOUNS

An adjective clause begins with a relative pronoun. The relative pronoun can be the subject or the object of the clause. In the following example, the relative pronoun is the object of the clause.

The house that we bought is in a nice neighborhood.
antecedent adjective clause

In the sentence above, we is the subject of the clause, and bought is the main verb. The relative pronoun that, with the antecedent house, is the object of the verb.

The nursing home that you choose should have a professionally trained staff.
antecedent adjective clause

In the sentence above, you is the subject of the clause, and choose is the main verb. The relative pronoun that, with the antecedent nursing home, is the object of the verb.

An adjective clause can be restrictive or nonrestrictive. The adjective clauses in both the sentences above are restrictive. They are necessary to identify the antecedent. In restrictive clauses, it is possible to omit the relative pronoun (except whose) when it is the object of the clause.

The house we bought is in a nice neighborhood.
antecedent adjective clause

The nursing home you choose should have a professionally trained staff.
antecedent adjective clause

Nonrestrictive clauses provide extra information that is not necessary to identify the antecedent.

My supervisor, who you met at the office party, was just promoted.
antecedent adjective clause

My garden, which many people admire, was severely damaged by the drought.
antecedent adjective clause

Whom rather than who is considered the correct form for an object relative pronoun in formal, written English. In spoken English, however, and often in written English as well, who is often used as an object pronoun.

Relative Pronouns—Object

	Restrictive	Nonrestrictive
People	who whom that nothing	who whom
Things	which that nothing	which
Possessives	whose	whose

PRACTICE 10

Underline the adjective clause and circle the relative pronoun in each sentence. Identify each clause as restrictive or nonrestrictive.

- 1 We really enjoyed the meal that you prepared for us last night.
- 2 Our house, which we bought just three years ago, is too small for our growing family.
.....
- 3 I don't have a phone number for the woman whose purse I found.
.....
- 4 The sales manager, whom I spoke with about my problem, was very helpful.
.....
- 5 This is not the bus that I usually ride to work.
.....
- 6 I have not yet met the staff members who we hired last week.
.....
- 7 Our city's subway system, which transports thousands of commuters daily, should be expanded.
.....
- 8 The man whose ideas we heard last night is an experienced city planner.
.....

Choose the correct relative pronouns to complete the paragraph.

Acme Fashions, 1 (that/which) many people name as their favorite store, has some of the most stylish clothes in town. Unfortunately, the quality is not very high. The dress 2 (that/who) I bought there yesterday had a hole in the back and a stain near the hem. When I tried to return the dress to the store, the man 3 (who/whose) I asked to assist me was very rude. He said I had damaged the dress myself. In my opinion, it is not good policy to treat your customers, 4 (who/that) you rely on to keep your business going, in this way. I cannot wear the damaged dress and I expect the store to return the money 5(whom/that) I spent on it. Otherwise, I will have to do my shopping somewhere else.

ACTIVE AND PASSIVE VOICE

A sentence can be in either active or passive voice. Most sentences use active voice, but passive voice is used in certain situations. Passive voice is often used in describing process diagrams. (See Chapter 1, page 4.)

In an active voice sentence, the subject performs the action expressed by the main verb.

Telecommuters work at home.

subject verb

The sentence above is in active voice. The subject, telecommuters, performs the action, work.

In a passive voice sentence, the subject receives the action.

The apartment was painted by the tenant.

subject verb

The sentence above is in passive voice. The subject, apartment, did not perform the action, paint. The apartment didn't paint. The tenant painted the apartment.

Use passive voice when the agent (the one that performs the action) is unknown or unimportant. You don't have to mention the agent in a passive voice sentence, but you can. If you mention the agent, use the preposition by, as in the example above.

- Passive voice is formed with the verb be and the past participle form of the main verb.
- Passive voice can be used in any verb tense by changing the tense of the verb be.
- Passive voice sentences can be made negative by adding not to the verb be.

Simple present

The roads are repaired once a year.

The roads aren't repaired in the winter.

Present continuous

The cars are being parked right now.

The cars aren't being parked on the street.

Present perfect

That problem has already been studied.

That problem hasn't been studied yet.

Simple past

The accident was reported an hour ago.

The accident wasn't reported right away.

Future

The book will be published next month.

The book is going to be published next month.

The book won't be published this month.

Modals

The rent must be paid at the beginning of the month.
The rent shouldn't be paid late.

PRACTICE 12

Identify the following sentences as active or passive.

- 1 Many accidents are caused by drivers with cell phones.
- 2 More than half the first-year students enrolled in science classes.
- 3 A small percentage of the houses were heated with solar energy.
- 4 Smoking shouldn't be allowed in public places.
- 5 The landlord has added several new parking spaces behind the building.
- 6 A new subway system will be built in the next few years.
- 7 These days, school children are being taught by new methods.
- 8 I visited the zoo often as a child.

PRACTICE 13

Complete the paragraph with the passive form of the verbs in parentheses. Use the correct verb tense.

In the past, there weren't laws against smoking in public places. People 1
(expose) to cigarette smoke in stores and restaurants and on buses. In addition, cigarettes
2 (advertise) everywhere. People 3 (encourage) to smoke. It 4 (consider) a glamorous thing. Now we know that smoking can lead to serious health problems. Children 5 (teach) about the dangers of smoking, and they 6 (protect) from exposure to smoke. Smoking
7 (not permit) in most public places. Cigarette ads 8
(not see) in magazines or on TV. Some people still smoke, but it is more difficult for them to do so.

PARALLEL STRUCTURE

The items in a list or series must all follow the same grammatical form. This is called parallel structure.

When the weather is bad, you should drive slowly and cautiously.

Slowly and cautiously are both adverbs. This sentence has parallel structure.

Most young children like to hear stories, sing songs, and play games.

Hear, sing, and play are all present tense verbs. This sentence has parallel structure.

Subjects

Subjects not parallel

Smoke and overeating are both bad for your health.

Overeating is a gerund; smoke is not. The subjects are not parallel.

Subjects parallel

Smoking and overeating are both bad for your health.

Smoking and overeating are both gerunds. The subjects are parallel.

Verbs

Verbs not parallel

Children at preschool play with toys, are singing songs, and learn social skills.

The first and third verbs are in the present tense, while the second verb is in the present continuous. The verbs are not parallel.

Verbs parallel

Children at preschool play with toys, sing songs, and learn social skills.

All three verbs are in the present tense. The verbs are parallel.

Adverbs

Adverbs not parallel

Everyone should drive attentively, slowly, and be safe.

The first two items on the list are adverbs. The third item is a verb + adjective. The items are not parallel.

Adverbs parallel

Everyone should drive attentively, slowly, and safely.

All three items on the list are adverbs. They are parallel.

Phrases

Phrases not parallel

Teachers ask parents to bring their children to school on time and for occasional help in the classroom.

The first item on the list is a verb phrase. The second item is a prepositional phrase. The phrases are not parallel.

Phrases parallel

Teachers ask parents to bring their children to school on time and to give occasional help in the classroom.

Both items are verb phrases. They are parallel.

Voice

Voice not parallel

When you travel, you see new places and new friendships are formed.

The first verb on the list is active voice; the second one is passive voice. They are not parallel.

Voice parallel

When you travel, you see new places and form new friendships.

Both verbs are active. They are parallel.

An auxiliary verb and the “to” of an infinitive verb do not have to be repeated in order to have parallel structure. All of the following examples have parallel structure.

Drivers should turn off their cell phones and concentrate on their driving.

I want to find a new job, get a new apartment, and take a long vacation.

They are cleaning and painting the hallways this week.

I haven't found a job, gotten an apartment, or taken a vacation yet.

Convenience food is cooked and frozen at a processing plant.

PRACTICE 14

Rewrite the sentences to make them parallel.

- 1 Work and playing are both important things to include in your life.

2 I like traveling, writing, and to meet new people.

.....

3 Children learn foreign languages quickly and with ease.

.....

4 The teacher told the students to study hard, rest well before a test, and that they should come to class on time.

.....

PRACTICE 15

Write one sentence on each of the following topics. Use parallel structure.

1 Things you enjoy doing in your spare time

.....
.....

2 Reasons why people shouldn't smoke

.....
.....

3 Reasons why people should use public transportation

.....
.....

4 Reasons why some people don't use public transportation

SENTENCE TYPES

IELTS examiners want you to vary the sentence types you use. There are four types of sentences: simple, compound, complex, and compound-complex.

Simple Sentence

A simple sentence has one subject and one verb.

Children develop important skills at preschool.

subject verb

Smoking is bad for your health.

subject verb

Zoos provide many opportunities for research.

subject verb

Compound Sentence

A compound sentence is made up of two or more independent clauses linked by a coordinating conjunction. An independent clause is a clause that can stand alone as a sentence.

Many employees want to telecommute, but their bosses won't allow it.

independent clause conjunction independent clause

The streets are congested during rush hour, so many commuters ride the train.

independent clause conjunction independent clause

We can take a bus to the museum, or we can walk there.

independent clause conjunction independent clause

Coordinating Conjunctions

Conjunction	Use	Example
and	adds information	Cars are convenient, and people like to drive them.
but	shows a contradiction or contrast	Cars are expensive, but many people own them.
or	shows a choice	You can drive your car, or you can take a bus.
yet	shows a contradiction or contrast	Sam is a vocal supporter of public transportation, yet he never rides the subway.
so	shows a result	Cars are expensive, so I don't own one.
for	shows a cause	We decided not to sell the car, for no buyers could be found.

PRACTICE 16

Identify the sentence type of each sentence.

- 1 There are good preschools everywhere, but many families don't take advantage of them because they prefer to keep their children at home.
- 2 Telecommuting has become more common in recent years.
- 3 I learned to drive when I was 16, and I have been driving ever since then.
- 4 Modern technology has improved our lives in many ways.
- 5 Some companies encourage telecommuting since it saves the company money.
- 6 The waiter was very polite and efficient, so we gave him a large tip.
- 7 Seventy percent of the students enrolled in science classes, but only 30 percent enrolled in language classes.
- 8 Children learn to speak foreign languages fluently when they study them in primary school.

PRACTICE 17

Combine each set of sentences into one sentence using the conjunctions provided.

Compound sentences

- 1 Some neighborhoods are noisy and crowded.
Others are quiet and clean.

(but)

.....

- 2 I enjoy water sports.
I always spend my vacation at the beach.

(so)

.....
.....

- 3 You can have dinner alone.
I can cook for you.

(or)

Compound-complex sentences

- 7 People like living in this city.
Rents are high.
Crime is a growing problem.

(even though, and)

.....
.....

- 8 Life in a small town is peaceful and quiet.
Many young people move away.
They can't find jobs.
(but, because)

.....
.....

PRACTICE 18

Write four sentences about each of the following topics. Use each of the four sentence types—simple, compound, complex, and compound-complex—once per topic.

- 1 Zoos

.....
.....
.....
.....

- 2 The importance of physical education

.....

PUNCTUATION

IELTS examiners expect you to use correct punctuation.

Beginning and Ending Sentences

Begin every sentence with a capital letter. End every sentence with a period or question mark.

Eating at restaurants is more expensive than eating at home.
Are home-cooked meals really more nutritious?

Commas

Use a comma between items in a list of three or more things.

Most children don't learn to read, write, or do math until they start primary school.
Our waiter was polite, friendly, and efficient.

Use a comma before a coordinating conjunction.

I like eating at restaurants, but they are expensive.
We can repair the item for you, or you can return it to the store for a refund.

Use a comma after a subordinating clause at the beginning of a sentence.

After the subway system is constructed, there will be fewer traffic jams.
If more people used public transportation, there would be fewer traffic jams.

Use a comma after an introductory word or phrase.

Furthermore, there would be less air pollution.
After dessert, we paid the bill and went home.

Use a comma to separate nonessential information—a phrase or clause that can be removed from the sentence without changing the meaning of the sentence.

Tomatoes, which were originally cultivated in Mexico, are used in recipes around the world.
The Grand Hotel, one of the most expensive in the city, is right across the street from the park.

Apostrophes

Apostrophes take the place of the omitted letter in a contraction.

do not = don't we are = we're
I am = I'm she is = she's Lee is = Lee's it is = it's who is = who's he has not = he hasn't they have = they've let us = let's

TIP

Be careful not to confuse it's and its.

It's is a contraction for it is.

It's raining right now.

Its is a possessive adjective or pronoun.

The car has a dent in its side.

An apostrophe is used to show possession.

Add 's to the end of singular nouns and irregular plural nouns.

Susan's car

The manager's responsibility

My uncle's house

The children's books

Add ' only to the end of regular plural nouns.

The animals' cages

The teachers' meeting

PRACTICE 19

Add the correct punctuation to each sentence.

- 1 telecommuting which has become an increasingly popular way to work is not favored by many supervisors
- 2 when children start school at an early age do they learn better
- 3 some people feel that physical education isnt as important as academics
- 4 childrens interests change as they grow up
- 5 after I got home I noticed the stains on the jacket
- 6 clearly peoples ideas are influenced by things they see on TV and the Internet
- 7 some houses were heated with solar power and others were heated with oil or gas
- 8 what is the best age to begin foreign language study
- 9 we had to go along with our parents decision even though we didnt agree with it
- 10 when I was a child I wanted either a dog a cat or a parrot as a pet but my parents wouldnt let me have one
- 11 london one of the biggest cities in the world is a fascinating place to visit
- 12 in the evening you can visit one of our citys famous theaters

MORE WRITING PRACTICE

This section contains a selection of model essays written in response to IELTS writing tasks. Use these tasks for writing practice; then study the models as ways to respond to the tasks.

First, choose a task. Cover up the provided model essay, and read the task. Write your own response; then uncover the model and compare it with your writing.

Remember, there is no one correct way to respond to any of the tasks. The models show just one possible way of responding to particular questions. They are models of essays that are well organized and that address the task.

For an Academic Task 1 essay, notice how the information in the graph or diagram is summarized and compared in the model essay and in your own. You won't use the exact same words, but your essay should contain the same information and comparisons.

For a General Training Task 1 essay, you use your own ideas so the content of your essay will be different from the model essay. However, the structure should be similar. Notice how the model responds to each of the three points presented in the task. Make sure your essay also responds to each of the three points.

For an Academic/General Training Task 2 essay, you also use your own ideas. The content of your essay will be different from the model essay, but the structure should be similar. Notice how the model essay develops a theme with main ideas and supporting details. Check your essay to make sure it follows the same type of structure.

ACADEMIC WRITING TASK 1

1 You should spend about 20 minutes on this task.

The graph below shows the annual number of rides taken on two forms of public transportation in the city of Williamsville.

Summarize the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

Annual Ridership, Williamsville: 2011–2015

The bar graph shows the total number of rides taken by bus and by subway in Williamsville for each year from 2011 to 2015. The size of the annual ridership varied in different ways for each of the two forms of transportation.

The annual number of bus rides went up and down during the time period shown on the graph. In 2011, annual bus ridership was a little over 400,000,000. This number rose slightly to around 450,000,000 in 2012. It dropped a little in 2013, rose to almost 500,000,000 in 2014, and then dropped again in 2015 to about 450,000,000.

Annual subway ridership, on the other hand, rose steadily during the same time period. In 2011, a little over 600,000,000 rides were taken by subway. This number rose to around 650,000,000 in 2012 and continued to climb steadily until it reached around 750,000,000 in 2015.

In every year shown on the graph, subway ridership was significantly higher than bus ridership. In addition, bus ridership went up and down in this time period, while subway ridership rose consistently.

2 You should spend about 20 minutes on this task.

The table below shows the average weekly salaries of men and of women working in different occupations.

Summarize the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

Write at least 150 words.

Average Weekly Salary by Occupation 2015

	Men	Women
Technicians	$1400	$900
Service Workers	$1300	$950
Professionals	$2000	$1900
Administrative/Clerical Workers	$1350	$1000
Manual Laborers	$1100	$850

The table shows how much men and women earned on average each week in different types of jobs during 2015. For each type of job, men earned more than women.

Men's average salaries varied according to occupation. Professionals earned the highest salary, an average of $2000 a week. The next highest earning group was technicians, with an average weekly salary of $1400. Manual laborers earned the least—$1100 a week on average.

Women's average salaries also varied by occupation, but in each case they were lower than men's salaries. Like men, women professionals earned the highest salary—$1900 a week on average. This is $1000 less than professional men's salaries. The second highest earners were administrative/clerical workers, earning $1000 a week—$350 less than male administrative/clerical workers, and $400 less than the second highest earning group for men (technicians). As with men, women manual laborers earned the least. Their average weekly salary was just $850, $250 less than men's.

Both men and women earned different amounts depending on their job, but women consistently earned less than men in similar occupations.

3 You should spend about 20 minutes on this task.

The diagram below shows the process of maple syrup production.

Summarize the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

Write at least 150 words.

The diagram presents the steps for making syrup from the sap of the maple tree. It takes several steps to go from the sap in a tree to syrup we can eat at home or use for making other products.

The process begins when nighttime temperatures are below freezing and daytime temperatures are above freezing. This is when the sap flows. A tap is put into a tree, and a tube is connected to it. The sap moves through the tube to a storage tank. From there, it goes to an evaporator where it is boiled until it becomes syrup. It takes 40 gallons of sap to make one gallon of syrup. The syrup is packaged in bottles and cans. Some of it is shipped to stores. People buy it and enjoy eating at home. Some of the syrup is used to make candy or as an ingredient in cakes and other foods.

4 You should spend about 20 minutes on this task.

The diagram below shows a neighborhood before and after a mall was constructed. Summarize the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

Write at least 150 words.

Neighborhood Changes

The diagrams illustrate changes that happened in a neighborhood after a mall was built. The new mall took up space where previously there had been other things.

Before the mall was built, there were two stores on Main Street—a bookstore and a shoe store. Behind the stores, there was an area of woods. Next to the woods, there was a park with a lake in the middle. Across the street from the stores and the park, there were houses along Main Street. Behind those houses were more houses along Oak Street.

After the mall was built, things along Main Street looked quite different. The mall was built where the two stores, the woods, and part of the park had been before. The rest of the park was turned into a parking lot, and the lake was removed. Across the street from the mall, another parking lot was built in a place where houses had been before. The rest of the houses on Main Street and all the Houses on Oak Street did not change.

5 You should spend about 20 minutes on this task.

The graph below shows fast food consumption among men and women in 2015.

Summarize the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

The bar graph shows how much fast food men and women of different age groups consumed every day in 2015. In both groups, the percentage of daily calories from fast food decreased as age increased.

According to the graph, men consumed less fast food as they got older. The 18–34 age group had the highest rate, getting around 17% of daily calories from fast food. There was a significant drop, to just over 10%, between this group and the next, age 35–49. Then, there was a smaller drop, to around 9%, in the 50–64 age group. The oldest age group, age 65 and over, had a much lower consumption rate, with just over 4% of daily calories coming from fast food.

Among women, there was a similar decrease in fast food consumption with age increase. Women age 18–34 got 16% of their daily calories from fast food. Like men, there was a significant drop between this and the next age group, to a little under 10%, and then a smaller drop to the next age group. The oldest age group consumed far less, under 4%, than the other age groups.

There was a similar decrease in fast food consumption with age increase for both men and women, although women tended to consume slightly less than men across all age groups.

6 You should spend about 20 minutes on this task.

The graph below shows home heating fuel choice according to the year the house was built.

Summarize the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

Write at least 150 words.

The line graph shows the percentage of houses using two different types of heating fuel according to the year of construction of the houses. The information shows that electricity is more commonly used in older homes, while newer homes use natural gas at a similar rate as electricity.

Many more older homes are heated with electricity than with natural gas. Sixty percent of homes built before 1950, as well as an equal percentage of homes built between 1950 and 1969, use electricity for heat. The percentage falls significantly, to around 45%, for homes built between 1970 and 1989. This figure stays the same for houses built between 1990 and 2010.

Many fewer older homes are heated with natural gas. Just 15% of homes built before 1950 are heated with this type of fuel. The figure rises steadily, until we see that 45% of homes built between 1990 and 2010 use natural gas for heat.

While electricity is the most common source of heat in older homes, equal percentages of the newest homes shown on the graph use electricity and natural gas.

7 You should spend about 20 minutes on this task.

The diagram below shows the sorting process in single-stream recycling.

Summarize the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

Write at least 150 words.

Single Stream Recycling

The diagram shows how recycled items are sorted in the single-stream recycling system. When the items are delivered to the recycling plant, they arrive all mixed together, and then they are sorted by machines.

First, a truck puts the items onto a conveyor belt. As everything moves down the belt, people remove the large items. Next, the items are sent to a screen. Pieces of cardboard move over the screen and are dumped into a container. The rest of the items fall through the screen. These items continue on the conveyor belt to another screen. This screen removes paper, while the rest of the items fall through it. After this, a magnet takes out the steel cans, while glass bottles are removed from the belt and crushed. Now the only items left on the belt are plastic bottles. In the final step, these bottles move through an optical sorter, which sorts the plastic by type.

8 You should spend about 20 minutes on this task.

The diagram below shows the Petersburg Art Museum before and after renovations. Summarize the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

Write at least 150 words.

Petersburg Art Museum

The diagrams illustrate the changes that were made to the Petersburg Art Museum during renovations. Some areas of the museum were enlarged, and new additions were made in the process.

Before the renovations, the museum had six rooms of equal size. The entrance was through the lobby. Behind that area was Gallery 1, which contained ancient art. Behind Gallery 1 was Gallery 2, with modern art. Next to Gallery 2 was Gallery 3, which held sculpture. There were two classrooms next to the lobby and Gallery 1.

After the renovations, the museum was larger and looked very different. The only things that stayed the same were the lobby and Classroom 1. Gallery 1 was expanded into the area where Classroom 2 had been. Gallery 2 was expanded into the area where Gallery 3 had been. The sculptures were moved outdoors to a garden. A cafeteria was added next to the expanded Gallery 1.

9 You should spend about 20 minutes on this task.

The graph below shows the number of visitors to two different tourist attractions in the city of Grenby during one particular week.

Summarize the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

Write at least 150 words.

The line graph shows how many people visited the Grenby History Museum and the Grenby Amusement Park each day for a week. For both places, the number of visitors was higher on the weekend than it was during the week.

The number of visitors to the Grenby History Museum was low early in the week but picked up on the weekend. On Monday, there were around 250 visitors. This number dropped slightly on Tuesday and Wednesday, and dipped again on Thursday, to just below 200 visitors. The number rose on Friday, then soared to 400 on Saturday, the busiest day of the week, and then fell slightly on Sunday.

The Grenby Amusement Park also received fewer visitors during the week than on the weekend. On Monday there were 300 visitors. This number rose slightly on Tuesday and then fell back to 300 on Wednesday. The number climbed for the rest of the week until it reached over 700 on both Saturday and Sunday.

Both places were busier on the weekend than during the week, although the amusement park received more visitors every day than the museum did.

The charts below show how the average household budget was spent in two different years.

Summarize the information by selecting and reporting the main features, and make comparisons where relevant.

Write at least 150 words.

The pie charts show average household expenses in 1965 and 2015. The way the budget was divided up was very different in each of those years.

In 1965, the largest part of the budget was spent on food and housing. Thirty-five percent of the total was spent on food and 30% on housing. This accounted for well over half the budget. Healthcare (15%) and clothing (12%) together took up over one fourth of the budget, while the smallest amounts were for transportation (5%) and other expenses (3%).

In 2015, household spending was somewhat different. In that year, housing and healthcare accounted for the largest part of the budget. Together they made up a little over half of total spending. In the meantime, transportation had risen from 5% to 15% of the budget, while food had dropped from 35% to 15%. Spending on clothing had dropped to 5% of the total, and other expenses had risen slightly to 5%.

In both years, spending on housing made up one of the larger parts of the budget, while the division of the rest of the budget changed significantly.

GENERAL TRAINING WRITING TASK 1

11 You should spend about 20 minutes on this task.

You would like to take some time off of work to attend a training course.

Write a letter to your supervisor asking for permission to attend the course.

In your letter

- describe the training course.
- say how it will help improve your job performance.
- explain how much time you need off and ask for permission.

Write at least 150 words.

You do NOT need to write any addresses.

Begin your letter as follows:

Dear _____,

Dear Mr. Chan,

I would like to ask your permission for a few days off from work. I hope to attend a software training course that will help me with my job. The course lasts one week.

A special course on using publications software will be given next month. Participants in this course will learn how to use the software to design and publish newsletters, brochures, and other materials.

As you know, I have recently taken on responsibility for producing our company newsletter. I have some ideas for improving the appearance of the newsletter, but I lack the technical knowledge. This course would help me produce a really great-looking newsletter for our clients to read.

The course begins on the first of next month and goes from Monday until Friday. Therefore, I would have to be away from work for the whole week. However, I feel the skills I will gain will be well worth it. I hope you will let me take this time off for the course.

Please let me know what you think.

Sincerely,

Gina Barduhn

A friend has invited you to a birthday party, but you will be unable to attend.

Write a letter to your friend. In your letter

- thank your friend for the invitation.
- explain why you won't be able to attend.
- suggest another time to see your friend.

Write at least 150 words.

You do NOT need to write any addresses.

Begin your letter as follows:

Dear _____,

Dear Rosa,

I just received the invitation to your birthday party. I'm very sorry to tell you that I won't be able to attend because I have another event on that same night. However, I hope we'll have another chance to get together soon.

First I want to thank you for the invitation. Turning 30 is an important milestone in life, and I feel honored that you want me to celebrate the occasion with you.

Unfortunately, I have an important family event to attend on the same night as your party. My cousin will be graduating from college, and his parents have planned a special party to celebrate. Of course, I'm very proud of my cousin but sorry his party is on the same night as yours.

However, I'd still like to celebrate with you. Are you free for dinner some evening next week? I'd like to take you to the restaurant of your choice. Just let me know which evening is best for you.

I'm so sorry I can't be at your party, but I send you many wishes for a very happy birthday.

Your friend,

Robin

You live in a small apartment building. You are frequently bothered by noise from your upstairs neighbor's apartment.

Write a letter to your neighbor. In your letter

- describe the situation.
- explain why it is a problem for you.
- suggest a solution.

Write at least 150 words.

You do NOT need to write any addresses.

Begin your letter as follows:

Dear _____,

Dear Mr. Robertson,

I am writing to let you know about a difficulty I am having with noise from your apartment. Your dog barks all the time. This is a problem for me since I am home all day, but I have a suggestion that I think could improve things.

Your dog, Fifi, barks all morning and all afternoon until you return from work. Since she quiets down when you get home, I am sure that you are unaware of this situation.

Because I work at home, I must listen to this noise all day long. It makes it very difficult for me to concentrate on my work, and I am sure that Fifi is not happy, either.

My suggestion is that you hire a dog walker. This person could come to your apartment once or twice during the day, take Fifi for a walk, and feed her. This way, Fifi would have some company and some activity, and she might feel less anxious about being alone.

I hope you like my suggestion.

You borrowed an item from a friend. While it was in your possession, it got damaged.

Write a letter to your friend. In your letter

- thank your friend for lending the item to you.
- explain how it got damaged.
- tell your friend what you plan to do about it.

Write at least 150 words.

You do NOT need to write any addresses.

Begin your letter as follows:

Dear _____,

Dear Samantha,

I am very sorry that I have bad news about your bicycle. I am so grateful to you for lending it to me. Unfortunately, I had a small accident with it, but, don't worry, I can fix it.

First, I want to thank you for lending me your bicycle. I know it is an important possession of yours. It really helped me out to have it during the week that my car was at the mechanic's.

Last Friday on the way home from work, I ran into a tree while trying to avoid a large puddle. Fortunately, I was not injured, but the front wheel of the bike was bent.

The good news is that it won't be hard to fix. I will buy a new wheel tomorrow and put it on the bike myself. I have done this sort of repair before, and I guarantee you that I know how to do it right.

Please accept my apologies for the damage, and thanks again for letting me use your bike.

You are planning to take a vacation.

Write a letter to a friend. In your letter

- describe the vacation spot you have chosen.
- explain how you plan to spend your time there.
- invite your friend to join you on your vacation.

Write at least 150 words.

You do NOT need to write any addresses.

Begin your letter as follows:

Dear _____,

Dear Lee,

I want to tell you about a vacation I am planning. I am going to a mountain resort that has lots of opportunities for outdoor activities, and I hope you can go with me.

I plan to go to Rocky Ridge Retreat in the Ridgeback Mountains. This resort is in a beautiful mountain location with spectacular views in all directions. In addition to a hotel, there are several restaurants, some tennis courts, and a small lake.

There are lots of fun activities available in the area. I look forward to hiking and rock climbing. I might also rent a horse for some trail rides since there is a stable nearby. And, of course, I plan to swim and boat in the lake.

I would like to invite you to go to the resort with me. I think you would really enjoy it since I know you love the mountains. I am planning my vacation for the second half of August, and I know you will be free then.

Let me know if this plan sounds good to you.

You are applying for a new job.

Write a letter to a former supervisor asking for a reference. In your letter

- describe the job you are applying for
- say why you are qualified for the job
- explain why you want a reference from this person

Write at least 150 words.

You do NOT need to write any addresses.

Begin your letter as follows:

Dear _____,

Dear Ms. Kim,

I am writing to ask if you will write a job reference letter for me. I am applying for a position as office manager, a job for which I feel well qualified. I am asking you for a reference because you know my skills well.

The Acme Supply Company is looking for a new office manager. This job requires keeping track of customer orders, scheduling appointments, and managing office supplies and equipment.

I think this is the perfect job for me. I am very good at organizing things, which is the most important part of the job. I also enjoy interacting with customers and providing them with excellent service.

Since I worked in your office as an administrative assistant for five years, you know my skills and my personality well. You know that I had many opportunities to learn about running an office, and you had the chance to observe my organizational skills. I feel confident that you will write me a good reference.

Please let me know if you can do this favor for me.

Sincerely,

Stephen Calder

Write a letter to a friend. In your letter

- explain why you will be away.
- ask your friend to take care of your apartment.
- describe the tasks you want your friend to do.

Write at least 150 words.

You do NOT need to write any addresses.

Begin your letter as follows:

Dear _____,

Dear Amina,

I thought you should know about my latest plans. I am going away on a long business trip, and I need someone to look after my apartment. There are just a few simple things that need to be done.

My company is sending me to South America. I will visit our branch offices in several different countries and will be traveling for a month. I think it will be an exciting trip.

I need someone to look after things at home while I am away. I hope that you can help me with this. You live nearby so I don't think it will be inconvenient for you.

I would like you to visit my apartment two or three times a week. You can water the plants and check to make sure there aren't any problems. Also, you can pick up the mail and leave it on the kitchen table for me.

I hope you will be able to help me with this. Let me know as soon as you can.

You recently purchased an item from a local store, but you are not satisfied with your purchase.

Write a letter to the manager of the store. In your letter

- describe the item you bought and why you need it.
- explain why you are not happy with it.
- say what you would like the manager to do.

Write at least 150 words.

You do NOT need to write any addresses.

Begin your letter as follows:

Dear Sir or Madam,

Dear Sir or Madam,

I am writing about a purchase I made recently at your store. Last week I bought a desk, but now I realize that it doesn't suit my needs. I would like you to do something about this.

I bought a five-drawer desk for use in my home office. The salesclerk assured me that the desktop was large enough for both my computer and printer. She also said that one of the drawers could be locked.

When I got the desk home, I realized that it was not large enough. Both my computer and printer fit on it, but then there is not enough room left for me to work. Also, none of the drawers can be locked, so I have nowhere to keep valuable documents.

I bought the desk on sale, so it is not returnable. However, since the salesclerk didn't give me correct information, I think you should let me return it. I will take store credit if you have another desk I can use. If not, I would like a full refund.

I hope you agree with my solution.

Sincerely,

Ricard Florian

A friend from overseas is planning to visit you soon.

Write a letter to your friend. In your letter

- explain why you are looking forward to the visit.
- describe the accommodations you have available for your friend.
- suggest some things to do during the visit.

Write at least 150 words.

You do NOT need to write any addresses.

Begin your letter as follows:

Dear _____,

Dear Ivan,

I hope you're well. I'm excited about your upcoming visit. I have everything ready for you at my apartment and lots of ideas for things we can do while you're here.

I'm so happy that you've decided to spend your vacation here. It's been a long time since we've seen each other, and you've never been to my city. I look forward to showing you around. I know you'll love it here.

I hope you'll be comfortable at my apartment. It's small but very nice. I'm sorry I don't have an extra bedroom, so you'll have to sleep in the living room. However, I think the sofa is very comfortable.

There will be lots of interesting things going on in the city during the week of your visit. There will be a special exhibit at the art museum, which I think you'll enjoy. Since it's summer time, there will be some concerts and plays in the park. We could also go to a baseball game. We have a great team here.

I'm really looking forward to your visit. See you soon.

You recently enjoyed a meal at an expensive restaurant, and you were impressed with the good service you received.

Write a letter to the restaurant manager. In your letter

- explain the circumstances of your visit to the restaurant.
- describe the service you received.
- say what you would like the manager to do.

Write at least 150 words.

You do NOT need to write any addresses.

Begin your letter as follows:

Dear Sir or Madam,

Dear Sir or Madam,

I thought you should know about my recent experience at your restaurant. When I ate there last weekend, I received excellent service from the waiter. I think he should be rewarded.

Last Saturday, my husband and I had dinner at your restaurant along with some friends of ours. We were there to celebrate my birthday. The restaurant was very busy that evening.

From the moment we arrived, we were treated courteously by the staff. Even though the restaurant was crowded, we were seated right away. When we noticed that our steak was overdone, the waiter immediately took it back to the kitchen. He brought us another steak and didn't charge us for it. In addition, he brought me a free piece of cake for dessert because it was my birthday.

I was very impressed by your staff. They were very busy but acted politely and respectfully at all times. Our waiter, especially, did an excellent job, and I think he should be recognized for it. We left a large tip, but I think you could consider giving him a bonus.

I hope you will consider my suggestion.

Sincerely,

June Cho

ACADEMIC/GENERAL TRAINING WRITING TASK 2

21 You should spend about 40 minutes on this task.

People should never eat meat because raising animals for human consumption is cruel.

To what extent do you agree or disagree with this opinion?

Give reasons for your answer, and include any relevant examples from your own knowledge or experience.

Write at least 250 words.

There are people who believe that we should not eat meat because it involves cruelty to animals, but I completely disagree with this point of view. Meat is important for good nutrition, people like it, and most farmers do not treat their animals cruelly.

Meat is important for a balanced diet because it is a major source of protein. It is possible to get some protein from other foods such as whole grains, eggs, and milk. Even eggs and milk, however, come from farm animals, and plant sources of protein are not as good as meat. Growing children, especially, need to eat meat in order to stay healthy and strong.

In addition, people like to eat meat. Most people are accustomed to having it at least once a day and may feel like they haven't eaten well if they don't have it. Meat also tastes good. There are so many ways to prepare it, and some recipes are an important part of a family or cultural tradition.

Even though some people say that farm animals are treated cruelly, that is not a reason for everyone to give up eating meat. In the first place, it is simply not true that farm animals are not treated well, in most cases. It is in the farmer's best interest to keep the animals healthy and happy because it is the only way to get a good product that people will buy. And while there may be cases of animals being treated cruelly, I am sure that it is not common.

Meat tastes good, and it is good for us. Raising animals for meat is not cruel. It is a necessity for our health and well-being.

In some educational systems, children are required to study one or more foreign languages. In others, foreign language study is not a requirement.

What are the potential benefits of foreign language study?

Do you think the foreign language study is an important part of education?

Give reasons for your answer, and include any relevant examples from your own knowledge or experience.

Write at least 250 words.

Foreign language study has many benefits. It improves children's minds as well as their understanding of the world, and I believe it should be a requirement in all schools.

Foreign language study has enormous benefits for children's intellectual development. Some people think that learning more than one language confuses children, but this is not true. Many studies have shown that children who speak two languages develop intellectual skills at an earlier age than other children. Researchers have also found that learning foreign languages helps children develop greater critical thinking skills, creativity, and flexibility of mind.

Foreign language study broadens children's understanding of the world. Speaking a foreign language helps children understand other ways of thinking about the world. It also exposes them to the customs and cultures of other countries. When children study a foreign language at a young age, they learn to appreciate different ways of life rather than to fear them or be ignorant of them.

I strongly feel that all children should be required to study a foreign language. That way, they can receive the intellectual and cultural benefits from an early age. In addition, it is a well-known fact that it is easier for young children to learn a foreign language. Therefore, starting foreign language study earlier rather than later is more likely to result in a successful experience.

There are many advantages to foreign language study for children. In fact, I find it difficult to understand why it is not required in all schools everywhere. I definitely think it should be.

A growing number of people work by telecommuting, that is, the employee works from home, using a computer and the Internet to connect with the office.

What are the advantages and disadvantages of working this way?

Give reasons for your answer, and include any relevant examples from your own knowledge or experience.

Write at least 250 words.

While telecommuting is becoming increasingly popular, there are both benefits and drawbacks to this way of working. Telecommuting has many conveniences for the employee, and it can help the employer cut costs as well. On the other hand, employers often feel it makes it more difficult to manage their workers.

Telecommuting makes things more convenient for the employee. For one thing, there is no need to spend time and money commuting between work and home. In addition, the employee can wear casual clothes most days and so does not have to spend a lot of time and money shopping for work clothes. Finally, working at home means the employee has more time to devote to family responsibilities such as cooking, cleaning, and child care.

Telecommuting is also beneficial to the employer because it helps cut costs. With fewer employees in the office, the employer can save on rent by having a smaller office. The employer will also need less office equipment. Moreover, the employer will be able to get by with a smaller support staff.

There are, however, some disadvantages for the employer because telecommuting makes staff management more difficult. It isn't easy to supervise workers when they aren't in the office and, without good systems in place, it is hard to know how well employees are managing their time. It is also less convenient to organize staff meetings when most of the staff spend most of the time away from the office.

Telecommuting can make some things easier for employers and employees, but it can make other things more difficult. Employees and their bosses have to decide together whether or not telecommuting works for them.

Traffic congestion is a growing problem in many of the world's major cities.
Explain some possible reasons for this problem, and suggest some solutions.

Give reasons for your answer, and include any relevant examples from your own knowledge or experience.

Write at least 250 words.

Most of the world's major cities have serious traffic congestion, making life difficult for local citizens. There are several causes of this problem, but there are also solutions. One cause is overcrowded cities. Another is lack of transportation options. City governments should focus on improving public transportation and encouraging alternative ways of getting around.

Cities are crowded places. People want to live in cities because they want to be close to their jobs and to stores. But when you have a lot of people living close together, you have traffic problems. The streets are filled with cars, taxis, and buses taking people to the places they need to go. Even when people move to the suburbs, they still have to travel to the city to get to their jobs.

Transportation is a big problem in some cities. Where there isn't a good bus or subway system, people will often choose to travel by private car. This is what leads to traffic congestion. People may not enjoy sitting in their car in the middle of a traffic jam, but they may find it more convenient than waiting for a crowded bus that runs on an infrequent schedule.

The way to get private cars off the streets is to improve public transportation and to make alternative forms of transportation easier. People will use public transportation more if it is convenient. This means that buses have to run frequently and go to the places that people want to go. It might also mean building a subway system, which is unaffected by crowded streets because it runs underground. Some cities have also had success with building bike lanes, making it easier for people to use bicycles as their main means of transportation.

Many people live in overcrowded cities with few choices for transportation. Investment in public transportation and alternative transportation would do much to alleviate the traffic problems that result. Traffic congestion is a serious problem, but it can be solved.

25 You should spend about 40 minutes on this task.

Some people believe that studying abroad is important because it expands a person's knowledge and understanding of the world. Others feel that it is better to study at home because that is the best way to prepare for a career in the student's own country.

Discuss both these views, and give your opinion.

Give reasons for your answer, and include any relevant examples from your own knowledge or experience.

Write at least 250 words.

Some students like to spend time studying in a foreign country so that they can learn more about the world. Others prefer to complete all their studies in their own country so they will be ready for a career there. In my opinion, studying abroad can contribute a lot to anyone's education, and it can even help students be better prepared for any career they choose.

Students who choose to study abroad are interested in learning more about the world. Studying abroad gives them the opportunity to gain knowledge beyond what they learn in the classroom. By spending time in a foreign country, they learn about other ways of thinking and living. They learn to get along with different kinds of people and to appreciate different ways of doing things.

Students who choose to study at home are concerned about being prepared for a professional career. They may feel that spending a semester or a year abroad will distract them from their studies. They may feel that the education they get in their own country is the best preparation they can get for work in their own country.

I understand that students want to be well prepared for their careers, but I don't believe that a classroom is the only place to get that preparation. We have a global economy, so it is important to understand how things are done in other countries. The best way to learn about that is by spending time in other countries. Additionally, living in another country, studying there, and making friends there helps open a student's mind to new things and new ideas. In my opinion, that is the best kind of preparation anyone can get for a professional career.

We can learn a lot both inside and outside the classroom, especially if that classroom is in a foreign country.

These days' children are surrounded by electronic devices such as personal computers, tablet computers, and smart phones, and they learn to use them at a very early age.

What are the advantages and disadvantages of this situation?

Give reasons for your answer, and include any relevant examples from your own knowledge or experience.

Write at least 250 words.

Almost everything we do involves a computer in one way or another, so of course children are exposed to electronic devices from the day they are born. People tend to think of this situation as a great advantage, but there are also drawbacks.

Most families have at least one desktop or laptop computer at home, and they often have tablet computers and smart phones as well. This means that even babies are accustomed to seeing these devices and watching how they are used. Because of their natural curiosity, small children like to explore these devices, and often they end up understanding how to use them even better than their parents do. Since we live in a world of electronics, we can consider this an important part of children's learning. They need good computer skills for their future success.

On the other hand, there are disadvantages when children have too much exposure to electronic devices. For one thing, using a computer may exercise the brain, but it does nothing to exercise the body. If children spend most of the time doing things with a computer, then they don't play outside or get any kind of physical exercise. In addition, computers can also be bad for children's intellectual and creative development. If children depend on computers to provide entertainment, then they don't learn to rely on themselves. They don't have the opportunity to invent their own games or find their own solutions to problems.

We all rely on computers, and it is important for children to know how to use them. It is also important, however, for children to learn how to do other things and to have other kinds of experiences as well. Parents need to make sure that their children have a balance of different kinds of activities in their lives.

27 You should spend about 40 minutes on this task.

Some people believe that people should be required to retire from their careers at a certain age. Others believe that people should be allowed to work as long as they like.

Discuss both these views, and give your opinion.

Give reasons for your answer, and include any relevant examples from your own knowledge or experience.

Write at least 250 words.

Some people think there should be a mandatory retirement age, while others think that there should be no limits to how long a person is allowed to work. I agree with the second point of view.

Some people believe that workers should have to retire at a specific age, usually 62 or 65. The reason may be that after a certain age people can't perform their jobs as well because they lose some of the physical and intellectual abilities they had when they were younger. Another reason is that people feel that employment opportunities should go to younger people. Older people have had their chance, and they should make room for younger people to advance in their careers and support their families.

On the other hand, there are people who think that everyone should be able to work as long as they choose. For some people, continuing to work is a necessity because they need money. Other people want to work because they enjoy it and it gives meaning to their lives. In addition, older people have a lot of knowledge that comes from years of experience. Therefore, they can make important contributions to their professions that younger people cannot.

I am against a mandatory retirement age. There can't be one retirement age for all because every person's circumstances are different. A 70-year-old person may be full of energy and in excellent health, while a 50-year-old person could be sick all the time. One person may want to rest after years of work while another gets meaning and inspiration from continuing at her job. Finally, people who need money should not be prevented from earning a salary.

There are some good reasons for having a mandatory retirement age, but I think it is more important to realize that each individual situation is different. People should be allowed to plan their retirement for the time that suits them best.

In some places, money earned from tourism has become an important part of the economy.

What are the advantages and disadvantages of relying on tourism as a major source of revenue?

Give reasons for your answer, and include any relevant examples from your own knowledge or experience.

Write at least 250 words.

Many places in the world depend on tourism to bring money to their area. There are both benefits and drawbacks to this situation.

Many people greet tourism with open arms because of the boost it gives to the local economy. Tourism means that restaurants and hotels, stores and roads will be built. There will be new opportunities for business owners and new jobs in construction and service for the local population.

Money flowing into an area may look like a good thing, but there is another side to the story. Many places have a tourist season. That means there are a lot of jobs for part of the year and then nothing for the rest of the year. So, employment is only for part of the time. People may earn a lot during the tourist season, but since this money has to last them for the rest of the year, it really isn't very much.

In addition, all the new businesses and structures that are created in a tourist area do not necessarily benefit the local residents. Prices are almost always higher in a tourist area. Tourists may be able to shop in the stores and eat at the restaurants, but most of the local residents probably can't afford it. Tourists enjoy leisure activities such as golf, tennis, or horseback riding, while local residents work hard to earn as much money as they can during the tourist season.

Tourism brings in money, but it is not always as good as it looks. Not everybody benefits from it.

Zoos are inhumane and should be abolished.

To what extent do you agree or disagree with this opinion?

Give reasons for your answer, and include any relevant examples from your own knowledge or experience.

Write at least 250 words.

Many people believe that there should be no zoos because they are cruel to animals, and I agree with this opinion. Zoos are like jails for wild animals that should live free, and at the same time they are completely unnecessary because we can see and learn about animals in their natural habitat.

Wild animals are born to live freely in the wild. Each different kind of animal is adapted to live in its specific habitat. It has the skills it needs to survive and live happily in the place where it was born. If you take a wild animal from its natural habitat and put it in a zoo, it is like putting it in jail. Zoos try to make areas for their animals that are similar to their natural habitats, but they are only imitations. In addition, the animals are not free to move beyond the walls of their cages. A zoo is nothing like an animal's wild home, and living in a zoo must be very depressing for the animals.

People say that zoos are important for research, but I don't believe this is true. It may be easier for researchers to observe animals when they are in a zoo. However, since a zoo is not an animal's natural home, you cannot assume that a zoo animal's behavior is natural. The only way to see how animals really behave is to study them in the wild. Therefore, research is not a reason to have zoos.

In my opinion, all zoos should be shut down. It is cruel to keep animals locked up in cages. Zoos are also not the best places to do research on animals. I can see no good reason for the existence of zoos.

Do you think organic food is worth the extra cost?

Give reasons for your answer, and include any relevant examples from your own knowledge or experience.

Write at least 250 words.

In many places, you can buy organic fruits and vegetables that have been grown without chemicals. People like this kind of food because it is better for their health than conventional food. It also costs more, but I believe it is worth the higher price.

People choose organic fruits and vegetables for many reasons, but I believe the main reason is health. Conventional fruits and vegetables are grown with chemicals that are used to fertilize the soil and kill weeds and insects. These fruits look big and clean when they are in the store. However, they are also filled with chemicals. You may not be able to see the chemicals, but they are there. People who are concerned about eating these chemicals buy organic fruits and vegetables. They are worried about getting cancer and other diseases from eating conventional food. Many parents, especially, feel it is important for their growing children to eat clean fruits and vegetables that are chemical free.

Organic fruits and vegetables are expensive, but they are worth what they cost. Buying conventional food is cheaper, but it isn't cheap to be sick, especially with a major disease like cancer. It is important to stay healthy to have a happy, productive life. People who buy organic fruits and vegetables are investing money in their own health and in a healthy future for their children.

If somebody served you a plate of chemicals, you wouldn't eat them. But that's what you are eating when you eat conventional fruits and vegetables. Spend the extra money, buy organic, and stay healthy.

The graph shows how many single-family houses were built in different areas of the United States in each of the years from 2006 and 2012. There was a significant difference in the number of houses built in each region, and these numbers all dropped between 2006 and 2010.

Graphic B

The graph shows how many tourists spent time in the cities of Dover and Troy in each of the four seasons of the year 2014. Each city was busier with tourists at a different time of year.

Graphic C

The pie charts show the percentages of male and female students enrolled in various fields of study at Clydesdale University. The charts show that men and women differ greatly in terms of which fields of study they tend to prefer.

Graphic D

The table shows how much time per week people of various ages spend on two different kinds of activities on the Internet. People divide their time differently between work/study and leisure activities, depending on their age.

Graphic E

The pie charts show how workers in the city of Rockingham normally traveled to work in 2005 and 2015. In 2005, half the workers drove alone, while this number had dropped in favor of other means of transportation by 2015.

Paragraph 2

The sales numbers for each food item were different in the summer from what they were in the winter. Iced coffee sales rose significantly, to an average of 40 servings sold daily. The item with the second highest number of sales was ice cream, with an average of 35 servings sold daily. Sales of ice cream go up in the summer when the weather is hot. Hot coffee fell to daily sales of just 30 servings. Soup and salad had the lowest number of sales, with 25 servings sold daily on average.

Paragraph 1

The number of male cell phone subscribers rose significantly between 1995 and 2015. In 1995, a little over 500 men subscribed to cell phone service. ~~Women also subscribed to the service at that time.~~ The number increased considerably over the next few years until it reached 2500 in the year 2005. There was no change in the number of subscribers between 2005 and 2010, but then it rose slightly between 2010 and 2015, when there were about 2750 male subscribers.

Paragraph 2

The number of women subscribing to cell phone service rose in most years between 1995 and 2015. ~~Before 1995, cell phone use was not very common.~~ In 1995, 500 women subscribed to cell phone service. By 2005, the number of female subscribers had increased to 2500. There was a slight drop between 2005 and 2010, to about 2250 subscribers, and that number stayed steady between 2010 and 2015.

PRACTICE 11 (PAGE 30)

The number of medical degrees rose almost every year between 2012 and 2015. It 1 rose/climbed/increased slightly between 2012 and 2013 from 40 degrees granted to 45. Then, in 2014, the number of degrees granted rose 2 sharply/significantly to 70. There was a slight 3 drop/fall/decrease in 2015, when about 65 medical degrees were granted at Clifford University. The number of engineering degrees, on the other hand, dropped steadily from 2012 to 2015. It 4 dropped/fell/decreased from about 45 degrees granted in 2012 to 40 in 2013. In 2014 there was another 5 slight drop, when just 35 engineering degrees were granted. The number 6 dropped/fell/decreased again, to 30 degrees granted 2015.

The number of houses built in each region differed significantly. In each of the years shown on the graph, the most houses were built in the South. About 900,000 new houses were built there in 2006. This number dropped to just 300,000 in 2010, the year with the least construction, but it was still the highest number of all the regions. The region with the lowest number of houses built in each of the years was the Northeast. Under 200,000 new houses were built there in 2006, and fewer than 100,000 were built in 2010.

In all the regions shown on the graph, 2006 was the year with the most construction, and the numbers decreased steadily until 2010. In three of the regions, the numbers rose slightly or stayed steady from 2010 to 2012. In the Northeast, the numbers continued to drop.

Graphic B

In 2014, the busiest tourist season for Dover was winter. During that season, 25,000 tourists visited the city. The least busy time of year was spring, with only 5,000 tourists visiting. The number of tourist visits rose by 5,000 between spring and summer and then again between summer and fall. The biggest increase was between fall and winter, when the number of visits rose from 15,000 to 25,000.

The busiest tourist season for Troy, on the other hand, was summer, with about 22,000 visits. Fall was also a busy season, with 20,000 visits from tourists. The least busy season was spring, with just under 5,000 tourist visits. Winter was almost equally quiet, with 5,000 tourist visits.

Graphic C

According to the charts, the most popular field of study for men at Clydesdale University is engineering, with 45% of male students enrolled in this field. The second most popular field is social sciences, with 25% enrollment. The least popular field of study is humanities. Only 10% of men choose this field of study.

The charts show that women's popular fields of study are quite different from men's. The most popular field of study for women at Clydesdale is education, with 35% choosing to study this field. The second most popular is humanities, with 30% of women enrolled. This five percentage point difference between the top two popular fields is much smaller than the difference between the men's top two popular fields of study. The least popular field of study for women is social sciences, with 15% enrollment.

Graphic D

According to the table, people in their 20s spend the most time studying or working on the Internet, at an average of 50 hours a week. The hours are also high for people in their 30s, 40s, and 50s. The people who spend the least amount of time studying or working on the Internet are teens, with an average of 15 hours a week, and people in their 60s and older, with an average of 17 hours.

The people who spend the most time on the Internet on leisure activities are teens, with an average of 22 hours per week. The numbers go down after the teen years, until they reach their lowest for people in their 50s. These people spend just 11 hours a week on leisure activities. The number goes up to 20 hours a week for people over age 60.

Graphic E

In 2005, driving alone in a car was the most common way to get to work, with 50% of workers choosing this method. The next most common means of transportation were carpools and bus. Each of these methods was chosen by 15% of workers. The least popular methods were walking and biking, each one used by just 5% of workers.

In 2015, driving alone in a car was still the most common way to get to work, but it was used by just 35% of workers. The percentage of workers using carpools had risen slightly to 20%. The percentage of people biking to work had also risen, from 5% to 10%. Walking was still the least popular form of transportation, with 5% of workers choosing this method, the same as in 2005.

The pie charts show the different agricultural products raised in the Western Region and the Eastern Region of a country. Each region concentrates on different products.

The Eastern Region has a slightly more even distribution among the different products than the Western Region does. In the Eastern Region, the top two products are meat, making up 35% of total agricultural production, and dairy, making up 30% of the total. Vegetables account for 20% and grain for 15% of agricultural production in that region.

In the Western Region, the top two products—grain and meat—account for 80% of the total agricultural production. Dairy makes up 15% of the total, while vegetables are only 5% of agricultural production in that part of the country.

Each region has a different approach to agricultural production. In the Eastern Region, it is distributed among different products, while in the Western Region, it is concentrated more heavily on two different types of product.

The table shows how much rainfall there is in two different cities in each of the twelve months of the year. The amount of rain in each city is very different throughout most of the year.

Woodsville receives much more rain than Blacksboro does. The rainiest months in Woodsville are November, December, and January, with an average rainfall of 6, 5.5, and 5 inches, respectively. After January, the amount of rain decreases steadily. In July, the driest month of the year, Woodsville receives an average of just 0.75 inches of rain. After that, the amount of rainfall increases as the year approaches the rainy season.

Blacksboro is a drier area than Woodsville is. The rainiest months of the year in Blacksboro are January and February, with an average rainfall of 3 and 4 inches, respectively. After that, the amount of rainfall decreases until the driest month, July, when just 0.01 inches of rain fall. Then, the average rainfall increases over the next few months, but it never gets as high as the average in Woodsville. Both Woodsville and Blacksboro experience rainy and dry seasons, but Woodsville receives more rain over the course of the year than Blacksboro does.

PRACTICE 9 (PAGE 62)

The diagram shows the steps for making frozen orange juice concentrate from fresh oranges. First, the fruit 1 is prepared. When the oranges are ripe, they 2 are harvested. Then, they 3 are loaded onto trucks. The trucks carry the oranges to the processing plant. There, they 4 are washed before the juice 5 is made. The washed oranges go through the extractor, which extracts the juice. Next, the juice goes to the evaporator, where it 6 is turned into concentrate. The concentrate 7 is frozen. Then, it 8 is canned in the canner. The cans of juice 9 are distributed to grocery stores. Customers buy the frozen concentrate and enjoy it at home.

PRACTICE 10 (PAGE 64)

The diagram shows the process of recycling plastic bottles to make new products. It takes several steps to go from used bottles to new products made out of the same material. The 1 first step is to send the used bottles to the recycling plant. 2 After someone finishes drinking from a bottle, she puts it in a recycling bin with other used bottles. 3 Then/Next, a truck picks up the bottles and transports them to the recycling plant. 4 Before the bottles can be recycled, they have to go through the washer. 5 Then/Next, they are sent to another machine, where they are shredded into small pieces. 6 Next/Then, the shredded pieces go into the extruder. This machine turns the pieces into pellets. 7 Finally, the pellets are used to make new plastic products such as bottles, cups, and toys.

PRACTICE 12 (PAGE 67)

Sample answers. Answers will vary.

Diagram A

The diagram illustrates the steps for manufacturing cloth and clothes from cotton. It takes several steps to go from cotton in the field to clothes you can buy and wear.

To begin, the cotton is harvested by machine. Then, it goes through a gin, where the seeds are removed and the cotton is packed into bales. Next, the bales go through a blower, which blows and loosens the cotton. Then, the cotton goes through a carding machine. The cotton has to be straightened by this machine before the yarn can be made. After going through the carding machine, a spinning machine makes the cotton into yarn. Then, the yarn is woven into cloth on a loom. The next step is to dye the woven cloth in a dye vat. Then, the cloth is ready to be made into clothes. All kinds of clothes such as dresses, shirts, and pants can be made from cotton.

Diagram B

The diagram shows the growth of a dragonfly from the beginning to the end of its life cycle. It goes through several stages from an egg in the water to a mature dragonfly in the air.

The life cycle of the dragonfly begins in the summer. First, the eggs are laid under the water. After one week, the eggs hatch and nymphs come out. Throughout the fall and winter, the dragonfly nymph lives under the water. It eats and grows during this time. In the spring, the nymph leaves the water by crawling up a plant. Then, it molts. Now it is an adult dragonfly. During the summer, the dragonfly flies in the air. It hunts and eats flying insects. It lives like this for a few weeks or months, and then its life is over. The dragonfly's life cycle takes about one year to complete.

Diagram C

The diagram shows a neighborhood prior to and following the building of new houses. The neighborhood changed from a quiet area to a busy place to live. Before the construction, the neighborhood had a farm. There was a barn with a house next to it, and there were some animals in the yard. A fence divided this area from a cornfield. On the other side of the road there were some woods. There was just one house in the woods.

After construction, there was no farm. New houses were built where the barn, farmhouse, and animals used to be. The fence was taken away and a new road was put in its place. On the other side of the new road, more new houses were built in the former cornfield. On the other side of the old road, even more new houses were built in the woods. One part of the woods was turned into a park. What was once open land became a neighborhood filled with houses.

Diagram D

The diagram illustrates a river area prior to and following a flood. Many things were washed away by the floodwaters.

Before the flood, there was a big bend in the river called an oxbow. Several houses had been built on both sides of the river. Also, many trees were growing by the riverbank. A bridge crossed the river near the houses.

After the flood, things looked very different. The oxbow was cut off from the river and became a lake. The river followed a straight path where the oxbow used to be. Most of the houses were washed away. In fact, on one side of the river there were no houses left. There were also fewer trees by the riverbank. The trees that had been closest to the river were washed away. Finally, the bridge completely disappeared, and there was no way to cross the river at that place.

Diagram E

The diagram explains the steps for producing electricity by using a wind turbine. The electricity is generated by the turbine and then is distributed to people's homes.

First, the wind blows against the turbine, and this causes the blades and the rotor to spin. The moving blades and rotor make the driveshaft spin. The spinning driveshaft causes the gearbox and the generator to spin. The spinning generator creates an electric current. A wind speed monitor on the back of the turbine measures the speed and direction of the wind. Then, the rotating motor can move the turbine so that it faces into the wind.

The electric current moves from the generator down a cable in the turbine tower. From there it goes through a substation and then moves on to people's homes. The wind that blows past the turbine moves with reduced speed and energy.

The diagram presents the steps for preparing coffee beans for consumption. It takes several steps to go from coffee beans on a plant to the coffee that we drink at home.

The process begins when the coffee beans are harvested. After the harvest, the beans go through a depulper, which is a machine that separates the seeds from the flesh of the bean. Then, the beans are put into fermenting tanks. After one to three days in the tanks, the coffee beans are spread out in the sun to dry. This takes eight to ten days. When the beans are dry, they are sorted as they move down a conveyor belt. The sorted beans go into the roaster, where they are roasted. Then, they are ground in a grinder and packed in bags. The bags of coffee are transported to grocery stores for sale. Finally, the customer buys the coffee and brews and drinks it at home.

The diagrams illustrate the changes that were made to City Park when a swimming pool was built. Some things were moved, and some areas became smaller in order to make room for the pool.

Before the swimming pool was built, there was a parking lot on either side of Park Road, one larger and one smaller. Past the larger parking lot, there were two basketball courts. Past the smaller parking lot, there was a garden with a fountain in the middle.

After the swimming pool was built, things were rearranged. The larger parking lot remained in the same place, but the original smaller parking lot was gone. A new small parking lot was created in the place of one of the basketball courts, and the swimming pool was built in the place of the original smaller parking lot. The pool area also took some room from the garden. The garden, therefore, became smaller, and the fountain was removed.

2 Dear Julia,

I am getting ready to make a trip to your city next month. This will be a business trip, but I will also have some free time. I hope you can give me some advice about the best places to visit, and I also hope we can get together while I'm there.

My company is sending me to your city to lead a training session. A company there recently bought some of our software, and I will train the staff on how to use it. I will be busy with the training Monday through Thursday. Then, I will have time on Friday and Saturday to enjoy the city.

Could you suggest some places for me to visit during my two free days? You know I like art and would enjoy visiting art museums and galleries. I am also interested in learning about the history of your city and would like to visit any important historical sites.

Additionally, I hope you will be able to join me for dinner on Friday evening. Please suggest a restaurant where we can meet.

Thank you for your advice. I'm looking forward to seeing you.

Your friend,
Lucas

3 Dear Mr. Jones,

I am writing to tell you about the parking problem at our building. I frequently have trouble finding a place to park. Something has to be done about this.

Often when I get home from work, the parking lot is full. There are supposed to be enough spaces in the lot for each tenant to park one car. If the lot is full, that means other people are using our spaces or some tenants have more than one car.

When I can't find space in the parking lot, I have to park on the street. I don't like to do this because I work late and I don't like walking on the street alone at night.

I would like to offer some suggestions for solving this problem. First, you could post some signs in the lot explaining that it is for building tenants only. In addition, you could assign each apartment a space and paint the apartment number on it. That way, each tenant will always have his or her own place to park.

Please let me know what you think of my ideas.

Sincerely,
Irene du Breuil

4 Dear Yolanda,

I want to tell you about the wonderful time at my summer rental house. It's a really nice little cottage. There are a lot of fun things to do here, and I know you would enjoy visiting.

The cottage where I am staying is small but quite comfortable. It has one large room downstairs and two small bedrooms upstairs. The best part is the porch, where I can sit and enjoy a view of the lake. There are pine trees all around. They provide shade, so the house is always cool and comfortable.

Since I am staying right by the lake, I spend a lot of time in the water. I swim every morning before breakfast. After breakfast, I usually explore the lake in my canoe. In the afternoon, I like to lie on the beach and enjoy the sun.

I hope you can come spend a week here and enjoy this beautiful place with me. It is so relaxing.

Let me know when you can come. Any time next month would be fine with me.

Your friend,
Elena

5 Dear Sir or Madam,

I am writing to tell you about a lost item. I left a bag in one of your taxis yesterday. It was a very special bag, and I hope you can help me find it.

When I got home yesterday, I realized my bag was missing. I was returning from a trip to visit my grandmother and rode in one of your taxis from the train station to my home on Maple Avenue. I know I had the bag on the seat beside me during the ride, so I must have left it in the taxi.

The bag is very special to me. It's a beautiful leather bag that belonged to my grandmother, and she gave it to me during my visit. It is brown and has my grandmother's initials—AJR—on the side. It has a gold buckle and a long shoulder strap.

I hope you can help me find the bag. I don't know the number of the taxi, but I think the driver's name was Burt. If you have a lost and found department, my bag might be there.

Please let me know if you can help me. I would really appreciate it.

Sincerely,
Martha Strathmore

A Dear Sir or Madam,

I am writing to let you know about a problem I had at your hotel recently. My room was very noisy, but the hotel staff did not move me as I requested. I think you should speak to your staff about this type of problem.

When I arrived at the hotel, I was given a room with a single bed, as I had requested. Unfortunately, the room faced a noisy side street, and I knew I would be unable to get a good night's rest.

I explained the problem to the front desk clerk and asked to be given another room. She said there were no more single rooms available but that I could have a double room at a higher price. When I protested about paying a higher price, the clerk said that she couldn't give me a less expensive room.

I made my reservation a long time ago, and I paid a high price for my room. I think that in a case like this, the customer should be given a better room without having to pay extra. I believe you should explain to your staff that keeping customers happy is a high priority.

I hope you agree with me and will speak to your staff.

Sincerely,
Louis V. Montero

B Dear Miranda,

I want to tell you about a change I am making in my life. I really like your neighborhood and have decided to look for a small apartment to rent there. I hope you can help me with my search.

I have always loved your neighborhood because it is so conveniently located. There are stores and movie theaters nearby, and the neighborhood park is a really nice place to take walks. Most of all, it is close to my job, so I would be able to ride my bike to work.

I would like to find a small one-bedroom apartment. I would prefer to live in a small building where the rents are not too high. If I could live close to the park, that would be great, but it's not a requirement.

I hope you can help me find something. Please let me know if you hear of any available apartments. Also, maybe you could suggest some nice buildings where I could look for vacancies.

Thanks for your advice, and I look forward to being your neighbor!

Your friend,
Ramona

- 2 Telecommuting also allows the employer to cut costs. With fewer employees in the office, the employer can save on rent by having a smaller office. The employer will also need less office equipment. Moreover, the employer will be able to get by with a smaller support staff.
- 3 On the other hand, some employers feel that telecommuting makes it more difficult for them to manage their workers. It is hard to supervise the work when it is done away from the office. In addition, the employer can never be sure how well the employees are managing their time. It is also difficult to have staff meetings when some or most of the employees are not usually in the office.
- 4 Some families feel that their aging parents can get better and less expensive care at home. In the first place, families care for their parents with love in a way that no one else can do. Furthermore, their parents feel happiest in their own homes, surrounded by their children and grandchildren. On top of this, homes for the elderly are expensive, and many families cannot afford them.
- 5 Some families, on the other hand, don't have the time or resources to care for their aging parents at home. Most people have jobs and this means they are away from home for much of the time. In addition, they need to devote time and attention to their children if their children are still young. Finally, many people live in apartments and don't have enough space in their home for their parents.

- 1 Telecommuting can make some things easier for employers and employees, but it can make other things more difficult. Employees and their bosses have to decide together whether or not telecommuting works for them.
- 2 Families can care for their aging parents themselves or they can send them to special homes. The best choice is to keep parents, or any relative who needs help, at home whenever possible.
- 3 Life in the past was very difficult. People worked hard, died young, and had few opportunities to improve their lives. Modern technology has improved our lives greatly.
- 4 Many people live in overcrowded cities with few choices for transportation. Investment in public transportation and alternative transportation would do much to alleviate the traffic problems that result. Traffic congestion is a serious problem, but it can be solved.
- 5 In my opinion, all zoos should be shut down. It is cruel to keep animals locked up in cages. Zoos are also not the best places to do research on animals. I can see no good reason for the existence of zoos.

There are different ideas about the best way to group children for learning. According to some people, the best way is to group children with others who have similar academic skills. But there are those who feel it is better to place children in groups with mixed abilities. I agree with the second point of view.

Some people believe that children do best when they study with others of similar abilities. They say that this allows children to learn at the right pace. By following this method, faster children will not be held back by slower children, and slower children will not be frustrated by trying to move ahead too fast.

Other people, however, think that children do better when they are in a mixed-level class. For one thing, children who are working at a higher level can serve as models for other children. They show the lower-level children what might be possible for them. Also, higher-level children can help others with their work. This provides them with challenges and reinforces their own learning.

I feel that the best method is to place children in mixed-level classes. A classroom filled with variety opens children's minds in many ways. In addition, no two children are exactly alike. Therefore, it is impossible to have a completely homogenous class, so why try to have one when you can have all the advantages of a mixed-level class?

There may be some advantages to having children study only with others of similar abilities, but I feel that there are many more advantages to studying in a mixed-level group.

Some people believe that the government should provide complete financial support to universities in order to make higher education available to all who want it. I completely support this opinion. Everyone benefits when more people are educated, and many deserving people are denied a university education because they cannot afford to pay for it.

Society as a whole benefits when more people are educated. Some people may complain about supporting others' education through the taxes they pay to the government. "Why should I pay my hard-earned money for someone else to go to school?" they may say. But the fact is that it is not only the individual who benefits from the education. A person who studies to become a doctor may save the life of someone you love. A person who studies to become an engineer may design roads and bridges that you use every day. There are endless examples. Educated people contribute important things to society, and we all benefit from it.

There are many smart and talented people who would benefit from a university education but cannot afford it. This is not fair. Higher education should not be available only to those who have enough money to pay for it. Then only a small, exclusive group would be able to become professionals while many other people would waste their talents and dreams on jobs that didn't interest them. Everybody who has the desire, skills, and talents to pursue a university education should be allowed to do so.

A university education should not be something that only wealthy people have the right to attain. Everyone, individuals as well as society as a whole, wins when higher education is made available to all.

- 1 ~~Far from being a sort of cruel jail for wild animals, zoos actually play an important role in animal conservation. Modern zoos keep their animals in large enclosures that resemble the natural habitat.~~ Zoos give people the opportunity to see animals up close and learn about their habits and needs. This helps people feel a connection with animals and helps them understand the importance of preserving wild habitat. It makes people more interested in supporting conservation efforts.
- 2 The most important reason why I chose to move to this neighborhood is its convenient location. It is close to my job, so I can walk to work when the weather is nice. There are two small grocery stores nearby, and the mall is just a short subway ride away. ~~Most of the houses are affordable, although a few are a bit expensive.~~ There is a gym one block from my house, which makes it very easy to get my daily exercise.
- 3 Spending too much time on the Internet can have a bad effect on children's health. Children need a lot of physical exercise to stay healthy. When they spend a lot of time online, however, they don't get physical exercise. Parents should encourage their children to turn off the computer and spend time outside playing physically active games. ~~Children can easily find information on the Internet that is not suitable for their young minds.~~
- 4 I can recommend several interesting things for you to do during your visit to this city. ~~This city is famous for its pleasant climate.~~ You won't want to miss a visit to the shopping district since our city is so famous for its stores. City Park is near there, has a beautiful garden, and is a nice place for a walk on a sunny day. I think you would also enjoy the history museum as it explains a lot of interesting facts about the city and region.

People have different ideas of what ~~sucess~~ success is. Some ~~belcive~~ believe that it means making a lot of money. Others feel that it means the ~~achievement~~ achievement of something important. In my ~~opinion~~ opinion, it means finding happiness. ~~Nowdays~~ Nowadays, people feel that they have to work long hours to make a lot of money. This makes them look successful in the eyes of ~~society~~ society. However, I don't think that it is ~~necessary~~ necessary to make a lot of money. Of course, money is nice, but there are other things that are more important.

PRACTICE 1 (PAGE 196)

1 oranges make delicious 2 juice. After harvesting, 3 the oranges are placed in 4 a washer. 5 The washer uses 6 water and 7 soap to clean 8 the oranges. 9 The soap is special food-grade soap. Next, 10 the oranges go to 11 an extractor, and 12 the extractor squeezes 13 the fruit.

PRACTICE 2 (PAGE 197)

Sample answer. Answers will vary.

First, fill a sink with warm water. Add soap to the water. Put dirty dishes in the water and let them soak for a few minutes. Next, scrub the dishes with a sponge and then rinse them in clean water. Let the dishes dry on a rack.

PRACTICE 3 (PAGE 199)

- 1 Speedy Talk Systems manufactures cell phones.
- 2 Most of the stores on the first floor of the mall sell clothing.
- 3 I thought that two hundred dollars was a low price for these shoes.
- 4 All the animals at City Zoo have been well cared for.
- 5 Everybody enjoys working at this place.
- 6 Bad news always spreads quickly.
- 7 The view from these windows is spectacular.

- 8 Prices always rise during the tourist season.
- 9 Eating at restaurants costs more than eating at home.
- 10 Pink sand covers the beaches of the island.
- 11 All of the people in this class are first-year students.
- 12 Chocolate comes from cacao beans.
- 13 Everything seems to happen at once.
- 14 Nobody was at the office last Saturday.
- 15 Ten dollars doesn't buy much these days.
- 16 Regular exercise helps you stay healthy.
- 17 Measles is an infectious disease.
- 18 The rents in this city have risen a lot in the past year.
- 19 Ice cream was my favorite dessert when I was young.
- 20 Collecting stamps is a hobby of mine.

In my opinion, talking on a cell phone while driving is dangerous. Therefore, it should be illegal for drivers to use cell phones. If it 1 is (be) illegal, then people 2 will have (have) to stop this dangerous habit. If some people 3 continue (continue) to use cell phones while driving, they 4 will have (have) to pay a fine. Nobody likes to pay a fine. I also think there should be education about the risks of this habit. People 5 will stop (stop) using cell phones while driving if they 6 understand (understand) how dangerous it is.

B

I think parents should send their children to preschool. There are many advantages to it. If a child 7 starts (start) school young, she 8 will learn (learn) to socialize with other children. She 9 won't have (not have) this opportunity if she 10 stays (stay) at home all day. Also, she 11 will learn (learn) many important skills if she 12 goes (go) to preschool. She will listen to stories, draw pictures, and have fun with blocks and other toys. These activities aren't just games. They help the child's brain develop. If a child 13 does (do) these things in school every day, it 14 will help (help) her later when it's time to learn to read and write.

PRACTICE 5 (PAGE 201)

I live in a small town. If I 1 lived (live) in a city, I 2 would have (have) many more opportunities. For example, cities have museums. If I 3 were (be) able to go to museums frequently, I 4 would learn (learn) a lot about history, science, and art. I also 5 would have (have) the chance to meet a wider variety of people if I 6 lived (live) in a city. In general, my life 7 would be (be) a lot more interesting if I 8 had (have) a home in the city.

PRACTICE 6 (page 202)

I didn't make my hotel reservation early. If I 1 had made (make) my reservation early, they 2 would have given (give) me a better room. As it was, the room they gave me was small, and the bed was lumpy. If the bed 3 had been (be) more comfortable, I 4 would have slept (sleep) better. Since I didn't sleep well, I got up late. I 5 would have had (have) time for breakfast if I 6 had gotten (get) up early. But, I didn't have time for breakfast, and I was hungry all morning. Next time, I will make my hotel reservation early.

PRACTICE 7 (PAGE 202)

Answers will vary.

PRACTICE 8 (PAGE 204)

- 1 The waiter who served us was very polite.

- 8 The local zoo, which is open 365 days a year, is always crowded on holidays.
Nonrestrictive

PRACTICE 9 (PAGE 204)

People 1 whose elderly parents are unable to care for themselves have a difficult choice to make. Will they care for their parents at home? Or will they put their parents in the hands of nursing home workers 2 who can provide them with care 24 hours a day? People 3 who have full-time jobs often don't have the time or energy to provide the needed care. On the other hand, nursing homes can be quite expensive, and nursing homes 4 which charge less may not provide excellent care. It is a difficult decision 5 that requires a lot of thought and discussion. If a family decides to use a nursing home, they should choose a home 6 that is pleasant, comfortable, and convenient to visit. And they should visit frequently. Nursing home residents 7 whose families visit them often live longer, happier lives.

PRACTICE 10 (PAGE 206)

- 1 We really enjoyed the meal that you prepared for us last night.
Restrictive
- 2 Our house, which we bought just three years ago, is too small for our growing family.
Nonrestrictive

Restrictive
- 7 Our city's subway system, which transports thousands of commuters daily, should be expanded.
Nonrestrictive
- 8 The man whose ideas we heard last night is an experienced city planner.
Restrictive

PRACTICE 11 (PAGE 206)

Acme Fashions, 1 which many people name as their favorite store, has some of the most stylish clothes in town. Unfortunately, the quality is not very high. The dress 2 that I bought there yesterday had a hole in the back and a stain near the hem. When I tried to return the dress to the store, the man 3 who I asked to assist me was very rude. He said I had damaged the dress myself. In my opinion, it is not good policy to treat your customers, 4 who you rely on to keep your business going, in this way. I cannot wear the damaged dress and I expect the store to return the money 5 that I spent on it. Otherwise, I will have to do my shopping somewhere else.

PRACTICE 13 (PAGE 208)

In the past, there weren't laws against smoking in public places. People 1 were exposed (expose) to cigarette smoke in stores and restaurants and on buses. In addition, cigarettes 2 were advertised (advertise) everywhere. People 3 were encouraged (encourage) to smoke. It 4 was considered (consider) a glamorous thing. Now we know that smoking can lead to serious health problems. Children 5 are taught (teach) about the dangers of smoking, and they 6 are protected (protect) from exposure to smoke. Smoking 7 is not permitted (not permit) in most public places. Cigarette ads 8 are not seen (not see) in magazines or on TV. Some people still smoke, but it is more difficult for them to do so.

PRACTICE 14 (PAGE 210)

- 1 Work and play are both important things to include in your life.
- 2 I like traveling, writing, and meeting new people.
- 3 Children learn foreign languages quickly and easily.
- 4 The teacher told the students to study hard, rest well before a test, and come to class on time.
- 5 At the zoo, they feed the animals once a day and bathe them once a week. (or At the zoo, the animals are fed once a day and bathed once a week.)
- 6 A subway carries many passengers, travels rapidly, and costs little to ride.
- 7 At my company, telecommuters are asked to check in with their boss daily and to submit a report at the end of the week.
- 8 The last time I took my car to the mechanic, the oil was changed, and the brakes were checked.

PRACTICE 15 (PAGE 212)

Sample answers. Answers will vary.

- 1 I enjoy reading, cooking, and gardening.
- 2 People shouldn't smoke because it causes cancer, harms the environment, and costs money.
- 3 People should use public transportation because it reduces air pollution and traffic congestion.
- 4 Some people don't use public transportation because they think it is inconvenient and expensive.
- 5 Zoos provide the public with the opportunity to see wild animals up close, learn about their habits, and understand the importance of protecting them.
- 6 Zoos take animals away from their life of freedom and lock them up in cages.

- 7 Teachers ask their students to pay attention in class, turn in their homework on time, and do their best.
- 8 I like my job because I can be creative and work on interesting projects.

PRACTICE 17 (PAGE 215)

- 1 Some neighborhoods are noisy and crowded, but others are quiet and clean.
- 2 I enjoy water sports, so I always spend my vacation at the beach.
- 3 You can have dinner alone, or I can cook for you.
- 4 I will move to a new apartment if I can find one closer to my job.
- 5 This neighborhood was quiet and peaceful before they built a large shopping mall nearby.
- 6 I usually eat at restaurants because I don't like to cook.
- 7 People like living in this city even though rents are high and crime is a growing problem.
- 8 Life in a small town is peaceful and quiet, but many young people move away because they can't find jobs.

PRACTICE 18 (PAGE 217)

Sample answers. Answers will vary.

- 1 Simple: You can see animals from all over the world in a zoo.
Compound: Some people don't like zoos, so they never visit them.
Complex: Scientists can study animals more easily when they study them in a zoo.
Compound-complex: Zoos are popular places, but I never visit them because I don't like to see animals in cages.
- 2 Simple: Physical education classes are part of the curriculum in many schools.
Compound: Physical education classes are important, but academic classes are more important.
Complex: Physical education classes are important because they teach children about competition.
Compound-complex: When children take physical education classes, they learn how to follow rules, and they get exercise at the same time.
- 3 Simple: I prefer life in a city to life in a small town.
Compound: Some people like city life, and others prefer small town life.
Complex: If I lived in a city, my life would be busy and stressful.
Compound-complex: Life in a small town is peaceful, but it can also be boring because there isn't much to do.

PRACTICE 19 (PAGE 219)

- 1 Telecommuting, which has become an increasingly popular way to work, is not favored by many supervisors.
- 2 When children start school at an early age, do they learn better?
- 3 Some people feel that physical education isn't as important as academics.
- 4 Children's interests change as they grow up.
- 5 After I got home, I noticed the stains on the jacket.
- 6 Clearly, people's ideas are influenced by things they see on TV and the Internet.
- 7 Some houses were heated with solar power, and others were heated with oil or gas.
- 8 What is the best age to begin foreign language study?
- 9 We had to go along with our parents' decision even though we didn't agree with it.
- 10 When I was a child, I wanted either a dog, a cat, or a parrot as a pet, but my parents wouldn't let me have one.
- 11 London, one of the biggest cities in the world, is a fascinating place to visit.
- 12 In the evening, you can visit one of our city's famous theaters.
